PREFACE.

To The Kindred:

In presenting this second volume of the Hammond Genealogies, the compiler wishes to beg pardon in advance for the errors which may be found in his work. He is aware that errors have crept in, but many of them are unavoidable in a work of the size. Different members of the same family have, in several instances, furnished conflicting dates of births, etc., and the compiler has been obliged to use his best judgment in reconciling these differences.

The work has been completed under almost unsurmountable difficulties, covering as it has a period of about twelve years, during which time the compiler has undergone rather more than the usual vicissitudes and trials of life.

The work has been as carefully and conscientiously done as possible, and he feels that he has preserved for future generations many records that would have been otherwise lost for all time.

Hoping and trusting that his work may prove a source of satisfaction and joy to those who are now living and to those who come after us, and that the publication may meet with sufficient support among the kindred to cover the cost of printing, I am

Very Sincerely Yours,

F. S. HAMMOND.

Oneida, N. Y., Jan. 1, 1904.

EXPLANATION.

The usual contractions, such as b. for born, bapt. for baptized, d. for died, m. for married, and r. for resides, residence or resided, have been used in this work.

Where the * follows the number on the margin of the page the name follows in its regular order in the family numbers; for instance, 2198*, Nathaniel, b. Sept. 10, 1733, appears on page 273. His marriage and family will be found under 2198 on page 286. This system of double numbering makes it convenient to follow any line forward or backward through the book without reference to the index.

For the English ancestry of Thomas Hammond, the early settler at Newton, Mass., whose descendants are given on the first 743 pages of this volume, the reader is referred to Vol. I, p. 50, of this work.

HAMMOND GENEALOGY.

PART I.

THOMAS HAMMOND,

OF NEWTON, MASS.

(I) THOMAS HAMMOND, son of William and Mary (——) Hammond, of Melford, England, and grandson of John and Agnes (——) Hammond, of Lavenham, England, was baptized at Melford, County of Suffolk, England, with his twin brother, John, Sept. 2, 1603. He was a first cousin of William Hammond, who settled in Watertown, Mass., in 1636.

He married in Lavenham, England, Nov. 12, 1623, Elizabeth Cason, b. in Great Whelnetham, a few miles north of Lavenham, before 1604, daughter of Robert and Prudence (Hammond) Cason. She was a grand-daughter of Robert and Elizabeth (——) Hammond, of Great Whelnetham.

Robert Hamond's will, dated Nov. 15, 1604, proved June 20, 1605, recorded at Bury St. Edmund's, (Coppinger, Folio 387,) gives to wife Elizabeth a tenement in Lawshall called "Hawkstreet," at her death to go to son Thomas, who is given a house in Lawshall, called "Powell."

To son John a farm at Great Whelnetham.

Mentions sons, Robert and William; daughters, Elizabeth, Anne, Grace and Ellen.

To daughter, Prudence, wife of Robert Cason, a legacy, and to granddaughter, Elizabeth Cason, one cow.

Also mentions grandson, George, son of his son, Robert, and granddaugter, Mary Hamond.

Makes his son, John Hamond, sole executor

It may have been this son, Robert Hammond, an uncle of Elizabeth (Cason) Hammond, who was in Scituate, Mass., owning land there while Thomas and Elizabeth were residents of Hingham.

Thomas Hammond was one of the first settlers in Hingham, Mass. Had land granted him therein 1636. Took the freeman's oath March 9, 1636-7.

He was on the grand jury in 1637. His two younger children were baptized in Hingham. The elder children were undoubtedly born in England, although the place of their birth has not been definitely ascertained.

Thomas Hammond, Vincent Druce, John Parker, Nicholas Hodgdon and John Winchester all settled in Hingham at about the same time; all of these removed from there and settled in the same neighborhood, near the boundary line between what are now the towns of Newton and Brookline, Mass.

Nicholas Hodgdon first purchased 67 acres of land on Cambridge Hill, which he sold Dec. 4, 1650, to Thomas Hammond and Vincent Druce, then of Hingham. They also bought 13 acres, granted by the town of Cambridge to Robert Bradish, and 16 acres in Muddy River, next to lands of John Parker. Hammond and Druce bought in 1658, of Thomas Brattle and others, 600 acres in Muddy River (now Brookline) called Royton farm, which they held in common for some years. The division was finally made as shown by his unsigned will. He probably removed to Cambridge Village (now Newton) about 1650, but held lands in Hingham for same years after that date. In 1652, he sold land there (Suffolk Deeds, folios 221-222) as follows:

EXTRACTS FROM DEED.

"To all Christian people to whom theis p'nts shall come, Thomas Hamond, of Hinghame, Newe England, planter, sendeth greeting: Know yee that I, the said Thomas Hamond, for and in consideracon of the some of ffive pounds tenne shillings sterling, to me in hand paid by Daniell Cushine, of the same, wheelwright, and for other valluable consideracons me thereunto moveing, wherewith I doe acknowledge myself fully satisfied and paid. * * * * To have and to hold said two p'cells of fresh meadowing, * * with all and singular their appertances unto said Daniell Cushine, his heires and assignes forever, and the only p'per use and behoofe of him, the said Daniel Cushine, his heires and assignes forever to be holden in free and common soccage, and not in Cappitte nor by Knight's service. * * *

In Witness whereof, I, the said Thomas Hamond, have to these p'nts sett my hand and Seale, The Twenty-Seaventh Day of May in the yere of our Lord One Thousand six hundred fifty & two.

(Signed) Thomas Hamond & a seale.

Sealed and dlive'd in the p'nce of Edmund Jackson, Steven Hawes, Nathaniel Sowther.

This sale of theis two p'cells of meadowe is done by the free consent of me, Elizabeth Hamond, wife unto Thomas Hamond.

(Signed) Elizabeth Hamond.

Acknowledged the seaven and Twentieth of the Third month by Thomas Hamond & Elizabeth, his wife, before me, Increase Nowell.

Entered and Ricorded 4 August, 1652.

(Signed) p Edward Rawson, Recdr.

In 1656, he sold lands in Hingham to William Sprague for £60. In the same year he bought of Esther Sparhawk, daughter of Nathaniel Sparhawk, 330 acres more of land, in Cambridge, for £40.

His homestead, in Newton, was near the Brookline boundary and near a beautiful sheet of water, which has since borne his name, "Hammond Pond." The homestead remained in the family several generations, Josiah Hovey Hammond, father of Mr. George W. Hammond, of the Forest Paper Co., having been the last of the race who was born there.

Thomas Hammond was one of the wealthiest men in town in his day. There seems to have been a close friendship between himself and Vincent Druce, but no relationship has been shown by any papers or records found.

He died in 1675, leaving an unsigned will which was admitted to probate, a copy of which is given below. It is found in Middlesex Probate, No. 7160.

WILL OF THOMAS HAMMOND.

I, Thomas Hamond, of Cambridge, County of Middlesex, in New England, being now aged, yet through the favor of God of sound judgement, do make and ordain my last will and testament in manner following, viz: My immortal soul I do commit and leave in the arms and mercy of God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

My body decently to be buried, at the discretion of my executors, and as for my outward estate, my will is that my just debts being paid, the remainder shall be divided in manner as follows, viz :

I give and bequeath unto my daughter, Elizabeth Woodward, and her heirs, 100 acres of land at the farm called Hodgdens Farms, belonging unto Muddy River ; one part of it being the 3d division for the meadow as appears by an indenture made the 20th day of June, 1664, for the division of the said farm betwixt the aforesaid Thomas Hamond and Vincent Druce, who were joint purchasers of the said farm, which division was in length from one side of the said farm over the great hill unto the other side of the farm, and is measured out to be 60 rods in breadth, which division contains 70 acres of land or thereabouts. Also 30 acres more which is not yet particularly divided out of another parcel of the same farm, which fell in division unto me, adjoining Roxbury line.

Also I give unto my daughter, Sarah Stedman, and to her heirs in the time of her life 100 acres of land.

I do confirm, give, grant and bequeath unto her two daughters, which she left behind her, viz.: Sarah Stedman and Elizabeth Stedman, the said 100 acres of land, viz.: One parcel of land running from one side of the farm over the great hill, being 60 rods in breadth and containing the sum of seventy acres, or thereabouts, which is called 2d division, and lyeth between the division given unto my daughter, Woodward, S. E. and N. E. upon Vincent Druce, and 30 acres to be out of that farm, part of my land aforementioned near unto the Roxbury line. These two parcels of land I do give and grant to be equally divided between the said Sarah and Elizabeth Stedman, my grandchildren, to have and to hold the said lands respectively to their heirs and assigns forever.

Also I do give unto my son, Thomas, the house he dwells in and the field that is fenced in on the lower side of the highway against the house of Vincent Druce and unto the great ditch, containing 5 acres or thereabouts.

Also unto my son, Nathaniel, I give unto him the house he dwells in, and all the upland adjoining with cranberry meadow adjoining the Pond unto troublesome swamp.

Also unto my beloved wife, Elizabeth Hamond, I give and bequeath during her life, my dwelling house, meadows, pasture on the N. E. side of the highway, from cranberry meadow unto the lands of Thomas Greenwood, Capt. Prentice, John Ward and Thomas Prentice.

Also I give unto my son, Nathaniel, all that my meadow commonly called Cambridge meadow ; and I give unto him also one-third part of that my meadow belonging unto the farm, and the rest unto my son, Thomas.

Furthermore : My will is that the cattle which shall be left after my wife's decease, shall be divided betwixt my two sons, and what moveables shall then remain to be parted equally betwixt my two sons and my daughter, Woodward.

Furthermore: I ordain my beloved wife to be sole executrix of this, my last will and testament.

Furthermore: My will is that my son, Nathaniel, have one third part of the fruit of the orchard with my son, Thomas, year by year until he has an orchard of his own, and use of the barn until his brother help him build one.

This writing was exhibited without date or subscription by Elizabeth Hamond, the relict, widow of the above named Thomas Hamond, deceased, the 5 of Nov., 1675, being in the handwriting of the said Hamond.

His inventory amounted to £1,139 16s 2d and was by Elder Wiswall and John Spring. It was dated Oct. 25, 1675, and states that he deceased Sept. 30, 1675. A family tradition relative to Elizabeth Cason, his wife, is given on p. 299 of Jackson's History of Newton and is as follows:

"It is said that when a young woman, in England, she took a walk with a party of young folks and went into the Mint to see how money was coined. The master of the Mint was pleased with her appearance and chat, and gave her an invitation to try her hand in the operation. She had evidently made some impression on him, and he was desirous to know if she could make as good an impression upon the coin; so he placed a piece of silver coin upon the die, about the size of a half crown—she came forward and grasped the lever and stamped a fair impression upon the coin, whereupon he presented her with the silver piece, which she bore off in triumph; and from her fair hand it has passed through those of her descendants, to the seventh generation, and is now (1854) possessed by Stephen Hammond, of Roxbury, whose son, William, of the eighth, is looking wishfully for it."

This coin is now (1902) in the possession of Mr. George W. Hammond, of Yarmouthville, Me.

Children:

2* 1. THOMAS, b. about 1630.
3* 2. ELIZABETH, b. about 1633-4.

(II) THOMAS HAMMOND, (Thomas[1]) b. in England about 1630; d. Newton, Mass., Oct. 20, 1678, of small-pox; m. Dec. 17, 1662, Elizabeth Stedman, whose birth and parentage has not been learned. She was probably a sister of Nathaniel Stedman, who married his sister, Sarah Hammond. She d. in Newton, Mass., in 1715.

Thomas was a farmer on the estate left him by his father.

But few papers appear in the settlement of the estate, (Middlesex Probate No. 7160½) there being only the inventory and a petition for the appointment of his widow as administratrix as noted below.

(II) ELIZABETH HAMMOND, (Thomas[1]) b, England, about 1633-4; d —— —, ——; m. 1st, August 17, 1659, George Woodward, b. in England in 1619; d. Watertown, Mass., May 31, 1676, son of Richard and Rose (——) Woodward, who were among the first settlers in Watertown, Mass.

She was his second wife. He had by wife, Mary (——), eight children, Mary, Sarah, Amos, Rebecca, John, Susanna, Daniel and Mercy, not in the Hammond line. He had a daughter, Sarah, by each wife, both living at the same time, though Sarah, the elder, was grown up and married some years prior to the birth of Sarah, the younger.

George Woodward came to America with his parents in 1634, then aged 15 years. He was admitted freeman in Watertown, Mass., May 6, 1646. He was Selectman in 1674. Adm. was granted on his estate June 20, 1676, to widow, Elizabeth, and son, Amos.

Elizabeth (Hammond) Woodward inherited 100 acres of land in the bounds of Brookline, Mass., by will of her father, Nov. 5, 1675.

She m. 2d Samuel Truesdale, Sen. She was his second wife.

Children:

13. 1. GEORGE, (Woodward) b. Sept. 11, 1660; m. Dec. 31, 1686, Lydia Brown, of Watertown, Mass.; five children. He d. in 1696.
14. 2. THOMAS, (Woodward) b. Sept. 15, 1662; d. 1666.
15. 3. ELIZABETH, (Woodward) b. May 8, 1664; m. Dec. 7, 1693, Samuel Eddy.
16. 4. NATHANIEL, (Woodward) b. 1666; d. May 28, 1668.
17. 5. SARAH, (Woodward) b. Oct. 3, 1675; m. July 6, 1693, John Eddy. After his death she m. Isaiah Whitney and removed to Lexington, Mass.

4

(II) SARAH HAMMOND, (Thomas[1]) bapt. Hingham, Mass., Sept. 13, 1640; d. before 1675; m. —— —, ——, Nathaniel Stedman, of Brookline, Mass. His birth and parentage has not been ascertained, but he was probably a brother of Elizabeth Stedman, who m. her brother, Thomas Hammond.

Little can be learned about her children, except that which is found in the will of her father, in 1675.

Children:

18. 1. SARAH, (Stedman) b. ——.
19. 2. ELIZABETH (Stedman) b. ——.

(II) NATHANIEL HAMMOND, (Thomas[1]) bapt. Hingham, Mass., March 12, 1643; d. Newton, Mass., May 29, 1691, aged 48 years, (gravestone;) m. about 1670, Mary Griffin, b. about 1650, (bapt. with several other children of Richard and Mary Griffin, in Roxbury, Mass., May 17, 1657,) dau. of Richard and Mary (——) Griffin, the early settlers in Roxbury, Mass. She m. 2d Capt. Isaac Williams, of Newton, Mass. She had a brother, Joseph Griffin, who adm. her father's estate.

"At a Court held in Boston, by adjournment, March 28, 1680, Adm. on the estate of Richard Griffin, sometime of Muddy River, dec'd, intestate, formerly under the administration of Mary his relict, now also dec'd, is granted to Joseph Griffin, his son." (Suffolk Court Records, Vol. 9, p. 1.)

An ancient note book kept by Nathaniel Hammond, Jr., is still in existence and is now (1902) in possession of a descendant, Mr. George Warren Hammond, of Yarmouthville, Me. It contains many valuable records relating to early Newton families and is relied upon to prove, without a question of doubt, who his mother really was. So much doubt has been entertained on this point in the past that the author has taken pains to copy a few entries from this very interesting and ancient book. The following are among the earlier entries and may be taken to prove the connection conclusively. Under date of Feb. 23, 1711-12, the entry is as follows:

Then reckoned with my unkol, Joseph Griffin, and paid for his son's work, the year ending June 12, 1711.

There is also an entry of money paid to Benjamin Griffin, probably the son.

August 1, 1712, Paid to my onkel, Joseph Griffin, four pounds.

May 25, 1713, Then reckoned with my unkol, Joseph Griffin; due to him ten pounds, seven shillings.

August 31, 1700, James Trowbridge, Thomas Oliver and John Staples, a "committee appointed by Hon. James Russell, Esq., Judge of Probate for the County of Middlesex, for dividing the estate of Nathaniel Hammond, late of Newtowe," report the following division:

To the widdow for her thirds	£170-02-6
To the eldest son, Nathaniel Hammond, for his duboll share	85-02-6
To Thomas Hammond, the second son	42-11-3
To eldest daughter, Mary Hammond	42-11-3
To second daughter, Sarah Hammond	42-11-3
To the third daughter, Elizabeth Hammond,	42-11-3
To the fourth daughter, Easter Hammond	42-11-3
To Hannah Hammond, youngest daughter	42-11-3
The sum to all is	£510-15-8

May 6, 1702, Nathaniel and Thomas Hammond, Samuel Truesdale and Elizabeth, his wife, Samuel Prentice and Esther, his wife, Mary and Sarah Hammond, children of Nathaniel Hammond, late of Newton, agreed that the share of their sister, Hannah, deceased, in her minority, should go to their brother, Thomas. In this agreement they mention "Mary Williams, our mother, widow of our father, Nathaniel Hammond."

Children:

20. 1. MARY, b. Dec. 15, 1672; un-m. in 1702.
21. 2. SARAH, b. Oct. 3, 1675; un-m. in 1702.
22* 3. NATHANIEL, b. July 26, 1678.
23* 4. ELIZABETH, b. March 11, 1682-3.
24* 5. ESTHER, b. ————, 1684.
25* 6. THOMAS, b. Feb. 27, 1686.
26. 7. HANNAH, b. March 31, 1689; d. Sept. 20, 1700.

(III) ELIZABETH HAMMOND, (Thomas[2]) b. Newton, Mass., Nov. 3, 1664; d. Newton, Mass., Feb. 1, 1733; m. April 18, 1682, Thomas Chamberlain, b. Feb. 20, 1658-9; d. Newton, Mass., 1724, son of William and Rebecca (——) Chamberlain, of Billerica, Mass. He purchased land in Newton of Isaac and Ann Hammond in 1693 and 1694. Was executor of John Clark's will in 1695. He already owned a homestead in Newton, which he purchased of Nathaniel Hammond, on July 6, 1688.

There appears to have been a connection between the families previous to his marriage, as on March 25, 1650, the proprietors of Cambridge gave a deed of land in Shawshine (Billerica) and among them "William Chamberline" signed for "Thomas Hammond's lott." (Middlesex Deeds, Vol. 4, p. 159.)

Children:

27. 1. THOMAS, (Chamberlain) b. Sept. 10, 1683.
28. 2. ELIZABETH, (Chamberlain) b. Aug. 1, 1686; m. 1717, George Allen.
29. 3. REBECCA, (Chamberlain) b. March 14, 1689; m. (?) Dec. 12, 1727, Samuel Gridley, of Lebanon, Conn.
30. 4. MARY, (Chamberlain) b. Jan. 20, 1693.
31. 5. SARAH, (Chamberlain) b. Oct. 18, 1695; d. 1750-5; m. 1730, Eleazer Chamberlain, of Brookline, Mass. Three children. He inherited the Thomas Chamberlain homestead, in Newton, and m. for his 3d wife Patience Hammond, dau. of Eleazer and Hannah (Harrington) Hammond.
32. 6. JOHN, (Chamberlain) b. Sept. 26, 1698.

(III) THOMAS HAMMOND, (Thomas[2]) b. Newton, Mass., Dec. 16, 1666; d. Newton, Mass., —— —, 1720; m. 1st, June 15, 1693, Mehitable Very, of Boston, b. ———; d. —— —, 1704, dau. of ———. M. 2d, August 8, 1705, Mary Bacon, of Roxbury, b. ———; d. ———.

Jackson's history of Newton and Bond's history of Watertown both give the date of his death as "March 15, 1738, aged 72 years," but an examination of Middlesex Probate Records shows that Adm. was granted on his estate in 1720, and that a bond was given July 14, 1721, signed by Caleb Hammond, Ebenezer Hammond and Nathaniel Hammond. The estate appears to have been held until Feb. 24, 1755, when it was appraised by Deacon John Stone and Thomas Greenwood and commissioners appointed to divide the property. The commissioners, Thomas Greenwood, John Stone and James Ward, reported to the court under date of March 18, 1755.

"Having thus perfected the Inventory we are of the opinion that to distribute the same will be predudicial to the whole. We have therefore set the whole of the foregoing pieces of land and part of the dwelling house on John Hammond, said deceast oldest son, in paying to Thomas Hammond, Caleb Hammond, Mehitable Petty, the wife of James Petty, and Mary Benjamin, the wife of Samuel Benjamin, four of said deceased children, as also to the heirs of legal representatives of the children of Samuel Hammond deceast, as your Honor shall order." (Middlesex Probate No. 7161.)

Thomas was at one time a Selectman in Newton. He was a farmer and the owner of considerable land there.

Children by 1st wife:

33. 1. MEHITABLE, b. Jan. 29, 1695; m. James Petty.
34* 2. JOHN, b. May 16, 1696.
35* 3. THOMAS, b. July 10, 1698.
36* 4. CALEB, b. July 4, 1700.

By 2d wife:

37* 5. MARY, b. May 13, 1707.
38* 6. SAMUEL, b. July 9, 1709.

8

(III) ISAAC HAMMOND, (Thomas[2]) b. Newton, Mass., Dec. 20, 1668; d. Newton, Mass., Jan. 1, 1715; m. Dec. 7, 1692, Ann Kenrick, b. July 3, 1672; d. —— —, 1719, dau. of Elijah and Hannah (Jackson) Kenrick, of Newton, Mass.

He was a farmer in Newton, Mass. Adm. on his estate was granted to his widow, Ann, in 1715, and she was appointed guardian of children; Josiah, in his 20th year; Elizabeth, in her 17th year; Jonathan, in his 15th year.

These three of their own accord; and by special appointment of the judge of Elijah, in his 8th year; and Esther, in her 11th year. Appraisers on the estate: John Staples, John Spring, Thomas Hammond, Nathaniel Hammond and William Trowbridge. (Middlesex Probate No. 7150.) Widow, Ann, left a will dated 1719.

Children:

39. 1. MARGARET, b. August 25, 1694.

(III) ELEAZER HAMMOND (Thomas[2]) b. Newton, Mass., Nov. 13, 1677; d. Newton, Mass., —— —, 1760; m. April 29, 1703, Hannah Harrington, b. August 9, 1682; d ——, 1775, dau. of John and Hannah (Winter) Harrington, of Watertown, Mass.

He was Selectman in Newton in 1741.

The will of Wid. Hannah, (Middlesex Pobate, No 7148,) dated April 4, 1764, mentions son, Ephraim, daus., Patience Chamberlain, Hannah Green, Abigail Harrington, Susanna Fulham, Lydia Hammond, and grand-daughter, Lydia Hammond. As both her son, Eleazer, and dau., Lydia, had daus. named Lydia Hammond, it is uncertain which was meant, but as her son, Eleazer, had probably already received his share of the estate, this was probably the dau. of John and Lydia Hammond. Son-in-law, Eleazer Chamberlain, Exec.

His will, (Middlesex Probate, No. 7143,) dated May 1, 1760, gives to wife, Hannah, household goods, except those given to daughter, Patience Hammond, all corn and grain in house at time of his decease, use of two cows to be kept for her on homestead, one third of all grain and produce of the farm from year to year, "also my Riding Chair" and disposal of a horse to be kept on farm for her, cider, apples and firewood to be cut and laid at her door. "I give her the liberty to have a swine to go and feed about my house during her natural life." Also use of part of house.

To son, Eleazer Hammond, and his heirs, £5.

To daughter, Hannah Green, £13.

To daughter, Abigail Harrington, £14, 15s.

To daughter, Patience Hammond, largest brass kettle, one brass skillet, one iron pot, one iron kettle, one pair hand irons, an iron trammel, one pair tongs, one fire shovel and £70.

To daughter, Susannah Fulham, £13.

To daughter, Lydia Hammond, £13.

To grandson, Richard Roberts, £2, 13s, 4d.

To granddaughter, Elizabeth Dean, £2, 13s, 4d.

To son, Ephraim Hammond, residue of estate.

Son, Ephraim, sole executor.

Signed with his X mark and a seal.

Witnesses, Jonas Meriam, Ephraim Ward and Thomas Greenwood.

Nov. 20, 1760, certificate of Richard Harrington and Francis Fulham that they are satisfied with the provisions of the will.

Nov. 29, 1760, citation of Hannah Green, Patience Hammond, John Hammond and his wife, Lydia, signed by Ephraim Hammond.

Dec. 1, 1760, satisfaction of dau. Hannah, signed with her X mark. Bond of Ephraim Hammond with John Clarke and Eleazer Chamberlain as sureties.

(III) LIEUT. THOMAS HAMMOND, (Nathaniel[2]) b. Newton, Mass., Feb. 27, 1686; d. Newton, Mass., March 15, 1753; m. 1st. Dec. 30, 1714, his cousin, Sarah Griffin, of Roxbury, Mass., b. ———. She d. Sept. 30, 1732, and he m. 2d, May 23, 1734, Anna Longley, b. 1707; d. March —, 1758, by whom he had no children. Little can be learned about his military service, but he probably acquired his title of Lieutenant by service in a local militia company, as the only record found of his service is on the Muster Roll, sworn to Nov. 2, 1748, in His Majesty's service, under command of Capt. John

Cutting. Entered service Sept. 24; served until Sept. 26. Length of service three days. The company consisted of a troop of horse called out on an alarm at Boston. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 92, p. 38.)

Both Jackson and Bond give him four children by his second wife, but this is an error, as these children are not mentioned in either his will or that of his widow, Anna, and they were undoubtedly the children of Thomas Hammond, Jr., and Ann Farley, his wife. His will is found in Middlesex Probate, No. 7162. Will dated Jan. 22, 1747-8; Probated March 26, 1753.

It. To Anna, beloved wife, estate she brought me at marriage, and the sum of £50. She to be maintained by my son, Joseph, for one year after my death.

It. Books to be equally divided amongst my children.

It. My land in "Pomphrit" to be divided amongst all of my children; son, Joseph, to have two-eighths part thereof, the remainder to be equally divided between six daughters.

It. To 6 daughters, Sarah Parker, Elizabeth Miller, Eunice Parker, Martha Hammond and Hannah Hammond, 1 gold necklace, 2 gold rings, 1 silver cup, 3 silver spoons, 1 silver snuff box, and a silver chain for "sizers," to be divided equally.

It. To daus., Martha, Hannah and Esther, all household goods except books.

It. To dau., Sarah Parker, £35, besides what she has already had. To daus., Elizabeth Miller and Eunice Parker, the same.

It. To daus., Martha, Hannah and Esther, £75 each.

It. Son, Joseph, all the residue of estate.

Names Thomas Greenwood and son, Joseph, Exec.

Consent of his heirs for proving will, dated March 21, 1753, is signed Josiah Parker, Sarah Parker, Thomas Parker, Eunice Parker, Samuel Miller, Jun., Elizabeth Miller, John Shattuck, Martha Shattuck, Thomas Greenwood, Esther Greenwood, Hannah Hammond.

Consent of his widow, undated, is signed with her mark. Bond of Joseph Hammond, Exec., Thomas Greenwood, surety, dated March 26, 1753.

The will of his widow, Anna, Middlesex Probate, No. 7140, dated July 13, 1757; Probated April 10, 1758, gives:

To niece, Sarah Frost, of Shatford, £2-13-6.

To Edward Shephard, son of Thomas Shephard, of Boston, £1-6-8.

To Anna Shephard, dau. of same, "my gold necklace." Provides that moneys, necklace, &c., given to Edward, Thomas and Anna Shepard, be put into the hands of Mrs. Sarah Cousin, wife of Capt. John Cousin, to be held until they come of age.

To Sarah Cousin, dau. of Capt. John Cousin, of Boston, £13-6-8.

To Ephraim Osburn, of Charlestown, £1-6-8; to Jane, his dau., the same.

To Jonathan Fuller, "who was brought up in my family," the same.

To Sarah Greenwood, dau. of Josiah Greenwood, a silver spoon to be marked A. H. to S. G.

To Anna Stowel, of Pomfret, 13s.

To Anna Cook, wife of Rev. Mr. Samuel Cook, of Cambridge, £2.

To Capt. John Cousin and Sarah, his wife, each a mourning ring.

To Mrs. Mary Colton, widow, a gold ring.

To Henry Gibbs, Esq., of Newton, my executor, and his wife, each a mourning ring.

To Henry Gibbs, as token of my friendship, £6.

"My will is that Mehitable Coddington have the use of my great Bible during her natural life, and at her decease it go to Thomas Shephard, Jr. If he be not living then to Anna Shephard."

"Whereas, I brought up the said Mehitable Coddington from an infant," &c., and leaves her £6-13-4, on condition that she lives with her until her death. She also leaves her all of her wearing apparel with the same proviso, except a gown which is to go to "daughter-in-law, (step-daughter) Martha Shattuck."

The remainder of estate to Mehitable Coddington and Anna Shephard, equally. Appoints Henry Gibbs executor. The will is witnessed by Josiah Greenwood, Josiah Cook and Sarah Greenwood.

Benjamin Hammond was one of the most prominent men of the locality in his day, both in civil and military life. He was Selectman from 1767 to 1776, and held many of the town offices after the close of the war. His assessment was one of the largest in Newton. After the death of his wife he went to Rutland to live with his daughter, Mrs. Read.

Benjamin Hammond's military experience extended over a period of many years. The earliest record that has been found, is that of a Newton Co. of Militia, Dec. 29, 1763, "Col. Wm. Brattle; Capt. James Stone; Lieut. Benjaman Hammond; Ensign, John Kenrick."

A pay roll of the field and staff officers of Col. Thomas Gardner's Regt. of militia that marched in consequence of the alarm on the 19th of April, 1775:

Josiah Johnson, Jonas Dix } Comtee

In Council March 14, 1776, Recd. & allowed & ordered that a Warr[t] be drawn on the Treas[r], for £16, 14, 11 in full of this Roll.

PEREZ MORTEN, D. Secty.

(Mass. Muster Rolls, Book 26, p. 191.)

He was Lieut. Col. in Col. Wm. McIntosh's Regt. at Roxbury and Boston in April, 1778. (Mass. Muster Rolls, Book 26, p. 194.)

He was Lieut. Col. in Col. Samuel Thatcher's Regt., at Dorchester Heights, in 1776; 1st, Middlesex County Regt. sent to re-inforce Gen. Heath. (Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in Rev.)

At the time of the breaking out of the Revolution he was Captain of the Newton Company. He had trained his men to handle a cannon. They were to assemble at the Centre if the cannon was fired. On the alarm of April 19, 1775, Capt. Benjamin was working in his field when the alarm was given. Before the men had all assembled, Sergt. Jackson started with a part of the Company. Capt. Benjamin, armed with a sword, holsters and a small flint lock gun, overtook the Company and assumed command, skirmishing on the way to Lexington.

Col. Benjamin Hammond was an active Revolutionist, from the commencement of the troubles with the Mother Country.

In March, 1773, he was appointed on a committee, town of Newton, "to confer with the inhabitants about leaving off buying or selling India tea." (Jackson's Hist. Newton, p. 180.)

In Sept., 1774, Captain Benjamin Hammond was on a committee to prepare instructions, relative to the trouble, to the Representative the General Court. (Jackson's Hist. Newton, p. 183.)

Jan. 2, 1775, Major Benjamin Hammond was one of a committee instructed to raise another Company of Militia. (Jackson's Hist. Newton, p. 183.)

In March, 1780, Col. Benjamin Hammond was one of a committee appointed to raise men for the war. (Jackson's Hist. Newton, p. 195.)

He was also chairman of a committee to purchase beef for the army, in 1779, 1780 and 1781. His account books, which are still extant and in possession of one of his descendants, are well kept and show expenditures for beef, in 1780, £12,270, and in 1781, of £12,761-15-10.

A great many of his papers are now in possession of the author of this work. These include receipts, copies of legal papers and notes. Some of these contain very valuable genealogical material, and there are many valuable autographs of residents of Newton and vicinity.

He was a farmer in Charlton, on the farm since possessed by his descendants in the Ward line. One of his daughters appears to have married a Percy (or Perry) and to have died April 30, 1813. Her given name does not appear.

David's grand-daughter, Mrs. Ruth (Ward) Dodge, now (1902) living in Spencer, Mass., aged 92 years, says that "one daughter married a Clapp; one married Benjamin Muzzy, and one married a Livermore; that all three of these lived and died in Jamaca, Vt."

It has not been learned which of these daughters married Muzzy, or which married Livermore.

There must have been another daughter, name now unknown.

(V) ANNA HAMMOND, (Col. Benjamin[4]) b. Newton, Mass., Dec. 16, 1754; d. Spencer, Mass., July 14, 1859; m. Oct. 9, 1777, Rev. Joseph Pope, b. Pomfret, Conn., Sept. 28, 1745; d. Spencer, Mass., March 8, 1826.

He Grad. Harvard Coll. 1770; taught Latin at Worcester a year; was ordained at Spencer, Oct. 20, 1773. During a part of the time that the Revolutionary army was stationed at Dorchester and the vicinity of Boston, he was chaplain of a company of Spencer men in the army, all of whom were members of his parish. While engaged in this duty he was introduced by his friend, Dr. Spring, to Miss Hammond, with whom he was much pleased. It is said that while on his way to Newton to propose to her he overtook Dr. Spring, who was traveling that way with the same intent. The situation was delicate and preplexing, but Dr. Spring generously said,

"Brother Pope, you have a parish and I have none; I give way to you," and the lady was wooed and won by Mr. Pope. Mrs. Pope was a remarkable woman. She retained her mental faculties in a remarkable degree until the end of her long life.

When she completed her hundredth year her friends met with her to celebrate the event, and the following Sunday she attended church with them, wearing a bonnet and cloak which she had made herself.

She died at the remarkable age of one hundred and four years, six months and twenty-eight days. The funeral sermon, delivered by Rev. S. G. Dodd, contains the following interesting passages:

"She loved to dwell on the scenes and incidents of the Revolutionary struggle. Her father, Col. Benjamin Hammond, of Newton, was in the battle of Lexington. With much emotion she was wont to speak of her feelings as she followed after him as he rode away from home to join the troops, and of the thrill she experienced when, after the battle, she saw him coming down the road again unharmed."

"From her father's house she heard the firing at Bunker Hill, and saw the hot balls flying in the air at night from Boston to the American lines."

"When speaking of the world-famed destruction of an obnoxious article of import in Boston harbor, I inquired: did you not feel sorry that so much of so costly a substance was destroyed? Straightening herself up in her chair, and looking at me with earnest eyes, from which the spirit of '76 shone, she replied emphatically, bringing down her cane upon the floor, —— no, sir! we had lost our appetites."

(VI) Moses Winchester Hammond, (Thomas[5]) b. Newton, Mass., June 6, 1799; d. Philadelphia, Pa., —— —, 1886, m. —— —, 1832, Anna Barbara O'Briest, b ———. When he came of age he left the Shakers, and went to Philadelphia, Pa., taking his youngest brother and sister with him. About 1840 he began manufacturing toys and novelties. He was the pioneer manufacturer of articles of this kind in the United States. The business is continued under the name of J. T. Hammond & Son, by his son and grandson.

He had strong literary tendencies, and spent the latter part of his life, after his retirement from active business, in literary work which is unpublished. He was a man of sterling integrity and great strength of character. Mr. Stephen Hammond, under date of Feb. 20, 1880, in speaking of this family, said, "I remember when they went, and one boy, Moses, left the Shakers. He came to mother's, and when he found that father was a son of Benjamin Hammond, of Newton, he said that he destroyed a boat belonging to Benjamin when he was still in Newton and he desired to make amends for it and gave mother some brooms, etc." This shows the sterling honesty of the man, and is a good index of his character.

Charles went to Philadelphia, Pa., with his brother Moses W. and sister Sarah. He started a small business manufacturing edge tools, hammers, etc., at a place called Darby on Cobb's Creek, about six miles from Philadelphia and in 1843 or 1844 removed his business to the present town of Ogontz, then called Shoemakertown. At the time of his removal he had but a small business but by untiring energy, progressive methods and splendid business qualifications he established a reputation for his goods which today stand second to none in the market, and at the time of his death had amassed a comfortable fortune. The business was continued by his son Charles Hammond, Jr., who completely rebuilt the plant and increased the facilities for turning out large quantities of goods.

The large plant is now worked to its full capacity and is conducted by Mrs. Emma L. Hammond, widow of Charles Hammond, Jr., and her brother Charles H. Culin. Mr. Hammond was a man of sterling integrity, a believer in doing well every thing which he undertook and to this trait of character is due the world wide reputation of the Hammond edge tools turned out by the works which he established.

(VII) George Warren Hammond, (Josiah H.[6]) was born in Grafton, Mass., April 4, 1833.

Grafton is one of the older New England towns, from which sound principles, civil and religious, have spread over the land.

The boy attended the fine district and high schools of the town, and had the advantage of a winter term at MacGoun's Grammar School in Cambridge, fully qualified by the training he received to teach the Williams District School at Uxbridge, Mass., in the winter of 1851-52.

Selecting the commercial, rather than the classical life, he entered, July 1, 1852, Howe & Leeds Wholesale West India Goods Store on Long Wharf, Boston, and after nine months of service, became a clerk in the wholesale dry goods store of J. W. Blodgett & Co.

Being offered by his uncle, Mr. S. D. Warren, a position in the Cumberland Mills, Me., he remained there twenty-two years. After four years a clerk, he became superintendent, and in five years the agent of that famous paper mill, a position which he held for about thirteen years. In addition to his work at Cumberland Mills, another enterprise of S. D. Warren & Co., the Forest Paper Co., (Soda Fibre,) Yarmouth, Me., was started Nov. 1, 1874. In January, 1876, he left Cumberland Mills, and devoted himself to the Yarmouth mill, as agent.

In the latter position he is at present agent, having greatly enlarged the plant, assisted by able young men, trained under his hand.

When Mr. Hammond began his industrial life, being twenty years old, (1853,) the mechanical arts were in their initial stage as compared with present methods. Business of all kinds was a different thing in scope and range. It was a period of conservatism rather than expansion. Industrial processes then would be crude now. Machinery was of what may be called the hereditary type.

But the days of inventive skill were near at hand, and our young mechanic was alive to the opportunities afforded by the wise foresight, ample resources, and readiness in experiment of the company which he served. He had a grand field for observation and the trial of his powers. His courage was sufficient for undertaking difficult problems and he handled new schemes with dexterity.

A young man of correct habits, untiring industry, and prompt in executing, he gave himself with absolute devotion to business and to unvarying punctuality in its pursuit. He acquainted himself with all the details of manufacturing and quickly grasped all the valuable hints and ideas presented from any source. He was always sanguine of success. He lost no time if an enterprise promised well, and with a strong confidence in his theories, coupled with a will to advance and prove them correct, he took chances where others might have hesitated and lost.

If the utility of an idea appealed to him, he accepted it for that reason, and not because somebody else had suggested or attempted it. If he failed he was always ready to try again.

The firm of S. D. Warren & Co. having been his pride from his earliest connection with it, his devotion to its interests was always supreme. That firm has always been noted for its care of its employees. The Cumberland Mills have been, from the first, a model in this respect. Call it philanthropy or policy, as you please, Mr. Hammond has followed this model throughout his entire career. Yarmouth is a village of contented workmen, happy homes, with strikes at a discount, and social and religious life prominent among other sources of the laborer's contentment.

Not satisfied with success in his industrial calling, Mr. Hammond has never declined to undertake public tasks, and has performed them with public spirit, many of them without recompense, regardless of toil.

In educational matters he has held various important offices. As trustee he was connected with the Thatcher Grammar School, Associates Fund, Westbrook, Maine, (1872-77); he was elected trustee of Gorham Academy, Jan. 20th, 1872; of North Yarmouth Academy, June 28th, 1890, and President of the Board, June 30th, 1895. Bowdoin College conferred upon him the degree of A. M. in 1900.

His taste has led him into the gentler paths of Flora and Horticulture, so that his rare knowledge of trees and plants, obtained from personal observation, rather than from a botanical standpoint, has won for him the distinction of a place on the Overseers' Committee to visit the Botanic Gardens and Herbarium of Harvard College, (Oct. 10th, 1888-97), and on the Overseers' Committee to visit the Gray Herbarium, (Harvard.)

In town and state affairs he began as Justice of the Peace and Quorum in 1858, and was elected a member of the Maine Legislature from Westbrook, (1868-69 and '69-70.) The Hon. T. B. Reed was a fellow representative at that time. Mr. Hammond became one of the Selectmen of Westbrook for the years 1872 and 1873, and was Chairman of the Water Committee of Yarmouth 1895-1902. He has been appointed Chairman of the Trustees of the Merrill Memorial Library of Yarmouth.

His record of Masonic orders and honors is as follows:
Temple Lodge, Westbrook, Feb. 28th, 1866.
Eagle Royal Arch Chapter, Westbrook, June 11th, 1866.
Scribe Eagle Royal Arch Chapter, Westbrook, 1868.

Council of the Princes of Jerusalem, March 24th, 1870.
Chapter of Rose Croix, Feb. 22nd, 1872.
Consistory, Feb. 15th, 1873.

The following list of his memberships in societies and clubs is sufficient evidence of his reputation as a mechanical engineer, as a lover of History, Genealogy, and the Arts, and as an enthusiast in Horticulture and Natural History:

American Pulp and Paper Asso.

Vice President Am. Pulp and Paper Asso., 1899 and 1900.

Mr. Hammond was married Oct. 15, 1874, to Miss Ellen S. S. Clarke, daughter of Rev. Dorus and Hannah Alvord (Bliss) Clark. Miss Clarke was the sister-in-law of Mr. S. D. Warren, and the artistic home, ("The Camp,") in Yarmouthville, of Mr. and Mrs. Hammond, reveals the charming life of a man whose busy hours have not been allowed to encroach on the pleasures of a refined culture and the duties of a generous hospitality.

That a conscientious purpose has been the golden thread on which his life's works have been strung, we see in his affiliations with Christian Churches and their various benevolent organizations. Uniting with the Congregational Church, Grafton, Mass., at the age of seventeen, (1850,) whenever he changed his place of abode he took a letter to the local church. Becoming a member of the Mt. Vernon Church, Boston, March 6th, 1853; of the Congregational Church, Sacarappa, Maine, August 2nd, 1857; of the Warren Congregational Church, Cumberland Mills, Maine, Sept. 30th, 1869. In this church he served as deacon from 1869 to 1876. He was also the Superintendant of the Sunday School at Sacarappa, and of the Warren Church, 1869-70.

His judicious benevolence in philanthropic and religious lines has one record in the life membership of A. B. C. F. M.

On March 25th, 1884, being a friend and admirer of Phillips Brooks, he united with Trinity Church, Boston, of which he is still a member.

In conclusion a friend may be allowed to write of him,

> "In deeds, not words, the man is known,
> When good men claim him for their own."

Mr. and Mrs. Hammond have no children.

He received his early education at Charlton and in Munson Academy; entered Yale College in 1856, graduating in 1860; entered Berkeley Divinity School at Middletown, Conn., and took his orders in June, 1862.

He at once entered upon his pastorate at Grace Chapel, Yantic, Conn., removing to Ansonia in 1864 to take charge of Christ Church, and in 1865 to Cheshire, Conn., where he had charge of St. Peter's parish. In December, 1867, he removed to Maine, where he was engaged in missionary work at Thomaston and Rockland and as Chaplain of the Maine State Prison until 1875, when he returned to his native State and took charge of St. Michael's parish at Marblehead. From Marblehead he went to Boston, where he lectured in Union Hall Sunday afternoons for three years, being engaged in literary work in the meantime.

He was on the editorial staff of the Boston Herald some years, and an editorial writer on the leading newspapers and magazines until his death. He had great literary ability and was a recognized authority on religious, social and labor questions. He was the author of "Life and Letters of J. G. Percival," "The Church in Modern Society," (which attracted considerable attention), "The White Mountains," "The Life of Bishop White," &c. He covered a large field and tilled it well. Always a great lover of books he knew no peace unless his desires were gratified, and two or three years prior to his death was said to have owned the third largest private library in New England.

Mrs. Ward still survives and resides with her daughter.

NOTE.

(IV) Thomas Hammond, b. Newton, Mass.; d. ———; m. April 10, 1734, Ann Farley, b. ———.

Who this Thomas Hammond was does not appear. Jackson and Bond both give the following children to Thomas (———) and second wife, Ann Longley, but neither the wills nor the settlements of the estates of either show but the one son, Joseph, and his sisters. There seems to be a connection between this family and that of Nathaniel Hammond, who married Sarah Farley and settled in Stoughton.

Children :

1. Aaron, b. Jan. 9, 1735.
2. Benjamin, b. August 17, 1737.
3. Ann, b. June 5, 1741.
4. Elizabeth, b. June 14, 1744.

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS HAMMOND, (No. 7)

OF NEWTON, MASS.

(IV) JOHN HAMMOND, (Thomas[3]) b. Newton, Mass., May 16, 1696; d. Newton, Mass., June 27, 1763; m. Dec. 11, 1718, Margaret Wilson; b. August 28, 1699; d. ——, 1788, dau. of Samuel and Experience (Trowbridge) Wilson, of Newton, Mass. John was a farmer in Newton. He bought of Rev. Jared Eliot, of Conn., 370 acres of the Gov. Hayne's farm in Newton in 1746, for which he paid £600.

His will, (Middlesex Probate, No. 7152) dated March 25, 1763, proved June 27, 1763, gives to wife, Margaret, one-third of estate "before any of my debts are paid," his executor to sell the remainder of the estate and pay all just debts and funeral expenses, the overplus, if not over £40, to be equally divided between sons, Joshua and Enoch, and dau., Abigail Hammond. If there be more than £40, the overplus to be divided between children, Joshua, Daniel, Samuel, Enoch, Margaret Merean, Anna Winchester and Abigail Hammond. To Joshua, Enoch and Abigail £80 each after the decease of his wife.

"I have already given to sons, John and Abijah Hammond, their full shares and for that reason they are to have nothing more." "My children, Daniel, Samuel, Margaret and Anna have already received the most of their portions." Son, Joshua, executor. The signature is in a very unsteady hand. Witnesses Samuel Wilson, Thomas Fisk and Abr. Fuller.

Inventory of real estate: House and piece of land on northerly side of "County Way," containing 78½ acres, bounded E. by Norman Clark and Ebenezer Parker, S. by "County Way," W. and N. by lands of Ebenezer Davis, Moses White and Andrew Sever; barn and land on south side of "County Way," bounded E. by Norman Clark, Joshua Murdock and Ephraim Ward, S. by "Town Way," W. and N. by "County Way." £667-1-8. Considerable personal estate, including household furniture, farming tools, stock, etc.

(IV). THOMAS HAMMOND, (Thomas[5]) b. Newton, Mass., July 10, 1698; d. ———; m. ———, Jane ———. Thomas went to Connecticut with his brother, Caleb, locating first in the town of Lebanon, New London Co.

"Thomas Hammond, of Newtown, County of Middlesex, Province of Massachusetts Bay," purchased land in Lebanon, Oct. 30, 1721. (Lebanon Town Records, Vol. 3, p. 325.) Thomas Hammond, then of Lebanon, sold land there June 7, 1722. (Lebanon Town Records, Vol. 3, p. 437.) His marriage or the births of any of his children do not appear on Lebanon records, which are very incomplete in vital statistics. It is not known how long he remained in Lebanon or where he went from there.

The next records of him which have been found are in the town of Wethersfield, Conn., and consist merely of the records of births of the two children of Thomas and Jane Hammond given below. These were probably younger children, but no records of older children have been found. The next record found is in Torrington, Conn., where Thomas Hammond and several others from Wethersfield purchased a tract of land and erected a mill and a tannery in 1739. (See History of Torrington, Conn.)

No further record has been found of this family, but there were Hammonds in Torrington, perhaps his descendants, until within recent years. It is believed that his son, Thomas, who was born in Wethersfield, is the same Thomas Hammond who sold mill property in Connecticut and removed his family to the Shakers at Harvard, Mass., but who died while settling up his property preparatory to joining them himself.

This Thomas made a provision that any of his children who desired to leave the Shakers should be allowed to do so on coming of age, and should be paid $100 each from the funds which he turned over to the community. A son Thomas did leave them and lived later in Shirley, Mass., where he died, leaving a numerous family. The connection is not fully proven, but there is so much circumstantial evidence that these families are given in this work as descendants of Thomas Hammond, of Wethersfield and Torrington, Conn.

Children :

819* 1. THOMAS, b. August 14, 1737.
820. 2. SAMUEL, b. April 2, 1743.

(IV) CALEB HAMMOND, (Thomas[3]) b. Newton, Mass., July 4, 1700; d. ———; m. Norwich, Conn., Nov. 21, 1723,

Mary Brewster, b. May —, 1703, dau. of Jonathan and Judith (Stephens) Brewster, and a lineal descendant of Elder William Brewster, of the "Mayflower."

He settled in Norwich, Conn., at the time of his marriage and remained there until 1734, when he removed to Windham, Conn., and remained there until 1740 or after, when he returned to Norwich.

The records of the town of Franklin, Conn., show that Caleb Hammond united with the Congregational Church there, by profession, May 7, 1731. He lived at one time in the town of Scotland, Conn. "Caleb Hammond, of Newtown, County of Middlesex, Province of Massachusetts Bay," bought land in Lebanon, Conn., Feb. 1, 1723. (Lebanon Town Records, Vol. 3, p. 438.) Caleb Hammond, then of Lebanon, bought more land there May 12, 1724. (Lebanon Town Records, Vol. 3, p. 539.) He bought more land there Jan. 6, 1729. (Ibid, Vol. 3, p. 559.) He sold land there May 25, 1726. (Ibid, Vol. 4, p. 6.)

Children:

821* 1. Caleb, b. May 29, 1726.

(IV) SAMUEL HAMMOND, (Thomas[3]) b. Newton, Mass., July 9, 1709; d. Boston, Mass., Oct. 8, 1736; m. Woodstock, Conn., Dec. 31, 1730, Eunice Bacon, b. ———; d. ———, dau. of ———. She m. 2d, in 1746, Robert Prentice, of Newton, Mass., by whom she had two children.

Samuel Hammond probably held residence in Newton, although his death occurred in Boston, as his estate was settled as of Newton. The settlement of his estate is recorded in Middlesex Probate, No. 7,158. Administration on the estate of Samuel Hammond, late of Newton, was granted to the widow, Eunice Hammond, Nov. 1, 1736, and her bond, with Samuel Benjamin and David Sanger as sureties, was filed. Inventory of the estate by John Spring, Nathaniel Hammond and Thomas Hammond was filed Nov. 12, 1736. Amount, £100-14-2.

The bond of Robert Prentice, weaver, with Joshua Hammond as surety as guardian of Isaiah Hammond in his 20th year, son of Samuel Hammond, deceased, was filed Feb. 24, 1755. The bond is witnessed by Andrew Boardman and Mary Hammond.

(V) JOHN HAMMOND, (John[4]) b. Newton, Mass., Sept. 25, 1719 ; d. ——— ; m. 7-16, 1745, Lydia Hammond ; b. Feb. 5, 1726, dau. of Eleazer and Hannah (Harrington) Hammond, of Newton, Mass.

John appears to have lived in Brookline as the records show that John Hammond, Lydia his wife, and their child were warned out of Brookline, May 12, 1760.

Children :

845. 1. LYDIA, b. June 17, 1746.
846. 2. ELIZABETH, b. June 16, 1749.

(V) JOSHUA HAMMOND, (John[4]) b. Newton, Mass., March 10, 1721 ; d. Newton, Mass., Dec. 31, 1792 ; m. May 15, 1739, Elizabeth Prentice ; b. ——— ; d. ——, 1798, dau. of Capt. Thomas and Elizabeth (Jackson) Prentice, of Newton, Mass. She is said to have been one of the most accomplished women in Newton.

Joshua Hammond was one of the wealthiest and most prominent men of his native town. He took a very active part in all town affairs and his aid and counsel was sought in all matters of importance. He served in the French War and later in the Revolution.

Joshua Hammond's name appears on a muster roll dated Boston, Mass., April 1, 1757, of a company commanded by Capt. Josiah Carver.

Private ; entered service March 28, 1756, and served until Oct. 11, 1756 ; service 23 weeks 2 days. (Mass. Arch. Master Rolls, Vol. 95, p. 70.)

He was one of a committee of five that drew up resolutions against the "Tea Tax" which were unanimously adopted by the town of Newton. He was also on the correspondence committee that presented the resolutions to the Boston committee.

JOHN CHESTER HAMMOND,

He was on the "Alarm List" in the West Company of Militia of Newton although he had then passed the age of military duty. He was then 54 years of age, but his name appears in the list of Newton men who served at the Battle of Lexington, in the East Co. commanded by Capt. Jeremiah Wiswell. He was one of a committee of six elected March 14, 1777, to hire soldiers for the town of Newton. In the same year he with thirty-two others loaned the town money to pay the soldiers, his loans being £72 and £118-13-4. His name appears on a list of Newton men who in 1780 gave money to buy beef for the army, his contribution at this time amounted to £500.

(V) Daniel Hammond, (John[4]) b. Newton, Mass., Oct. 18, 1727 ; d. Newton, Mass., —— —, 1777 ; m. April 17, 1751, Lucy Jones, b. Worcester, Mass., about 1727, d. Pittsford, Vt., —— —, 1799, dau. of Capt. Nathaniel and Mary (———) Jones.

He was a soldier in the French war and assisted in taking Cape Breton from the French. In the 49 days' siege of Louisburgh, in the summer of 1758, he contracted rheumatism from exposure, which eventually made him a cripple, and he was bed-ridden much of the time for the last 15 years of his life. The following scrap of old poetry has been found and is given here. The author is now unknown.

A NEWTON PATRIOT.

In seventeen hundred and seventy-five,
The men of New England determined to strive
To 'scape the taxation then bearing them down,
By arming, if need be, against England's Crown.

On April the nineteenth the vanquishing mist
Discovered these Yeomen in line to resist;
For relays of riders had spread the alarms,
"The British are marching! To arms! Quick! To arms!"

'Tis true they revolted, but were they not right?
Pray what would we be if they had not shown fight?
Think what they accomplished for you and for me!
They gave us our country, the land of the Free!

'Tis one of these yeomen whose praises I sing;
At Louisburgh's siege he had fought for the King;
Adjoining the pond honoured still by his name
In Newton he lived—although unknown to fame.

He shouldered his musket—his crutch laid away—
And marched with the Newton Alarm Men that day,
Although for nigh fifteen long years he had lain
Prostrated since Louisburgh's trying campaign.

Hark, hark! 'Tis the signal! Now up and away!
"The British are marching to Concord to-day."
Then old Daniel Hammond reached out for his gun,
And waving his cocked hat he cried, "Count me one!"

His strength with his courage could hardly keep pace;
Compared with the British he ran a poor race.
For on reaching Cambridge the British were gone,
And Daniel was hardly as "spry" as at dawn.

Though records relate he was sent home that night,
'Tis plain Daniel Hammond was brimful of "fight,"
Remember what he and the yeomanry gave!
Our Freedom! Our Country! This flag which I wave!

—"Sepia."

The family became nearly destitute on account of the inability of the father, and the children were some of them bound out. Lucy Jones, his wife, was a model New England dame, and the number of grandchildren and descendants who have borne her name shows something of the esteem in which she was held.

Daniel Hammond's name appears on a billeting account sworn to March 23, 1759, rendered by Henry Baldwin, of Shrewsbury, for victualing soldiers returning from service to their respective homes in 1758, in Capt. Brown's Co., Col. William Williams' Regiment. He is charged with one meal, 6d. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 96, p. 264.)

He enlisted in Capt. Jonathan Brown's Co., Col. William Williams' Regt., May 2, 1758, and served until Nov. 10, 1758, in the expedition against Canada. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 96, p. 408.)

He again enlisted in Capt. William Angier's Co., Col. Joseph Frye's Regt., April 2, 1759. The records show but 9 days' service. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 97, p. 155.)

Daniel Hammond's name again appears on a roll of officers and men in Capt. William Angier's Co., Col. Joseph Frye's Regt., with rank of private, in service in Nova Scotia from Jan. 1, 1760, to Nov. 20, 1760. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 98, p. 448.)

Then, after fifteen years' of suffering, the spirit of '76 fired his crippled limbs, and his name appears as private on the Lexington Alarm Roll of Capt. Amariah Fuller's Co., which marched from Newton to Cambridge and Lexington on the alarm of April 19, 1775. (Mass. Rev. War Records, Vol. 12, p. 57.)

He lived but about two years after this.

(V) Samuel Hammond, (John[4]) b. Newton, Mass., June 14, 1730; d. Newton, Mass., Jan. 28, 1770; m. March 13, 1755, Mary Fiske; b. Newton, Mass., Jan. 11, 1732; d. Oct. 21, 1810, dau. of Samuel and Rebecca (Green) Fiske, of Newton. (The will of Samuel Fiske, of Newton, dated June 14, 1769, proved August 1, 1770, mentions daughter, Mary Hammond, wife of Samuel Hammond.) His widow m. 2d, ——, 1777, Lieut. Isaac Jackson, of Newton, a hero of the French War. She was his 3d wife and d. in Brookline at the home of her son, Jonathan, Oct. 21, 1810.

Children:

859* 1. Mary, b. May 5, 1755.
860* 2. Rebecca, b. Jan. 17, 1857.
861. 3. Samuel, b. Sept. 30, 1758; d. young.
862* 4. Jonathan, b. Nov. 21, 1761.
863* 5. Margaret, b. April 1, 1764.
864* 6. Samuel, (name changed from Asa) b. July 12, 1766.

(V) Capt. Abijah Hammond, (John[4]) b. Newton, Mass., Nov. 5, 1732; d. Boston, Mass., Sept. 29, 1790; m. June 3, 1755, Mary Saltmarsh, b. June 1, 1731; d. Feb. —, 1806, dau. of Capt. Thomas and Mary (Hazen) Saltmarsh, of Watertown, Mass.

Her will dated March 6, 1797, proved Feb. 24, 1806, (Suffolk Probate) mentions sons Abijah, Isaac and Henry, and daughters Martha Rosseau, then a widow, and Mary and Aigail, then un-married.

Bond and Jackson give Abijah a son George but no son Henry. There was probably no son named George, but there was certainly one named Henry.

Widow Martha Rosseau appears to have m. 2d, after 1797, Thomas L. Ogden.

Abijah Hammond, of Newton, enlisted in Capt. John Dunlap's Co. and served as a private from May 15, 1761, to Dec. 13, 1761, in the French War. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls Vol. 99, p. 157.)

Re-enlisted Dec. 13, 1761, into a company commanded by Capt. Gideon Parker as a private and served until May 27, 1762. (Ibid. Vol. 99, p. 181.)

Re-enlisted July 15, 1762, into a company under command of Capt. Johnson Moulton and served as a private until July 15, 1763. (Ibid. Vol. 99, p. 209.)

He was also an officer in the Continental Army during almost the entire Revolution.

Abijah Hammond enlisted as a private in Capt. Theodore Bliss' Co., Col. John Patterson's 26th Mass. Regt., May 3, 1775, and served three months and six days. Muster roll dated August 1, 1775. He also appears on a return for Oct., 1775, and on an order for bounty coat or its equivalent in money, dated Dec. 20, 1775. (Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in War of the Revolution.)

Abijah Hammond was Lieutenant in Col. John Crane's Artillery Regt. Continental Army, pay account for service from Jan. 1, 1777, to Dec. 31, 1779. He appears also in a return of Capt. Benjamin Eustice's Co., Col. Crane's Regt. of men in camp on or before August 1, 1777, who were granted gratuities.

He also appears as a 2d Lieut. in Capt. Benjamin Frothingham's Co., Col. Crane's Regt. on muster rolls for Sep^{t} Dec. 1777, appointed March 25, 1777.

He appears as Captain in Lieut. Col. Crane's Regt., return for clothing delivered officers of Mass. regiments, agreeable to an order of the General Court, dated March 13, 1778.

He also appears as 2d Lieut. in Col. Crane's Regt. on a return of officers for clothing, dated at Boston, May 26, and Sept. 25, 1778, also as Lieut. in Col. Crane's Regt. Continental Army, pay account for service from Jan. 1, 1780, to Dec. 31, 1780, also 1st Lieut. in Col. Crane's Regt. on a list of officers who continued in the service as returned by Thomas Vase, Capt. and Adjutant, dated Boston, Jan. 19, 1781; also 1st Lieut. in an Artillery Regt. as per receipt given to Capt.-Lt. Knowles signed by said Hammond and others for subsistence money for June, 1782. (Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in War of the Revolution.)

As his son Abijah was also in the service and rose to the rank of Captain or possibly Colonel, some of the above records may refer to him rather than his father.

Enoch Hammond was a farmer in Newton until after the Revolution, when he bought land in Petersham and removed there. He was a soldier in Capt. Amariah Fuller's Co., of Newton militia, which marched on the Lexington alarm April 19, 1775. (Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in War of the Revolution.)

(V) Sarah Hammond, (Caleb[4]) b. Lebanon, Conn., Aug. 21, 1740; d. Hartford, Vt., about —— —, 1771; m. ———, John Marsh, b. Lebanon, Conn., March 10, 1739; d. Hartford, Vt., —— —, 1813, son of Jonathan and Alice (Newcomb) Marsh.

John Marsh first settled as a farmer in Lebanon, Conn., but removed to Hartford, Vt., about 1767. He saw considerable service in the Revolutionary War. He was in a company of militia under command of Capt. Joshua Hazen in 1780, which marched to Brookfield, Mass., on the Alarm of October, 1780, (See Vermont Historical Society's Collection) as evidenced by the muster and pay-roll of the company. In this same company were Abel, Samuel, John, Joseph, Joseph, Jr., and Roger Marsh, all of Hartford, Vt.

After the death of his first wife, John Marsh m. 2d, Cynthia Adams, of Boston, Mass., by whom he had two children, John and Cynthia, not in the Hammond line.

(V) Isaiah Hammond, (Samuel[4]) b. Newton, Mass., Nov. 13, 1735; d. in England; m. —— —, 1763, Lydia Healy; b. June 29, 1741; d. June 13, 1811, only child of John and Hannah (———) Healy, of Brookline, Mass.

Isaiah Hammond lived in Brookline a short time after his marriage and then removed to Winchester, N. H., where he purchased a large tract of wild land. He removed his family to Winchester where they remained some time but Mrs. Hammond's parents sent for her to come home and she went.

After some time Isaiah went after her but her parents were averse to her going away from home again and Isaiah told her she must choose between them and him. She chose to remain with them. Isaiah kissed her and the children, bade them good-bye and returned to Winchester where he disposed of the larger part of his property and went to England. Some years later a friend met him in England where he had married again and had children. He never returned to America and it is not now known that his family ever heard from him afterward.

Mrs. Hammond brought up her sons iu Brookline. She inherited property from her parents in addition to the land in Winchester, N. H., which her husband left for his family and on which her son, Samuel, settled some years later.

Jackson's History of Newton gives them a son Jeremiah, b. August 20, 1772, but family records do not show this and it is believed that Isaiah had gone abroad as early as 1770. It seems probable that this Jeremiah was a son of Enoch Hammond.

Isaiah was a soldier in the French War as is shown by the following extracts from public records:

Isaiah Hammond's name appears on a Muster Roll endorsed Boston, Feb. 8, 1759, of a company of Infantry under Capt. Jonathan Brown, in Col. William Williams' Regt. raised for the reduction of Canada. Residence Newton; private; entered service April 14 and served until Nov. 10, 1758. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 96, p. 408.)

Isaiah Hammond's name again appears on a return of men enlisted by Capt. Wesson, March 20, 1760, for the reduction of Canada. Age 24 years; birthplace Newton; residence Brookline. Certificate on the reverse dated Roxbury, April 16, 1760, signed by Francis Brindley, Col. and Commissary of Musters, states that said Hammond and others were mustered and attested. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls Vol. 98, p. 120.)

Isaiah Hammond's name again appears on a Muster Roll dated Boston, Feb. 12, 1761, of a company commanded by Capt. Ephraim Jackson. Private; residence Brookline; entered service April 16, 1760, served until Nov. 21, 1760; length of service 7 months 24 days; reported allowed 120 miles travel home. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 98, p. 236.)

(VI) Capt. William Hammond, (Joshua[5]) b. Newton, Mass., July 14, 1740; d. Bangor, Me., March 30, 1814; m. 1st, April 8, 1769, Mary Livermore, b. Waltham, Oct. 23, 1747; d. Newton, Dec. 18, 1775, dau. of Elisha and Sarah (Bigelow) Livermore, of Waltham, Mass. He m. 2d, Nov. 12, 1778, Relief Baldwin, b. Dec. 7, 1750; d. ———, dau. of Henry and Abigail (Butler) Baldwin, of Shrewsbury, Mass.

He was a very influential man in his native town. He removed to Bangor, Me., where he owned a large tract of land about 1809. At the age of 17 years he was drafted for the French war, but owing to the opposition of his father he did not serve. His father hired a substitute in his place. The following is the record of this occurrence:

"Newton, March 9, 1757. This may certify that Joshua Hammond of my district has hired one Thomas Durant to enlist into his majesty's service, in his son William Hammond's room, in the expedition now coming on under the command of his excellency the right honorable, the Earl of London, and he, the said Durant, was accepted and passed muster by Col. Brattle, and put under Capt. Thomas Cheever, Jr. (Signed) Thos. Clark, Capt."

He was Sergeant in Lexington Alarm Roll of Capt. Jeremiah Wiswell's Co., which marched from Newton to Lexington on the alarm of April 19, 1775. He was Captain and Commissary in the Revolution army, his commission having been signed by John Hancock. He furnished large quantities of supplies for the troops in and around Boston. After the close of the war he was a merchant in his native town and held many of the town offices.

He contributed liberally toward the support of the church. Nov. 30, 1797, the town of Bangor elected him agent to the General Court to "get the settlers' land granted to them and a title" to the same, which he succeeded in doing. He and his son, William, Jr., built the first mill on the Kenduskeag stream. This mill was situated where the Morse & Co. mills now stand. Some of the original purchases of land are still held by his great grandchildren in Bangor. When he removed from Newton he was obliged to leave much of his household furniture in his house in Newton, which was destroyed by fire soon after his removal. His descendants preserve as heirlooms a beautiful old silver tankard, his watch, silver knee buckles, his old arm chair, several pieces of rare old china and other articles of value.

(VI) LUCY HAMMOND, (Daniel[5]) b. Newton, Mass., July 25, 1752; d. E. Machias, Me., June 10, 1831; m. April 25, 1771, Peter Talbot, b. Nov. 6, 1745; d. April 28, 1836, son of Peter and Abigail (Wheeler) Talbot, of Stoughton, Mass.

They settled at East Machias, Me., where they built the first house in the town in 1772. This house is still standing and is occupied by their descendants. Mrs. Talbot was a woman of commanding personal appearance and of excellent character. Evidence of the esteem in which she was held by the family is found in the fact that ten of her grandchildren were named "Hammond."

Peter Talbot was Representative to the General Court in 1812 and 1813. The "Maine Historical Magazine" says: "No one family in the State of Maine has furnished so many men for the legislative service as the Talbot family of East Machias."

(VI) Phineas Hammond, (Daniel[5]) b. Newton, Mass., June 4, 1755; d. ———; m. ———, Mary Gay, b. ———, dau. of ———.

He lived in Brookline and Roxbury, Mass., nearly all of his life, but the records of Pittsford, Vt., show that he removed there late in life and lived near his brother, Thomas. He took a very active part in the Revolutionary war. He was on the Lexington Alarm Roll, Capt. Thomas White's Co., Col. William Heath's Regt., which marched on the alarm of April 19, 1775, from Brookline, service 23 days. (Lex. Alarms, Vol. 13, p. 176.) He was a private in Capt. Hopestill Hall's Co., Col. Lemuel Robinson's Regt. Enlisted from Roxbury, Jan. 31, 1776, for service in Rhode Island. Service 21 days. (R. I. Service, Vol. 2, p. 75.) He appears with rank of private on a return of men in service at Nantasket, June, 1776. Drafted from Capt. Gore's, Maj. White's or May's Co. and under the command of Lieut. James Morton. (Mass. Arch. Vol. 21, p. 46.)

He appears with rank of private on Muster Roll of Capt. William Foster's Co., Col. Pierce's Regt.; enlisted March 3, 1778; service 1 month, 7 days, stationed at Long Island. (Mass. Arch. Vol. 19, p. 53.)

(VI) Col. Thomas Hammond, (Daniel[5]) b. Newton, Mass., Feb. 20, 1762; d. Pittsford, Vt., April 4, 1847; m. 1st, March 25, 1784, Hannah Cross; b. Mansfield, Conn., April 20, 1763; d. Pittsford, Vt., Feb. 2, 1819, dau. of Col. Ichabod Cross, of Shaftsbury, Vt. He m. 2d, Sept. 19, 1819, Mrs. Sarah Stewart, who survived him. He had no children by the second marriage.

Owing to the limited resources of his family consequent upon the crippled condition of his father he was taken to Leicester, Mass., and bound out to a distant relative, a well-to-do farmer, named Thomas Denny, when he was but four years of age. Here he remained, or at least made his home with Mr. Denny until he was 21 years of age.

He is said to have enlisted into the Continential Army in 1778 and to have served nine months, at which time he was but 16 years of age, but no official record of such service has been found.

Thomas Hammond, residence Leicester ; age 18 years ; stature 5 ft. 10 in.; complection light; enlisted July 5, 1780, in Capt. Frothingham's Artillery Co. and served until Dec. 11, 1780. (Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in the Revolution.)

His name also appears on a pay roll of six months men from the town of Leicester but is spelled without the "d" and is found under the heading "Hammon" in Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the revolution.

During this enlistment he took part in many of the stirring scenes of the campaign in Eastern New York and was present at the execution of Major Andre, Oct. 2, 1780. He is supposed te have continued in the service for a longer period than is shown by this pay roll but no records have been found.

When he became of age he left the home of Mr. Denny and started out to seek his fortune. He went on foot to Shaftsbury, Vt., and hired out to work for Col. Ichabod Cross, whose daughter he married. Col. Cross gave the young couple a tract of wild land at Pittsford and there they settled in 1786. He took an active interest in all public matters and the records of Pittsford show that he was called upon to serve the town in some important office almost continually. He was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention in 1791. In 1794 he was elected to the State Legislature and served ten years between that time and 1813. He took an active interest in the organization of the State militia, and rose from the rank of Captain to Colonel. He was assistant County Judge six years and a member of the Executive Council of the State four years. In 1812 he, with a few others, organized the Pittsford Mfg. Co., for the manufacture of woolen

He was named Asa but after the death of his brother, Samuel, his name was legally changed to Samuel. He went to Boston when a young man and amassed a large fortune for the times.

"In 1801 Somerset street was cut through the (Jeffrey) estate and Jeffrey sold the part west of the street to Asa (Samuel) Hammond in 1804." (Boston Records, Vol. II, p. 112.)

"Three rope walks were bought by Asa or Samuel Hammond and others in 1805." (Boston Records, Vol. 5, p. 51.)

"A portion of land back of Somerset St. back to Bulfinch's pasture or the church was sold to Asa (Samuel) Hammond for $12,000 in 1804." (Boston Records, Vol. 5, p. 88.)

Samuel engaged in a great many different business enterprises which yielded liberal returns. His land situated in the center of the best business portion of Boston became extremely valuable through the growth of the city and he left a large estate which was administered by his widow in 1834. (See Suffolk Probate, No. 30,675.)

His widow left a will in which she gives to son, Charles, whatever he owes me at the time of my death. To daughter, Hannah Dawes Russell, and her children if she be not living $1,400, and one share in the Merchants' Bank. To daughter, Mary Ann Palfrey, and her children if she be not living $1,400 and one share in the Boston and Worcester R. R. To daughter, Catherine Gibson, the same.

To my grandchildren, Sarah Hammond Greene and Walter Hammond Greene, as representatives of their mother, Almira Hammond Greene, $1,400 to be divided equally.

To John Gorham Palfrey and Walter C. Greene $100 each as a token of my affectionate regard for them.

To grandchildren, Samuel H., Mary A. P., and Nathaniel P. Russell, Sarah H., Hannah R., Francis W. W., John Carver and Mary Gorham Palfrey, Gardiner G., and Samuel Hammond, John G., and Charles H. Gibson and Walter H. and Sarah H. Greene the sum of $100 each, also other bequests. (Suffolk Probate, No. 43,212.)

The descendants of Samuel and Sarah (Dawes) Hammond have continued to be among the very wealthy and aristocratic families of Boston. The old Hammond residence on Somerset St. is still standing.

(VI) Col. Abijah Hammond, (Abijah[5]) b. Boston, Mass., Feb. 22, 1757; d. New York City, ———; m. ———, Catherine L. Ogden, b. about 1770, dau. of Abraham and Sarah F. (Ludon) Ogden, of Westchester Co., N. Y.

The Ogden family was very wealthy and owned large tracts of land in New York state. They owned several thousand acres in Northern New York and from them Ogdensburg received its name.

Abijah Hammond is said to have been a colonel in the Revolutionary Army and have been in command at White Plains for some time. The author has been unable to verify this as the records of Revolutionary soldiers in Mass. and

New York make no mention of him. There is, however, some existing proof if it can be found.

He was a prominent merchant in New York City doing business at 229 Broadway for many years. The New York City Directory from 1797 to 1815 gives his place of business as 229 Broadway and his residence as 10 Park Place. He owned a large tract of land in Northern New York and purchased many tracts in other parts of the state.

June 15, 1786, a certificate of location was filed for Abijah Hammond of 640 acres, lot 19, township 4, of the Oneida and Tuscarora purchase, (At Guilford, Chenango Co., N. Y.) (Index to Land Papers in the Office of the Secretary of State, p. 713.)

June 16, 1786, certificate filed for Abijah Hammond, 640 acres, lot 91, township 4, Oneida and Tuscarora purchase, (Oxford, Chenango Co., N. Y.) (Same, p. 718.)

June 16, 1786, certificates filed for Abijah Hammond, 1,280 acres, lots 77 and 84, township 4, (Oxford, Chenango Co., N. Y.) (Same, pp. 719 and 722.)

June 19, 1786, certificate filed for Abijah Hammond, 5,980 acres, part of township 32, Jessup purchase, (Indian Lake, Hamilton Co., N. Y.) (Same, p. 723.)

At the first meeting of the New England Society, held at the City Hotel in New York City, May 6, 1805, Abijah Hammond was one of the Commissioners. (Magazine of Am. History (1884) Vol. XI, p. 36.)

The author has been unable to obtain any record of his family or obtain definite knowledge of his descendants some of whom are said to reside in St. Paul, Minn.

(VI) Henry Hammond, (Abijah[5]) b. Newton, Mass., about 1759; d. ———; m. Sept. 8, 1791, Hepzibah Barron, of Concord, Mass.

He was a soldier in the Revolutionary war in Capt. Warren's Co. stationed at Cambridge, in Feb. and March, 1776. This fact is learned from an old account book kept by Capt. William Hammond, of Newton, in 1776, in which articles are charged to the members of companies commanded by Captain Warren and others. This account book is now in the hands of the author of this work.

He was also private in Capt. Caleb Brook's Co., Col. Brook's Regt. Jan. 3, 1778 to April 3, 1778, guards at Cambridge. (Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in War of the Revolution.)

Nothing has been learned about his family or descendants.

Charles Hammond settled in Bangor in 1805, and soon became one of the most prominent citizen of the place, and from him Hammond street derives its name. He and his brother William occupied houses on the ground where Smith's Block now stands, and on the space between Franklin and Central streets. He began business on the corner now known as "Abner Taylor's Corner" and continued there until his death. He identified himself with all of the business interests and projects of the city and was a large purchaser of real estate in Bangor and vicinity. He bought the lot in Holland's plan which included what is now West Market Square, which he laid out and presented to the town. He also gave the lots for the City Hall, Court House and Jail. He was Representative to the General Court in 1813 and 1814, Captain of the Bangor Artillery at the battle of Hampden, where he showed great valor and discretion, and a man who was greatly respected by all who knew him.

Abner Taylor was a native of Dunstable, N. H. After his marriage he removed to Bangor, Me., where he went into bnsiness with his brother-in-law, Geo. W. Brown, under the firm name of Taylor & Brown. They located in the store formerly occupied by Charles Hammond, on the corner still known as "Abner Tayler's Corner," dealing in West India goods, and also did a large business in lumber and shingles. He built a large and substantial residence on Summer Street, which still stands in a good state of preservation, where he lived until his death.

He was a man of the highest integrity and large hearted generosity. He was a member of the Second Congregational Church, called the Hammond Street Church, and was highly respected by all who knew him. He was also a Free Mason. He was one of the promoters of the first public library established in Bangor.

He came to Bangor in 1805 and went into business with his brother-in-law, Abner Taylor, under the firm name of Taylor & Brown. He was a merchant of high character, was deacon of the Hammond Street Church and trustee of the Bangor Theological Seminary. He was a soldier in the War of 1812. After the dissolution of the firm of Taylor & Brown he became senior member of the firm of Brown, Porter & Co., in the grain and flour business with a store where the Western Union Telegraph office is now located. Mrs. Brown possessed great force and dignity of character, and was always, until overcome by the disabilities of age, a leading member of society. Her interest in all enterprises of benevolence continued when she was no longer able to take any personal share in them, and she found pleasure in contributing to their promotion up to the full measure of her ability. Her religious opinions were always definite and decided, but this did not prevent her from recognizing and affiliating with moral excellence wherever found. The immediate cause of her death was the breaking of the thigh bone while walking in her chamber. It is a curious fact that her mother's death resulted from a similar fracture at an advanced age.

(VII) Charles Franklin Hammond, (Col. Thomas[6]) b. Pittsford, Vt., April 24, 1798; d. Crown Point, N. Y., Dec. 12, 1873; m. Feb. 13, 1825, Jane Renne, b. Cairo, Greene Co., N. Y., Jan. 17, 1805, dau. of John and Betsey (———) Renne. She survived him and d. August 28, 1882.

He was the founder of the great iron industry at Crown Point, N. Y., and was also interested in the greatest lumber business in Northern New York. He started in life with very poor health and only a few hundred dollars in money, but by industry and great foresight accumulated a large fortune. The iron from which the "Monitor" was built was taken from his mines, as was also the ore from which was made the first Bessemer steel ever manufactured in the United States.

He was a Whig, and afterwards a Republican in politics. His political convictions were very strong, and he was an active worker in his party, but he never held any office except postmaster, which office he held many years. At the breaking out of the civil war he advanced the money to purchase all the horses for Co. H, 5th N. Y. Cavalry, and took an active interest in organizing the company. After the close of the war he erected a beautiful monument at a cost of about $6,000 in the Park at Crown Point, bearing the inscription, "To the memory of the hèroic volunteèrs of Crown Point, who gave their lives as a sacrifice for their country and humanity in suppression of the great rebellion of 1861-66, this monument is erected by their grateful fellow-citizen, C. F. Hammond."

At his death he left his homestead in Crown Point to the town for a chapel and library. He was never a member of any religeous denomination, but was a regular church attendant, and much interested in all kinds of practical Christian work. He was a strong temperance man and did much effective work against the evils of intemperance.

(VII) Augustus Hammond, (Col. Thomas[6]) b. Pittsford, Vt., June 5, 1800; d. Pittsford, Vt., Sept. 24, 1879; m. Oct. 10, 1839, Mary Penfield; b. June 2, 1807, dau. of ——— and (———) Penfield, of Pittsford, Vt.

They settled on the homestead with his father for whom he kindly cared during his declining years. Col. Hammond suffered a shock of paralysis some years before his death which impaired his physical ability but not his mind and his son gave him every attention that a kind and dutiful mind could suggest.

Augustus Hammond was a man of plain and simple habits, unpretending in his manner but highly respected for the excellence of his character. A kind neighbor, a sincere friend and an earnest Christian but too modest and diffident, greatly undervaluing his own merits and ability.

He went to Crown Point, on arriving at his majority and purchased an interest in the firm of C. F. Hammond & Co., of which he soon became one of the most active members. He was a straightforward upright business man, fond of society, hospitable and charitable. An ardent lover of music and of the beautiful in nature, but of a rather modest and retiring disposition. He was one of the early Republicans and exerted so great an influence in the town that the vote stood 450 for Fremont to 40 for Buchanan. He was not willing to hold office but was once elected to the New York Legislature in spite of himself, having been nominated during his absence and elected in the face of his positive declination to be a candidate. He built and occupied the house in Crown Point since owned and occupied by Edwin S. Bogue. He died very suddenly of bilious pneumonia, leaving a large property which was divided among a large number of legal heirs.

The Elizabethtown, (N. Y.) Post, of Jan. 8, 1858, in a long obituary notice said of him: "The Prosperity of a large community is greatly owing to the kindness and judicious assistance of John C. Hammond, and many can attribute their success and present prosperity to the aid so freely rendered by him. He was quiet, genial, gentlemanly —— a model citizen in all respects, and he will be more missed by all, rich and poor, high and low, learned and ignorant, good and bad, than any other within our knowledge." He had no children but his niece Lovisa A. Hammond, daughter of his brother, German, and Sarah E. Watson, who married J. W. McVine, of Colton, N. Y., lived in his family for many years and filled the place of daughters to him.

Her father, Gardiner Greene, Esq., was the youngest son of Benjamin and Mary (Chandler) Greene, of Boston, Mass. He was a descendant of Thomas Greene, of Warwick, R. I., who came to America with his father, John Greene, from Salisbury, England, in 1635. (See, Family of Greene, Pub. Boston, 1901.)

Elizabeth Clarke Copley, 3d wife of Gardiner Greene, Esq., and mother of Mrs. Hammond, was the daughter of John Singleton Copley, the most famous American portrait painter, of whom a brief sketch will be given in this connection.

John Singleton Copley, was born in Boston, July 31, 1737, son of Richard and Mary (Singleton) Copley, who came to America from County Clare, Ireland, 1736. He m. Nov. 16, 1769, Susan, dau. of Richard Clarke, the noted Royalist and owner of the tea that became so famous in history from being thrown overboard in Boston harbor. (Samuel Hammond, a near relative of this same Samuel, having helped to deposit this same tea in Boston harbor.)

He soon became famous all over the world as a portrait painter. He went to England at the time of the Revolution, with the Clarkes. He died in 1815, full of years and honors, and was buried in Croydon Church, leaving as a monument in America 269 oil paintings, 35 Crayons and 14 minatures so far as known. Some of the most noted of these are in the Boston Art Museum, Copley Square, Boston, among them the famous Copley family. His son John Singleton Copley, Lord Lyndhurst, became Lord High Chancillor of Great Britain. Mr. Hammond began his business career in Petersham and lived for a short time in Hardwick, Irvingsville and East Douglass before settling in Worcester in 1844. After three years of mercantile business in Worcester he entered the employ of the Worcester & Nashua Railroad Co. as chief clerk in the office of the treasurer, Edward H. Hemenway on April 1, 1847. He was elected treasurer and clerk of the corporation July 23, 1849. He held these offices continuously until May 15, 1896, when he resigned them on account of ill health. He was one of the oldest railroad officials in length of service in the United States having been in the service for about fifty years.

He was know in railroad circles all over the country. His courtesy and kind nature made themselves felt everywhere he was known. The employees of the road always looked upon him as their friend and were in the habit of going to him for advice and assistance, for his was one of those natures which gave when there was cause for giving and he had a large sympathy for men.

Senator George F. Hoar, an old neighbor and friend said of him: "Men such as he give confidence to a community." Rev. Austin S. Garver said of him: "One of his marked traits was the kindliness of his disposition. It was manifest in his manner and in the tones of his voice; it beamed from his eye and from his refined and gentle face. His was one of the tenderest of hearts. There was no sting in his words, because there was no scorn or malice in his thought."

In addition to his duties as a railroad man Mr. Hammond was vice president of the Mechanic's Savings Bank and when he resigned he had been a trustee of the institution from 1851, a period of forty-seven years.

He was a director of the State Mutual Life Insurance Co. from 1859 to 1899; treasurer of the Bay State House corporation from 1856 to 1879 and a member of the common council in 1858-59-68-69 and 70. He never took an active part in politics, though a staunch Republican from the formation of the party. He was a faithful attendant of the Unitarian church.

David was barely eight months of age when his mother died, and he was adopted by his grandmother Hapgood. His grandparents brought him up and gave him a good education, treating him as their own child. He was rather small in stature, but cheerful and well disposed, exhibiting great filial regard for those who stood in the place of parents to him. His grandfather Hapgood died in 1818 but he remained on the farm kindly caring for his grandmother until his marriage in 1825. He then bought a farm adjoining the Hapgood farm in the northeasterly part of Harvard, now known as the Hall farm. Here he remained until about 1840, when he sold the farm and bought a smaller farm on the brook near the present "poor farm" where he remained until his death.

He was a quiet, modest, industrious, large hearted man and was much respected by his townsmen. He was a Universalist in religion, and joined with others in forming a Universalist Society in Harvard about 1830. His eldest daughter remained with her parents and kindly cared for them as long as they lived.

July 11, 1792, dau. of Micajah and Lydia (Cooper) Norwood, who removed from Richmond, N. H., to Swanzey; m. 2d, ———, Wid. Rachel (———) Dix, dau. of ———, and widow of Calvin Dix, of Jackson, Pa.

"Uncle" Asa Hammond was a devout Episcopalian, a gentleman of the old school, a stern hater of shiftlessness. Late in the fall of 1819, he drove an ox team all of the way from Winchester, N. H., to New Milford, Pa., and joined his father in the wilderness. "Then 25 years of age, healthy and robust, and possessed of a remarkable degree of bodily strength and endurance. The following incident of his early life will illustrate the above assertion:—At the age of twenty few cared to cope with him in any kind of manual labor. About this time he cut, split and piled over five cords of 30 inch wood per day for three months in succession. A young man of considerable renown as a wood cutter hearing of Asa's work and not liking to be beat, came to try a contest with him, claiming that he could "outchop" him. Proceeding to the woods the race began and all day long the measured strokes of the heavy axes fell with more than ordinary force and celerity. At night when the wood was piled the great wood cutter found he had four and one-half cords. Mr. Hammond ran over his and found it measured six cords." In 1820 "he cleared five acres of flat land rolling all of the logs alone, many of them being three feet in diameter."

Mr. H. trained in the Independent Co. of Light Infantry and was made Major under Col. Lee Richardson, afterwards he was promoted to the rank of Colonel. He has always been one of the most temperate men among us, drinking no liquor or tea, nor using tobacco. When he built his present house he told his father that he should furnish no liquor at the raising. His father replied that it would be doubtful if he could get the necessary help without it, as it was the general custom at that time. "Then" replied Col. Hammond with his characteristic firmness "it may rot." He invited his neighbors the next day, informing them that he should have no liquor. They all came, and the building was raised without disturbance. It was the first house raised, without liquor, in the place. He is at present the oldest man in the township, being nearly 93 years of age. He has 20 grand-children, 25 great-grand-children and 3 great-great-grand-children. Col. Hammond has been a faithful member of the Episcopal church for over 50 years. Honest and upright in all his dealings, bold and fearless in his expressions against wrong, he has been an exemplary citizen." (Peck's Hist. Susquehanna Co., 1887.)

Mr. Kendrick was a merchant and also the agent for the Bangor and Portland Steamboat Line. He was the grandson of Captain John Kendrick who commanded and sailed his own vessel in the foreign trade and who discovered and explored the Columbian River. He bought large tracts of land along the river from the Indians the deeds of which were deposited at Washington, D. C., with Thomas Jefferson, who was then Secretary of State, to be held in trust until such time as these lands should become valuable. The heirs of Capt. Kendrick have, however, never received any benefit from these purchases. This is probably the same family as the "Kenricks" of Newton who intermarried with the Hammonds there.

Edwin Pond Parker, (Bowdoin Coll. 1856) of Hartford, Conn.

He was prepared for college at Washington Academy. At Bowdoin, though the youngest member of his class, he was graduated with high honors. The succeeding year he was principal of Limerick Academy, and the year after of Washington Academy. He then took the full course in Andover Theological Seminary, and was licensed to preach in 1838. After three years of further service at Washington Academy, he was ordained as pastor at Conway, Mass., Dec. 22, 1841. His successful pastorate of ten years there was followed by one of four years over the Second Church at Pittsfield, Mass. In 1855 he was appointed Professor of Systematic Theology in Bangor Theological Seminary, a position which he held for twelve years. During the most of this period he officiated jointly with Professor George Shepard, as pastor of the Central Church. In 1867, at the earnest recommendation of his predecessor, he became President of Bowdoin College, and Professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy. This position he relinquished in 1871 to become Dwight Professor of Systematic Theology in Yale University, the active duties of which he performed till 1895. He received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Williams in 1855, and that of Doctor of Laws from Bowdoin in 1871. His earlier writings are recorded in the "Publications of the Presidents and Faculty of Bowdoin College, 1802-1876." His last three books were issued as follows: "The Philosophical Basis of Theism" in 1883; "The Self Revelation of God" in 1887; "God, Creator and Lord of All" in 1896. It is not out of place to note that the first two of these, which constitute his great contribution to theology, were dedicated to his college and seminary pupils. Dr. Harris died of pneumonia June 25, 1899, at Litchfield, Conn., aged 85 years and 11 days.

(VIII) Capt. William C. Talbot, (Peter) b. East Machias, Me., Feb. 28, 1816; d. on board the steamer Columbia at Astoria, Oregon, August 6, 1881; m. May 26, 1846, Sophia Gleason Foster, b. Oct. 15, 1823; r. San Francisco, Cal.; dau. of Ezekiel and Ruthy Jones (Hayden) Foster, of Eastport, Me.

The following sketch of his life appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle of August 8, 1881:

"William Chaloner Talbot, whose sudden death at Astoria was announced by telegraph on Saturday, has so long been connected with the commercial interests of San Francisco as to deserve more than a passing notice. He was born at East Machias, Me., February 28, 1816. He came to California, around Cape Horn, in command of the brig Oriental, in 1849, arriving in the spring of 1850. In the summer of 1853 he went to Washington Territory and established lumber mills at Teekald, now Port Gamble, on Puget Sound. Later on he established other mills at Utsalady and Port Ludlow, Washington Territory. These towns have been built up under the thrift of the lumber interests. The last six weeks of his life were passed most pleasantly by him, in company with several members of his household and other friends, in this locality. As late as last Saturday morning telegrams were sent from Portland, Ore., to friends in this city, announcing the fact of their sailing on the Columbia that day for San Francisco, and saying that all were well. About 5 o'clock the same day a telegram from Astoria announced the sudden death at that point of Captain Talbot. He died of heart disease.

"Captain Talbot was in the full plentitude of his powers, active, earnest, yet always placid and genial. He possessed rare qualities of mind and heart. He was a firm friend, affectionate and tender in his family relations and a devoted husband and father. He amassed a large fortune, with which he aided in the building up of the great commercial interests of the Pacific Coast. The lumber trade of this coast has been for years very largely in the hands of Messrs. Pope & Talbot. Mr. Talbot gave liberally for the sustaining of local charities and was still better pleased to aid the worthy. Although so active and devoted to business cares and duties,

MRS. CALVIN WILCOX,

PLAINFIELD, CONN.

Captain Talbot took special delight in the study of ethical and scientific subjects. He was a full man, with a well-furnished and disciplined mind. His extensive travel, both in this country and in Europe, has made him cosmopolitan in spirit and in temper. He was reverent and religious of soul, but thoroughly unsectarian in tendency. In the death of Captain Talbot San Francisco has lost a valued citizen and this coast has lost one of its most enterprising men. He leaves a wife and five children—two sons and three daughters."

(VIII) George Foster Talbot, (John C.) b. E. Machias, Me., Jan. 16, 1819; r. Portland, Me.; m. 1st, May 16, 1844, Elizabeth Neil, b. June —, 1817; d. June 28, 1845; dau. of John Gilman and Elizabeth (Leavitt) Neil, of Skowhegan, Me.; m. 2d, Oct. 22, 1851, Elizabeth Lincoln, b. June 18, 1825, dau. of Theodore and Elizabeth (———) Lincoln, of Dennysville, Me.

He received his academic education at Washington Academy in East Machias, and entered Bowdoin College in September 1835, graduating in 1837 at the age of 18 years. In the same class with him were Gov. John A. Andrew, Dr. Fordyce Barker and other prominent men of later years.

After spending some months in teaching he entered the office of Hon. Joshua A. Lowell, once a Member of Congress from Maine, as a law student, completing his studies in the office of Hon. James W. Bradbury, once U. S. Senator from Maine, at Augusta, Me. He was admitted to practice in September 1840, and opened an office at Skowhegan, Me., where he met and married Miss Neil. Not securing a paying law practice here he engaged in teaching for a time, and then opened a law office at Columbia, Me., where he was successful in securing a fair practice. After practicing there a short time he removed to his native town, where after the death of his wife he lived with his parents six years. After his second marriage he removed to Machias, where he enjoyed a large law practice for about ten years. He was elected county attorney in 1859, and was one of the Maine delegates at large to the Chicago convention which nominated Abraham Lincoln for the presidency.

After Lincoln's election he was appointed U. S. District Attorney for Maine, an office which he held until March 1870. He was made chairman of a commission to investigate the so-called Paper Credit frauds in 1870. In 1872 he went to Europe with Mrs. Talbot, and after his return to this country was in 1875 made a member of a commission of twelve members to revise the State Constitution. In 1876 he was appointed Solicitor of the U. S. Treasury, which office he held until the close of Gen. Grant's administration. He retired from practice of his profession in 1880 and engaged in literary work to which he had given some attention for years. While living in Machias he edited a political paper and was a correspondent for the N. Y. Tribune, the Evening Post and wrote many articles for Garrison's "Liberator" and for the "Anti-Slavery Standard," besides writing for several Maine journals. Since retiring from practice he has written for the leading reviews articles on political, economical and religious questions and published some religious works. His first volume of "New Testament Studies," a book of 447 pages, published in 1883, attracted much attention. In politics he was a "Free Soiler" speaking and writing in advocacy of Anti-Slavery principles. He was one of the organizers of the Republican party in Maine and an able exponent of its principles for many years, but being a free trader and a civil service reformer he separated from his party some years ago. In writing of this he says: "I have not approved of the prohibitive tariff or the spoils system, and deemed that the long term of office of the party I had aided to create had greatly impaired its purity and efficiency. I have strongly opposed the reckless adventures of foreign conquests, in which our country has engaged, as prejudicial to the welfare of the people upon whom we have causelessly made war and as likely to endanger the preservation of the integrity of our own free institutions at home."

Mr. Talbot still (1903) enjoys a vigorous old age with a mind unimpaired, and continues to wield his pen in defense of those principles which have guided him through a long life: Liberty, equality and the rights of man.

He held the office of Supervisor some years, and was highly respected by his townsmen. He enlisted in the 5th N. Y. Cavalry in 1861, and arose from a private to the rank of Brevet Colonel. He was captured at the battle of Hagerstown, Md., July 6, 1863, and spent nearly two years in Rebel prisons. After the war he settled in Boston, Mass., where he has since resided, although still retaining the old Penfield homestead near Crown Point, N. Y., where he spends a portion of each year.

(VIII) Gen. John Hammond, (Charles F.[7]) b. Crown Point, N. Y., August 17, 1827; d. Crown Point, N. Y., May 28, 1889; m. April 14, 1852, Charlott Maria Cross, b. March 22, 1832, dau. of Lyman and Charlotte (Bowen) Cross, of Troy, N. Y., and a great granddaughter of Col. Ichabod Cross, of Shaftsbury, Vt. Mrs. Hammond resides at Crown Point, N. Y.

John Hammond received his early education in the common schools at Crown Point, N. Y., and at a school taught by Rev. James Ten Broeck at Panton, Vt. After a course at St. Albans Academy he finished his education at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., in 1847. He then entered the store of Hammond & Co., at Crown Point, N. Y., as a clerk.

In 1849 he went to California by the overland route, remaining there three years and returning without having made a fortune. A very good description of his adventures on this long and perilous journey across the continent, and his later experiences in California during the gold excitement from his own pen, has been published in a memorial volume of his life printed by P. F. Pettibone & Co., of Chicago, in 1890.

After his return from California he engaged in the mercantile and lumber business at Crown Point until the breaking out of the civil war in 1861. After the first battle of Bull Run he determined to raise a company of cavalry and go to the front. His appeal to the people of his native town was responded to with an ardor and promptness that is seldom equalled. The fervid zeal that was inspired could not await regular enlistment papers, and a written compact was drawn up and signed by 127 young men of the town pledging themselves to serve the government for three years. This entire body of men, comprising the flower of the youth of Crown Point, was accepted and mustered in as privates. Charles F. Hammond advanced the funds to purchase 108 horses for the company, which then joined the Fifth N. Y. Cavalry on Staten Island, where it was organized as Co. H, and John Hammond chosen as Captain. This company in one of the fighting regiments of the war was in the thickest of the conflict throughout the entire struggle. The letters written home by Col. Hammond from the field of action which are published in the volume referred to above contains a very full account of the doings of this famous regiment. He arose to the rank of Colonel and the command of his regiment and received the brevet of Brigadier General. He was twice wounded in action, but his untiring energy would not permit him to remain off duty when it was possible to get around and he has a record of being off duty less than thirty days during his entire three years' service. Space will not permit the printing here of the many complimentary notices of Gen. Hammond which the author has collected, but it is sufficient to say that Gen. Hammond was one of the bravest of the brave, a born fighter and that his heart and soul were in the cause of freedom.

After the war he returned to Crown Point and engaged in the great iron industry again. He was the prime mover in the consolidation of the old Crown Point Iron Co., J. & T. Hammond, and Penfield & Harwood and the formation of the present Crown Point Iron Co. He became president and general manager of the new company and under his efficient management, the furnaces, the wharf at the lake, and the railroad to Hammondville were built, and an industry built up that supports 3,000 people. He took an active interest in politics, and was a strong partisan. He was a delegate to the Republican convention at Philadelphia, which nominated Gen. Grant for a second term and represented his district in Congress some years.

In his home life he was singularly genial, kind and loving. His speech was pure and free from profanity and vulgarity. He was a lover of children and music. As a business man he was the soul of honor and kept every engagement. He believed in an honest day's pay for an honest day's work. He was ever the friend of the poor and unfortunate, and ready to help such as needed his aid. He was a consistent member of the Congregational Church, and a prominent member of the G. A. R. and the Loyal Legion. In Mrs. Hammond he found a worthy helpmate and his home life was singularly happy.

(VIII) George Warren Hammond, (Charles F.[7]) b. Crown Point, N. Y., Nov. 9, 1829 ; d. Crown Point, N. Y., Oct. 27, 1854 ; m. Nov. 27, 1852, in Paris, France, Herminie Celestine Hippeau, dau. of the celebrated Prof. Celestin Hippeau.

Her father, Prof. Hippeau, was a member of the French University from his sixteenth year. He was principal of several colleges and lecturer at the University of Strasburg. Napoleon III sent him to the United States to study our system of education and he published a very full and complete report of his observations after his return to France. He was a chevalier of the Legion of Honor and the recepient of many other marks of distinction. At the age of 79 years he won the prize of 10,000 francs from the French Academy for the best essay on public eduction. He published many works on history, literature and philosophy.

George Warren Hammond and his brother, Thomas, married sisters. He was connected with the business established by his father at Crown Point. After his death his widow m. 2d James D. Merriam, Esq., of New York City, by whom she had several children.

When a young man he went to New York City where he held a position in the office of Ripley & Son, dealers in wool, etc. Later he was employed in the First National Bank of Worcester where his uncle, Parley Hammond, was cashier. In 1854 he entered the City National Bank and was bookkeeper for some years. In 1868 he was temporarily employed as cashier of the Citizens' National Bank and on Oct. 25, 1869, elected cashier of the bank, in which position he served until ill health compelled him to resign the position Feb. 1, 1892. He was also engaged in a manufacturing business at Quinapoxet, Mass.

Mr. Hammond was a man of great probity of character and of settled opinions, but a fund of amiability and cheerfulness, made him deservedly popular with a large circle of friends. He did not care much for society in its conventional forms, but was truly happy in the company of his books. He had a fine library of choice books chosen with excellent literary taste and with an appreciation of the best authors. He was a member of the Atlanta Boat Club and later of the Quinsigamond Boat Club.

He had been enjoying his usual health and was in Boston the day previous to his death. After his return he sat up late chatting with his father and brother. The next morning while dressing he was stricken with apoplexy. He lingered without regaining consciousness until the afternoon when he quietly passed away. He made his home with his aged father and brother, Benjamin T. Hammond, and left no family.

consummate such a project. He opened the road to Indianapolis in 1879, and ever after took great pride in Indianapolis and his railway from Indianapolis to Decatur, 153 miles. For several years he spent much of his time in this city. R. B. F. Pierce, who was his attorney for years, and whom Mr. Hammond urged the first mortgage bondholders to place in charge of the property, on his health failing, says he never knew a more conscientious, upright business man than Mr. Hammond, and his kindly feeling extended to the humblest of the employes on the road. He planned and built the present Indiana, Decatur & Western shops, which are model shops of their size. Mr. Pierce said that he had read so much, traveled so much and was so observing that he was one of the best informed men on railroad matters in this country, and such men as George B. Roberts, president of the Pennsylvania lines; Austin Corbin, late president of the Long Island road, and M. E. Ingalls, president of the Big Four, were always glad to meet him, as he was an unusually interesting talker.

Miss Josephine L. Bates, his first wife, was the daughter of Benjamin E. Bates, president of the Bank of Commerce, Boston, Mass., and founder of Bates College, Lewiston, Me.

(VIII) Lewis Whitney Hammond, (Timothy W.[7]) b. Hardwick, Mass., August 22, 1836; d. Worcester, Mass., April 11, 1895.

m. 1st May 29, 1866, Josephine L. Bates, of Boston, Mass.; m. 2d ——— —, 1887, Elenore H. Boyd.

He graduated from Harvard Law School in 1861 and at once went to Washington, D. C., as secretary to his uncle, General Mansfield, who was at that time in command of the troops protecting the National Capitol. Late in 1861 he was sent by President Lincoln to Dublin as United States Consul and during the critical three years of his Consulship rendered great service to the country, and at the same time won the respect and esteem of the people to whom he was accredited. Upon his return to America he entered the office of Evarts, Southmayd & Choate and continued the practice of law in New York till 1881, being in partnership at various times with Judge James Emmett, Albert Stickney and General H. L. Burnett. The greater part of his time since 1870 has been given to the organization and management of railroads. He was secretary and attorney for the Union Pacific from 1867 to 1873; he became president of the Indiana & Illinois Central in 1871; in 1874 he was made general manager of the Boston & New York Air Line, and in 1881 its president; he was receiver of the Chicago, Danville & Vincennes railroad; in 1881 he was president of the Continental Construction Company; in 1891 he was president of the New York & Long Island Railroad Company. Mr. Hammond was a recognized authority on matters pertaining to railroad history and construction and has one of the best railroad libraries in the United States. He had a stroke of paralysis in 1893, and after that time practically retired from business.

He was twice married, in 1866 to Josephine L. Bates, and in 1887 to Elenore H. Boyd. The latter survives him. Mr. Hammond took charge of the Indiana & Illinois Central road when it was under a financial cloud and extended from Montezuma to Indianapolis. He was at the head of its affairs as president and receiver until 1888, for several years after was financially interested in the property, and but for financial reverses would have doubtless extended the road to Quincy, in fact, at one time he had arrangements perfected to support of the goverment during the Civil War and an ardent Republican in politics. His manner was singularly modest and unassuming and he possessed many noble traits of character. He was a natural musician and a great lover of music. He sang in the choir of the church at Crown Point for many years. He was strongly interested in the temperance movement.

In the autumn of 1873 he embarked with his entire family on the ill-fated steamship, Ville du Havre, en-route for Paris for the purpose of visiting Mrs. Hammond's childhood home. On the morning of Nov. 23, 1873, the steamer was run into by the English sailing vessel, Loch Earn, and sunk in mid-ocean. Many of the passengers were saved but nothing was ever heard of any member of this family and it seems certain that all went down to death with the ship.

City where he was engaged as basso in Rev. O. B. Frothingham's Church. He remained there three years when he returned to Worcester and resumed his position in the church there. In 1872 he went to Europe and spent a year studying with the famous Italian master, Antonio Sangiovanni. In 1873 he accompanied Adelaide Phillips and Camilla Urso on a concert tour and has sung frequently at notable concerts in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and abroad. Since 1886 he has given much of his time to teaching vocal music. He spends much of his time abroad, where he has many friends and admirers. Many of his pupils have become famous singers. He teaches only at his own studio in Worcester, but has pupils from all over the country who come to Worcester to study with him. He is now (1903) in Italy, after having spent a few months in Worcester. He is unmarried.

Mr. Walker went from Maine to Puget Sound in 1853 and entered the employ of the firm of W. C. Talbot & Co. in the milling and lumber business. He has spent a half century in the business and has been general manager of the Puget Sound interests of that firm and its successor, the Puget Mill Co. since 1861. He is also president of the Puget Sound Tug Boat Co. and is interested in other enterprises connected with the lumber trade.

In speaking of the company and its manager, the Pacific Lumber Trade Journal for July, 1903, says: "The successive broadening of the lines of operation of the Puget Mill Co. entitles it to a niche of distinction in the business history of the State and Puget Sound. Expansion of its interests into allied fields of endeavor have ever been marked with success, and this success is resultant from a masterly guiding hand. To Cyrus Walker belongs the honor. As manager of the Puget Sound interests of the company since 1861 and connected with the operations here since their very inception, eight years previous to that time, he has ample evidence to bear witness to the success of his plans and managership."

Mr. Walker and family have a residence in San Francisco, Cal., and a summer home at Port Ludlow, Wash. Mrs. Walker is a lady of much intelligence and true refinement. She is president of the Golden Gate Kindergarten Association and Free Normal Training School, of San Francisco.

(IX) MARY AMELIA HAMMOND, (Gen. John[8]) b. Crown Point, N. Y., Oct. 14, 1854; r. Crown Point, N. Y.; m. July 16, 1890, Col. Charles Chaille-Long, b. July 2, 1842, son of Littleton and Anne Mitchell (Costen) Long, of Princess Anne, Maryland. They have no children.

Charles Chaille-Long, soldier, explorer, diplomat, and homme de lettres, was born in Maryland, U. S. A., 1842. Completed classical course Washington Academy 1860-1861. Enrolled State Guards 1860-1861. Enrolled 1st Regiment E. S. Infantry, Maryland U. S. Volunteers 1862. Successively promoted Captain 11th, Marland Vet. Infantry, U. S. Volunteers; aide-de.camp Gen. A. P. Schoeff 1865. Mustered out of service and honorably discharged with Regiment, June 15, 1865. Engaged in literary studies 1866-1869.

Recommendation of Hon. Montgomery Blair, Generals Frank P. Blair, Schoeff, Lockwood, and General Fitz John Porter, appointed a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Egyptian Army by Ismail Vice-roi 1869. Commission dated March 2, 1870. Designated Chief of Staff to the General-in-Chief 1870. Professor of French at Military School, Cairo, 1870. Chief of Staff 1st Div. Infantry at Alexandria 1871-1872. Chief of the 1st, 2nd and 3rd Sections of the General Staff, Cairo, 1873.

Chief of Staff to General Gordon, Governor-General of the Equatorial Province of Egypt, Gondocoro, 1874-1877. Mission to M'Tesa, King of Uganda, April 24, 1874. Treaty executed establishing authority of Egypt July 19, 1874. Discovered Lake Ibrahim and solved problem of Nile sources August, 1874. Attacked and wounded at M'Rooli August 17, 1874. Decorated with the order of the Medjidiah and promoted Colonel and Bey, cited in General Orders War Dept. No. 18, dated Cairo, November 16, 1874. Expedition, conquest and occupation of Niam Niam Country, Jan., 1875. Attacked by the Yanbaris in March, 1875. England protests against the Egyptian expedition ; Ismail recalled expedition January 5, 1876. Permission granted to quit army on account of illness contracted in Central and Oriental Africa, August 31, 1877. M. Maunoir, the distinguished geographer, Secretaire General de La Societe de Geographie de Paris, says of Chaille-Long's expedition: " If the geographical results obtained by him have not had such an echo as other contemporary expeditions, they nevertheless occupy a most important place in the discoveries which have finally resulted in the solution of the problem of the discovery of the Nile Sources."

Returned to N. Y., October 11, 1877. Columbia Law School, 1878. Graduated class of 1880. Admitted to practice Supreme and District Courts of N. Y. and Supreme Court of United States, 1881.

Returned to Egypt 1881, and admitted to practice International Court of Appeals, Alexandria, January 11, 1882. The United States Consulate abandoned by its titular agents after the massacre of June 11, 1882, the U. S. Government requested Chaille-Long to assume direction during the interregnum of violence and danger which succeeded. Before and after the bombardment of July 11, the U. S. Consulate protected the refugees of all nationalities and placed them on board U. S. Vessels of War in port. He was the last to quit his post before the bombardment. He was the first after the bombardment to re-enter the burning city at day-dawn of July 13. The British refusing to debark troops or make any effort to save the city from threatened destruction; Admiral Nicholson, commanding the American Squadron in port, at the request of Chaille-Long, placed at his disposal 160 marines and sailors commanded by Lt. Commander C. F. Hutchings, U. S. Navy, and other officers of the U. S. Navy and Marine Corps. The U. S. troops occupied and re-established the U. S. Consulate, saved many lives, much property, extinguished the conflagration and preserved the city from total destruction. The U. S. Consulate (the only Consulate left standing), became the center of refuge of all nationalities. The Consul acted as intermediary between the British and all foreign refugees; the British finally occupied the city July 15, thirty-six hours after the Americans. The French Consulate completely destroyed on the 12th, the French refugees (when debarked from ships on which they had embarked prior to bombardment in great numbers) were aided and protected by the U. S. Consul in the absence of the French Consul. During the panic created by the landing of the U. S. Consul, which the rebels mistook for a general debarkment of the British, the Khedive, his harem and court escaped under the protection of U. S. Sailors and Marines from the custody of Arabi Pasha's soldiers. The Khedive decorated Chaille-Long in recognition of this service with the Cross of Commander of the Osmanieh, offering him the rank of Brig. General. Chaille-Long declined the honor, because his country's interests and dignity, already assailed by the scandalous flight of its titular agents, demanded his services. He resigned the office which he had held provisionally and without remuneration, when order was restored, in August, 1882. He received a letter of thanks and approval of his conduct from the State Department, dated September 8, 1882. A letter from Admiral Nicholson recommended the conduct of Chaille-Long to the special attention of State Department. A resolution of thanks was offered in the 48th Congress by the Hon. S. S. Cox. Mr. Grover Cleveland, Governor of New York, appointed him a Commissioner for the State of New York for the City of Paris, France, May 2, 1883. President Cleveland appointed Chaille-Long Secretary of Legation and Consul General to Corea, 1887. He accomplished a scientific mission to the Island of Quelpært, in the Great Ocean south of Corea, 1888. Resigned his post April, 1889. Resignation accepted 6th December, 1889.

Elected Corresponding member Institut Egyptien, 1875. Corresponding member of Geographical Society of New York, 1877. Hon. member Societe Khediviale de Geographie du Caire, 1882. Count de Bessay died in La Vendee in 1653. Andre Chaille Seigneur de Beruges, Mayor of Poitiers in 1462, was ennobled by Charles VII. Pierre, his son, was a member of the Ban of Nobles, of the Haut Poitou, and appointed, 1489, Procureur of the city of Niort.

"Colonel Charles Chaille-Long was born in Princess Anne, Somerset County, Maryland, July 2d, 1842, son of Littleton Long of Chailee and Anne Mitchell Costen, grandson of Levin Long and Margaret Comfort Chaille, great grandson of Pierre Chaille and Comfort Houston,"—Records of Circuit Court for Somerset County, Maryland, Certified Feb. 24th, 1893.

The hyphenated name of Chaille-Long, borne by the subject of this sketch, is a patronymic borne also by his brother and due to the alliance by marriage of the Chaille-Long families, as will be seen by reference to the certificate of birth herewith annexed. Solomon Long, Captain of one of the seven independent batteries of Maryland in the War of the Revolution, was the father of Levin who married Comfort Chaille.

He was an expressman, a highly respected young man. His death was very sad. With his wife and baby he went to a friend's in Charlestown to witness the Bunker Hill celebration. In the afternoon while walking on the street with some other young men they passed a young girl of thirteen or fourteen years in company with a man much older. The man was acting improperly and insulting the girl. Hammond promptly interferred and sent the girl home. Later he returned to the home of his friend. About six o'clock his wife started for home but his friend wished him to walk down town with him and see the illumination. He placed his wife on the car and promised to follow on the next car, then walked down town with his friend. They saw the man whom he had reproved in the afternoon but paid no attention to him. He, however, came up and spoke to them and walked along with them, laughing and joking with them. One of the young men asked him for a whiff of his cigar. He passed over the cigar and as he did so drew a revolver and shot Hammond, the ball taking effect in his neck. He lived but about ten minutes after the shooting. The man was arrested at once and is held for trial for the murder. It was a terrible shock to his family and a large circle of friends.

HAMMOND GENEALOGY.

PART IV.

DESCENDANTS OF ISAAC HAMMOND, (No. 8.)

OF NEWTON, MASS.

40

(IV) Isaac Hammond, (Isaac[3]) b. Newton, Mass., July 31, 1698; d. New London, Conn., Oct. 26, 1755; m. Feb. 10, 1717, Mary Chamberlain, b. Jan. 20, 1693; d. Dec. 4, 1775; dau. of Clement and Mary (———) Chamberlain, of Billerica, Mass. There is a tradition that she was his cousin.

He purchased land, in Newton, of his father, on which he settled at the time of his marriage, but in 1721 he sold this land and removed to New London, Conn.

In 1734 he purchased a farm on Mohegan hill for £660. Mohegan hill was later called the North Parish of New London, and in 1786 this parish was incorporated as the town of Montville.

Rev. David Jewett, a native of Ipswich, Mass., was ordained pastor of the church in this parish in 1739. A considerable breach occurred in this church before 1750, led by Isaac Hammond and his wife, who seceeded, and were called Congregational Separates, or Baptists, and their son, Noah, became a Baptist preacher. Isaac died about 1756, and in

Feb., 1757, Adonijah Fitch and William Hillhouse, executors of the Last Will and Testament of Isaac Hammond, late of New London, petitioned the court for power to sell land to settle his estate. (Col. Records Conn., Vol. 10, p. 614.)

The records of their children were taken from the old family Bible now in possession of Thomas Hammond Saxton, of Port Jefferson, Long Island, N. Y.

Children:

2166* 1. NOAH, b. Feb. 14, 1718.
2167* 2. AMARIAH, b. April 16, 1719.

(IV) JOSIAH HAMMOND, (Isaac[3]) b. Newton, Mass., March 12, 1700; d. Woodstock, Conn., Oct. 5, 1793; m. 1st, Oct. 17, 1723, Mary Davis, b. ——— —, 1701; d. Sept. 13, 1778; m. 2d, Sybel ———, who survived him.

He settled at Woodstock, Conn., at the time of his marriage and the baptisms of his children are found recorded in Hampton Church records. In 1732 he bought a farm of Stephen Paine, deed of which is found recorded in Vol. 2, p. 68, Pomfret Deeds. The will of Josiah Hammond, Pomfret Conn. Probate Records, Vol. VII, p. 467, dated August 6, 1793, mentions daughter, Ann Kimball, sons, John, Asa, Hezekiah and Josiah; wife, Sybel. Son, Josiah, ex. Recorded from Windham Lots and Woodstock, Nov. 4, 1793. His inventory, Vol. VII, pp. 254-5, amounted to £1517, 16s, 10d. His headstone in Woodstock Hill burying ground contains the following inscription: "Josiah Hammond; Died Oct. 5, 1793, in ye 94th year of age. Beloved in Life, Lamented in Death, he calmly bid adieu to this world, with a pleasing hope of Life immortal beyond the Grave."

"Behold, my friends, as you pass by,
As you are now, so once was I,
As I am now, so you must be,
Prepare for death and follow me."

Children:

(IV) JONATHAN HAMMOND, (Isaac[3]) b. Newton, Mass., Feb. —, 1706; d. Woodstock, Conn., ——— —, 1758; m. ——— —, ——, Katherine ———.

Jonathan settled at Woodstock, Conn., about 1730 and his children are all recorded there. Soon after the baptism of his younger children he, with several others, separated from the Congregational Church and founded a Baptist Church in Woodstock. The record of his marriage cannot be found and he probably married before his settlement there. The given name of his wife appears in deeds and in the settlement of his estate.

Children:

2188* 1. MATHEW, bapt. Nov. 11, 1732.
2189. 2. (?) LOIS, b. ———.

(IV) Esther Hammond, (Isaac[3]) b. Newton, Mass., Feb. 3, 1708; d. ——— —, ——; m. March 23, 1727, Samuel Chamberlain; d. ——— —, ——; son of ——— and (———) Chamberlain, of Newton, Mass.

Children:

2196. 1. Ann, (Chamberlain) b. August 3, 1729.
2197. 2. Samuel, (Chamberlain) b. April 16, 1732.

45

(IV) Elijah Hammond, (Isaac[3]) b. Newton, Mass., Oct. 7, 1711; d. Bolton, Conn., May 3, 1800; m. 1st Oct. 13, 1732, Mary Kingsbury, b. ——— —, 1712; d. Dec. 16, 1776, dau. of Nathaniel and Hannah (Dennison) Kingsbury, of Coventry, Conn.; m. 2d Jan. 1, 1778, Abigail Terry, b. ——— —, 1730; d. March 19, 1796; of Glastenbury, Conn.

Elijah went to Connecticut before 1730. He probably followed his brother, Isaac, and Cousin Caleb, going first to Norwich, New London County, where he was admitted a freeman in 1730. (Hist. of Norwich, p. 231.)

He probably settled at Bolton about the time of his marriage, in 1732. He purchased large tracts of land, and soon became one of the most prominent men in the business and public affairs of the town. He was public spirited and liberal with his means, and ever ready to assist in promoting the moral and material interests of the town. He built at his own expense the church which was located on Bolton Hill, on a spot selected by himself, and which has but recently been removed to give place to more modern improvements.

He was a devout Christian, a man of strong character and an iron will. (See Centennial Address by Rev. S. G. W.

MERRILLE F. HAMMOND,

SECRETARY NATIONAL TANNING & LEATHER CO.,

NEW YORK CITY.

Rankin, published in Tolland County Journal, July 21, 1876.) His tombstone at Bolton has the following lines:

"Let children view my grave,
And be concerned to know
How they may be secured in Christ,
From death and endless woe."

A decendant, Mr. Elijah N. Hammond, of Cleveland, O., has in his possession a deed given by Elijah Hammond, of Bolton, dated in the 13th year of the regin of King George II, (1740.)

It is evident that he had no children by his second wife, as she was aged 48 years at marriage.

Children by 1st wife:

2198* 1. NATHANIEL, b. Sept. 10, 1733.
2199* 2. HANNAH, b. April 8, 1736.
2200* 3. PRISCILLA, b. August 6, 1741.
2201* 4. ELIJAH, b. August 16, 1753.

(V) REV. NOAH HAMMOND, (Isaac[4]) b. Newton, Mass., Feb. 14, 1718; d. Coram, Long Island, N. Y., Nov. 14, 1774; m. 1st, ——— —, ——, Anna Baker, b. ——— —, ——; d. ——— —, ——; m. 2d, ——— —, ——, Lucretia ———, b. ——— —, 1732; d. April 7, 1773.

He died of small pox. The inscription on his gravestone in the church yard at Coram, Long Island, reads: "In Memory of Rev. Noah Hammond, Minister of the Gospel and Pastor of the Baptist Church of Christ in Coram, who was born Feb. 14, 1718, and departed this life Nov. 4, 1774, in the 56th year of his life." The gravestone of his wife, Lucretia, who is buried beside him, bears the following inscription: "In Memory of Lucretia, wife of the Rev. Noah Hammond, who departed this life April 7th, 1773, in the 41st year of her age."

About 1745 a breach occurred in the church in the North Parish of New London, (now Montville, Conn.,) under the pastorate of Rev. David Jewett, and among the seceeders were Isaac Hammond, his wife and their son, Noah. They were known at first as Congregational Separatists, but in 1748 a great revival occurred, and the Howard Baptist Church was organized. Soon after this another church was organized near the town site of New London, and Noah Hammond was ordained Elder with Zadoc Damon as Deacon. An attempt was made to erect a church, but the building was never completed, and the society soon united with the earlier one, over which Elder Hammond was called to preside, and Zadoc Damon became Deacon of the United churches.

Elder Hammond preached at other places also, and was soon called to Long Island, where he was invited to preach to the society formed at Coram in 1749. Here he built a church over which he presided until his death. He traveled all over the south-eastern portion of New York and northern New Jersey, preaching the Baptist doctrine and gathering church societies. The building which he erected was used by the British as a stable during their occupation of Long Island, during which time the Hammonds and others were finding refuge in Connecticut. After the evacuation by the British, the sons of Rev. Noah returned to Coram. and the building was used as a church again until 1847, when it was taken down and removed to Port Jefferson, where it was converted into a dwelling house. It is said that the old floor showed the marks of the horses' hoofs until the building was removed.

"Priest" Hammond, as he was often called, was a man of more than ordinary ability as a speaker, fluent and convincing in his arguments. He was fairly educated, and in addition to his ministerial labors he kept a school at Coram. Mr. Lewis Edwards, of Middle Island, a gentleman now (1902) aged over 90 years, whose mother was one of his pupils, relates many interesting anecdotes of Rev. Noah and the ancient meeting house. His descendants have been essentially religious, and a very large percentage of clergymen are found among their number. The families have been universally large, and his descendants have become very numerous, probably far exceeding in numbers those of any other Hammond of the same period.

The will of Rev. Noah Hammond, dated June 15, proved Nov. 18, 1774, is on file in the Surrogate's office at Brookhaven, Long Island, N. Y. (Vol. 29, p. 235.) In it he mentions daughter, Betsey, and sons, Noah, Elisha, Joshua, Ezra, Isaac and John, they and each of them paying to their sisters, Eunice, Lois and Lucretia, three pounds apiece. "My son, Daniel, having received his part of my estate." As birth dates are lacking the exact order of birth is not known. It is not known just how many were children of the second wife.

(V) Amariah Hammond, (Isaac[4]) b. Newton, Mass., April 18, 1719; d. Wyoming, Pa., July 3, 1778; m. —— —, ——, Mary Dudley, b. —— —, ——; d. —— —, ——, dau. of William and ——— (———) Dudley, (perhaps Mary, b. August 9, 1723, dau. of Jedediah and Mary (Marson) Dudley). Amariah settled near Montville, Conn., where he was a farmer. It is probable that he removed to the vicinity of Canaan, Litchfield Co., Conn., soon after 1762, and from there to the Wyoming Valley in Pennsylvania, then considered a part of Connecticut. His wife, Mary, was a member of the North Parish (now Montville) church, of which Rev. David Jewett was pastor. She is said to have died at Wyoming

some years prior to his death. Her father is said to have been killed at the siege of Louisburgh in 1749, and that Mrs. Dudley, her mother, removed to Wyoming with Amariah's family. It is said that Mrs. Dudley lived to be very old and that she was kindly cared for by her grandson, Lebbeus Hammond, after the death of her son-in-law. She is often mentioned in the traditional histories of Wyoming, although the name is given in some instances as "Granny" Headley instead of Dudley. Amariah received 60 acres of land from his father at or near what is now Montville, New London Co., Conn. The deed, dated Feb. 5, 1749, is found at page 176, Book 18 of the Town Records. He also purchased other lands in the vicinity. He sold lands there June 25, 1755, May 24, 1758, and May 22, 1760. He was probably there, however, as late as 1762, as he was appointed to be "Ensign in the 3d Regiment, 3d Company of Militia, in May, 1762." The record shows that he was in Capt. Zebulon Butler's Company in the Havana Expedition in that year. (Col. Records Conn., Vol. 13, p. 452.) He was probably with Capt. Butler in the Wyoming troubles and undoubtedly met his death at the hands of an Indian either before the massacre or upon that fatal day. Chapman says he was killed by an Indian July 3, 1778, but his name is found on no tax list after that made in August, 1776. The exact time of his settlement at Wyoming is unknown, as the only definite record is on a "list of the taxable inhabitants in the town and county of Westmoreland, (Wyoming, Pa.) State of Connecticut, 1776-80." "Kingston District Rate bill made on the August list, 1776." On this list are found "Amariah Hammond £26-00-00, tax £0-15-02," and his sons, "John Hammond £30-00-00, tax £0-17-06," and "Dudley Hammond £21-00-00, tax £0-12-03." On the list, for August, 1777, his name is not found, but four of his sons are on the list, viz: "William Hammond £18-00-00, tax £0-18-00; Lebbeus Hammond £33-00-00, tax £1-13-00; John Hammond £28-00-00, tax £1-08-00, and Oliver Hammond £18-00-00, tax £0-18-00." On the "Rate for Nov. 1, 1778, Kingston District," they appear with the same tax, except William, whose rating is cut down to £11-00-00. (Wyoming Hist. Society's Coll., Vol. 5, pp. 211-219.)

No list for 1779 is extant and on the list for 1780 no Hammonds are found. It is probable that all who escaped the massacre returned to Connecticut and from there again emigrated to the wilds of Chemung, N. Y., then in Tioga Co. It is the tradition that John died at Canaan or Salisbury, Conn., but no records have been found. His widow and sons were found in Dansville, N. Y., some years later, but the place of his death is now uncertain. The name of Lebbeus Tubbs, whose daughter became the wife of Lebbeus Hammond, is found on all of the rate bills mentioned above, his rating being far in excess of that of any one of the Hammonds.

(V) MARY HAMMOND, (Isaac[4]) b. New London, Conn., May 13, 1722; d. Enfield, Conn.; m. 1st about 1736, Jeremiah Vallett, a sea captain; she m. 2d, under romantic circumstances, Thomas Adams, b. August 30, 1719, son of Thomas and Sarah (Collins) Adams, of Colchester, Conn.

"She had m. in 1736 Jeremiah Vallett a worthy sea captain (many years her senior) to whom she bore a son, but about three years after their marriage he left her for a short voyage. But months elapsing without his return or any news from him he was given up as lost, his estate was administered upon, and at the expiration of the time of mourning, 'but with no unseemly haste,' she m. (in 1744) Thomas Adams, then a young and active ship carpenter, and settled down to domestic happiness in the 'late' Captain Vallett's house. But in due course of time Captain Vallett, sound and well, presented himself at their door. 'Under the laws of the colony no wrong had been done or intended, and a consultation was held without delay with the good minister of the place, who had tied the second knot, and a magistrate of the law as the legal counsellor, to effect an amicable arrangement between the parties. It was agreed that the wife should herself say which husband she preferred and she unhesitatingly chose the second one undoubtedly, from her past experience, being more in favor of a land lubber on shore than the best sailor-man afloat. So the captain graciously accepted the situation with the stipulation, however, that young Adams and wife should depart from that neighborhood a considerable distance. The Vallett child remaining, of course, with his father. Thomas Adams thereupon removed to East Windsor and settled on the Conneticut River at Warehouse Point at his old trade of ship carpenter and afterwards kept a public house there and died Nov. 1767, in his 49th year.'

"Mrs. Mary (Hammond) (Vallett) Adams m. 3d Gen. Benjamin Wolcott, b. Sept. 14, 1717, son of Henry and Abigail (Cooley) Wolcott, of Longmeadow, (Springfield,) Mass. She separated from him by mutual consent and spent the rest of her years with one of her daughters." (Stiles's Ancient Windsor, pp. 10-11.)

(V) ELIJAH HAMMOND, (Isaac[4]) b. New London, Conn., ——— —, 1731; d. ——— —, ——; m. ——— —, ——.

Elijah Hammond appears to have had a military experience very similar to that of his brother, William, and in the same Cos. and Regts. with him. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 94, pp. 114, 203, 235, 303 and 563.)

(V) WILLIAM HAMMOND, (Isaac[4]) b. New London, Conn., Nov. 12, 1735; d. ——— —, ——; m. ——— —, ——.

William Hammond went to Boston, Mass., when a young man. He enlisted in the French war, and seems to have had a varied military experience. His name appears on the Muster Roll of men under command of Col. Jacob Wendell, in Gen. Winslow's command sent against Crown Point in April, 1756. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 94, p. 235.)

He next appears in a roll of Capt. Richard Atkin's Co., Col. Joseph Thatcher's Regiment at Camp Fort Willliam Henry, having been transferred from Col. Wendell's Regiment. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 94, p. 303.) He is reported to have deserted and taken his arms, blankets, etc. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 94, p. 302.) He is reported "never joined" on a muster roll of the same company, according to a return made by Henry Leddell, Muster Master General, Oct. 11, 1756. (Mass. Arch. Muster Roll, Vol. 94, p. 563.)

(V) JOSEPH HAMMOND, (Isaac[4]) b. New London, Conn., March 21, 1737; d. Seneca, N. Y.; m. ———.

He was a Revolutionary soldier in Capt. Nathaniel

Pomeroy's Co., Col. Chapman's Regt. of Connecticut Militia in service in Rhode Island from August 3 to Sept. 18, 1778. (Conn. Rev. Records.)

The record of his marriage has not been found. He is said to have been in the Wyoming Valley in Pennsylvania with his brother and nephews but no records have been found to prove this. He probably removed to the town of Seneca, Ontario Co., N. Y., near the present site of Geneva, at an early date but little can be learned about him or his descendants, except in the Tuttle line. His son, Dr. Isaac, and daughter, Elizabeth, both lived near Geneva some years. There were probably other children.

Children :

2223* 1. ISAAC, b. ——— —, 1759.
2224* 2. ELIZABETH, b. about 1761.
2225. 3. EUNICE, b. ——— —, ——; m. 1st Timothy Rogers; m. 2d Andrew Tuttle.

(V) CAPT. JOSIAH HAMMOND, (Josiah[4]) b. Woodstock, Conn., Jan. 31, 1723-4 ; d. Hampton, Conn., August 21, 1802 ; m. —— —, ——., Abigail Durkee, dau. of Capt. William and Abigail (———) Durkee.

Their children were baptized at Hampton Church. He was Lieutenant of a Militia Company and marched to Lexington on alarm in April, 1775. In 1776-7 he was Captain 3d Battalion, Connecticut troops, under command of Generals Spencer and Wooster.

The two children, Asa and Elijah, are given from Mansfield town records ; it is possible that the names of the parents were John and Abigail, rather than Josiah and Abigail, as there is no tradition or family record to show that Capt. Josiah had such children.

Children :

2226. 1. ABIGAIL, b. ———; m. ——— Jewett.
2227* 2. JOSIAH, bapt. Jan. 9, 1760.

(V) JOHN HAMMOND, (Josiah[4]) bapt. Hampton, Conn., Dec. 6, 1729 ; d. ——— —, ——; m. Windham, Conn., Dec. 19, 1749, Abigail Fuller.

They lived some years in Hampton, but removed to Brooklyn, Conn., about 1765. He was Sergeant in Capt. Clark's Company of Connecticut troops, enlisted Jan. 8, 1778, for service in Rhode Island. There is some doubt about all of the following children having been of the same family, but it is not known that another John Hammond lived in the locality at that period.

Children bapt. in Hampton :

(V) ABEL HAMMOND, (Jonathan[4]) bapt. Woodstock, Conn., July 2, 1738; d. Winchester, N. H., Jan. 8, 1806; m.

—— —, ——, Sarah ———, b. —— —, 1739 ; d. Feb. 24, 1807.

He settled in Winchester prior to 1775. Was a Revolutionary Soldier in Winchester ; was Corporal in Capt. Reuben Alexander's Company, Col. Samuel Ashley's Regiment, that marched from Cheshire Co. at the requisition of Maj. Gen. Gates, to reinforce the army at Ticonderoga, in Oct. 1776 ; served as a private in Capt. Oliver Capron's Company, Col. Samuel Ashley's Regiment, in June and July, 1777 ; was also a private in Capt. Elisha Whitcomb's Company, Col. Timothy Bedel's Regiment, in Feb. and March, 1777. (N. H. State Papers, Vol. 15, p. 55 ; Vol. 16, p. 927 ; Vol. 17, p. 96.)

He signed the new church covenant in Winchester, Nov. 14, 1764. His wife, Sarah, was admitted to full communion July 7, 1765.

He signed the "Association Test" as a resident of Winchester on a return made June 3, 1776. May 25, 1786, he deeded one-half of his farm on the Warwich Road to his son, David. January 7, 1806, his son, David, in consideration of the sum of $1,200, paid him by Abel Hammond, gave a bond "to care for, give a home, room, provender and certain privileges of visitors, etc., to Abel and Sarah Hammond during life."

(V) Nathaniel Hammond, (Elijah[4]) b. Bolton, Conn., Sept. 10, 1733; d. Bolton, Conn., Dec. 10, 1817; m. 1st, ——, 1760, Dorothy Tucker, b. —— —, 1740, d. Dec. 21, 1775, dau. of ———. Married 2d, —— —, 1776, Mrs. Eleanor (Olmsted) Burr, b. June 26, 1748; d. June 8, 1822, dau. of Nathaniel and Sarah (Pitkin) Olmsted, of E. Hartford, and widow of Timothy Burr.

He inherited the greater part of his father's land and during his entire life was prominent in the business and public affairs of the town. He farmed on a large scale and the land records at East Hartford show that he was also a mill owner in Orford Parish, now Manchester, Conn. He was an active patriot in the Revolutionary War and a member of the Town Committee for the supply of provisions to the soldiers' families.

He was a zealous friend and supporter of the orthodox church, and all of his sixteen children were united with the church before his death. It is said that he left each of his eleven sons a good farm. His old homestead in Bolton is now a part of the Williams estate. Both of his wives were of prominent and influential families.

He is said to have been born at a place called "Fire-place," and to have removed from thence to what is now called New Village, then a wilderness covered with heavy timber, in the year 1790. He purchased 400 acres for £100, and cleared a farm where he spent the remaining years of his life. He was a tanner and shoemaker. He held the office of constable in early life, and is said to have had to use the whip as a punishment for theft and other minor offences. He was an ardent politician in his day, and a man of strong opinions.

(VI) Capt. Josiah Hammond, (Amariah[5]) b. Montville, Conn., about 1752; d. ——— —, ——; m. ——— —, ——, Molly Nobles, of Conn.

He was Captain 3d Battalion Conn. Troops in 1776. From Connecticut he went to Wyoming, Pa. Whether he was there at the time of the massacre is unknown. From there he removed before 1791 to Elmira, N. Y., which was then known as Newtown, and from there to Tioga County, Pa., where he settled upon the banks of a creek, which has since been known as Hammond Creek. From here he removed to Nelson, Pa., where he spent the remainder of his life. A gentleman, who knew him in his later years, is authority for the statement that he was somewhat addicted to drink. His sons, Erastus and Oliver, with their families, and several of his daughters with their families removed to the Wabash country in Indiana about 1822. It is not now known in what town or even in what county they settled. They all had the fever and ague and many of them died from its effects. Some of the children came back to Pennsylvania in the '50's, visiting their relatives, but persistent effort fails to divulge their place of residence. Josiah and Molly (Nobles) Hammond are buried in the Rathbone Cemetery at Nelson, Pa.

(VI) LEBBEUS HAMMOND, (Amariah[5]) b. Montville, Conn., ——— —, 1754; d. Elmira, N. Y., July 12, 1826; m. ——— —, ——, Lucy Tubbs, b. April 5, 1758; d. April 17, 1844, dau. of Lebbeus and Bathsheba (Hamilton) Tubbs, Lyme, Conn., Wyoming, Pa., and Southport, N. Y.

Lebbeus Hammond served in the Revolutionary Army and also did much military duty in Wyoming, Pa. It is known that he served for a considerable period of time in the regularly enrolled troops and he is said to have been promoted to lieutenant but the records have not been found with the exception of the following: "Pay roll of Co. of Militia commanded by Col. John Franklin, in service of U. S., pay due from the 5th of May to the 14th of Sept. 1780, Capt. John Franklin, 4 mo. 10 days; Lieut. Roswell Franklin, 3 mo.; Sergt. Lebbeus Tubbs, 2 mo. 3 days: Sergt. Christopher Hurlbut, 3 mo.; Private Lebbeus Hammon, 2 mo. 3 days," and 28 others. Much has been written about this noted Indian fighter and patriot. Every history of the Wyoming Valley gives a large amount of space to his daring exploits. Especially interesting accounts of this remarkable man may be found in Peck's "Wyoming," Miner's "Wyoming," Chapman's "Franklin's Oath, A Tale of Wyoming," Hubbard's "Life and Times of Moses Van Campen," or any others of the numerous works treating on the early history of the historic Wyoming Valley.

Lebbeus on his removal from the Wyoming Valley settled on a farm near Elmira, N. Y., being one of the early settlers of "Newtown" as Elmira was then called. The farm is now owned and occupied by the family of his grandson, Lebbeus H. Matthews. His first house was built upon the bank of the creek not far from the present residence. The house now occupied by the Matthews family was built by Lebbeus prior to 1800 and was occupied by him until his death. His daughter, Hannah, did not leave home at her marriage but with her husband continued to reside with her parents. The house has continued in possession of the Matthews ever since his death and is now occupied by a great-grand-son and great-grand-daughter.

Lebbeus was taken sick on Friday, June 30 and died on Wednesday, July 12, 1826. Rev. Mr. Gillett preached his funeral sermon. He is buried in the Griswold Cemetery, two miles from Lake Street Bridge, Elmira, N. Y. The inscription on his tombstone reads: "In memory of Lebbeus Hammond, Esq. A patriot of the Revolution. Died July 13, 1826. Aged 72 years." The inscription on his wife's tombstone reads: "Lucy, wife of Lebbeus Hammond. Died April 17, 1844. Aged 86 years and 12 days."

(VI) DUDLEY HAMMOND, (Amariah[5]) b. Montville, Conn., ——— —, 1757-8; d. Elmira, N. Y., ——— —, 1802; m. about 1780, Sybil Huntington, b. Oct. 3, 1760; d. Elmira, N. Y., March 8, 1842, dau. of James and Elizabeth (Darby) Huntington, of Norwich, Conn.

Dudley Hammond was a Revolutionary soldier in Capt. Leffingwell's (New London) Company of Connecticut troops in 1777. He was then a resident of Norwich, (Montville,) Conn. He removed, with his wife and family of young children, in 1800 to the vicinity of Elmira, N. Y., (Southport,) where he died in 1802, leaving his wife and family of small children to struggle for existence in what was then a comparative wilderness.

Mrs. Hammond, who was a cousin of Samuel Huntington, signer of the Declaration of Independence, was a woman of Spartan courage, and she, by her own exertion, kept her young family together, and reared them up to manhood and womanhood in a respectable manner. Mrs. Hammond's grandfather was James Huntington, b. Norwich, Conn., May 18, 1680; m. Feb. 3, 1703, Priscilla Miller. He was a son of Simon Huntington, b. in England in 1629, and Sarah Clark, his wife. Simon Huntington was one of the very early settlers in Connecticut, and d. at Norwich, June 28, 1706.

Oliver went to Wyoming, Pa., with the other members of the family, and was on the tax lists of Kingston District two or three years prior to the massacre. He is said to have returned to Connecticut at the time of the massacre, and to have remained in that state until about 1790, when he removed to the vicinity of Southport, (now South Elmira,) N. Y. He died from the effects of an error in administering medicine during an illness that would not probably have proved fatal. He probably saw fighting during the Wyoming troubles, but no record of his service has been found.

(VI) WILLIAM HAMMOND, (Amariah[5]) b. New London, Conn.; d. Wyoming, Pa., July 5, 1778; m. ———.

He went with his father and brother from Canaan, Conn., to Wyoming, Pa., with the Connecticut Colony and was killed at the massacre in July, 1778. His name is on the monument erected to the memory of the heroes who fell in defence of their wives and children on that memorable occasion.

(VI) JASON HAMMOND, (Jason[5]) b. ———, Conn.; d. ——— —, ——; m. ——— —, ——, Hannah ———.

Jason probably lived in Connecticut until after the close of the Revolution and then removed to Amenia, Dutchess Co., N. Y. The place of his death is now unknown, but he probably died in Dutchess Co., N. Y. He was living in Canterbury, Conn., in 1767-69, and the births of his sons, Jason and Elisha, are found recorded there, but the births of his other children have not been found.

(VI) DR. ISAAC HAMMOND, (Joseph[5]) b. New London, Conn., —— —, 1759 ; d. Litchfield, Conn., August, 4, 1854 ; m. 1st, ——— —, ——, ——— ; m. 2d, in Litchfield, Conn., Nov. 9, 1837, Dorcas Barber, b. ——— —, —— ; d. Litchfield, Conn., Oct. 13, 1854.

His age was given at death as 98 years, but this was not correct, as his age was given in his pension application, in 1818, as 59 years. This places his birth at 1759 and would make his age at death 95 or 96 years.

His residence at marriage to Dorcas Barber was given as Pleasant Valley, Steuben Co., N. Y., and he had probably lived at Bath, or Hammondsport, where he had many relatives for some time prior to this marriage.

His application for a pension, on file at Washington, D. C., dated Oct. 16, 1818, shows that he was then residing at Seneca, Ontario Co., N. Y. ; that he enlisted at New London, Conn., where he then resided, in July, 1775, in Captain Hale's Company, Col. Webb's Regiment, and served in that Company until July, 1776, when he was transferred to Capt. Dana's Company, Col. Knox's Regiment of Artillery, in which he served until he was discharged in Feb., 1777. He was in the battles of Pawlett Hook, Trenton and Princeton.

It is probable that his father removed to Seneca, N. Y., and his sister, Elizabeth, certainly lived in that town.

Nothing has been learned about his first marriage or his family, but a Joseph B. Hammond, probably his son, or perhaps a nephew, was living in Seneca about 1840 or 1850.

He was certainly a son of Joseph Hammond and a grandson of Isaac Hammond, of New London, Conn., and probably had brothers who settled in Central New York.

(VI) Elizabeth Hammond, (Joseph[5]) b. in Connecticut about 1761; d. Geneva, N. Y., ——— —, 1835; m. about 1787, Benjamin Tuttle, b. New London, Conn., about 1760; d. Geneva, N. Y., ——— —, 1833, son of Andrew and Ann (Woodruff) Tuttle.

He was in Wyoming, Pa., in 1781, and probably settled in Geneva, then known as Seneca, N. Y., about the time of his marriage. There were several children born to them, and many descendants now living. Mr. Hammond B. Tuttle of Geneva is a descendant of their son, Joseph H. Tuttle.

(VI) ELISHA HAMMOND, (Hezekiah[5]) b. Hampton, Conn., May 26, 1780; d. West Brookfield, Mass., May 12, 1851; m. ——— —, ——, Phebe Parsons Hitchcock, b. Jan. 8, 1782; d. Nov. 26, 1836, dau. of Capt. David and Martha (Keys) Hitchcock, of West Brookfield, Mass.

Elisha was educated at Yale College. His father gave him, in addition to a liberal education, the sum of £1,400 in gold and silver. He settled, as a lawyer, in West Brookfield, where he married Miss Hitchcock, the daughter of Capt. David[4] Hitchcock (Peletiah[3], Capt. Luke[2], Luke[1], who came from England in 1635; d. Springfield, Mass., 1659.) Capt. David kept the only public house (built by him in 1760) in West Brookfield at the time when Gen. Washington passed through that town. This hotel, the West Brookfield House, is still standing and has never closed its doors to the public. He was not successful in the practice of law in West Brookfield and removed to New York City in 1830. Here he lost his youngest son during the time when cholera prevailed in that city, in 1833. His remaining daughter also died unmarried, and he lost his wife in 1836. He was a studious, hard-working lawyer, but not a good financier, and although he was worth at one time ever $75,000, he died a compartively poor man. He published a standard law work on "Marine and Fire Insurance," and also made the principal notes to "Phillips on Evidence," a law work in four volumes. He returned to West Brookfield before his death and is buried there. He was Representative to the Massachusetts General Court in 1810, 1812, 1815. (Hist. No. Brookfield, by Temple, p. 28.)

(VI) Mathew Hammond, (Jonathan[6]) b. Woodstock, Conn., ——— —, 1759; d. in Orange Co., N. Y., before 1817; m. probably at Windsor, Vt., ——— —, ——, Hannah Hoisington, b. Farmington, Conn., (Southington) Sept. 9, 1759; d. in Orange Co., N. Y., after 1830, dau. of Ebenezer Hoisington, who emigrated from Farmington, Conn., to Windsor, Vt., about 1765. They probably lived in Vermont a few years after their marriage, but emigrated to Orange Co., N. Y., either before or very soon after the Revolution. There is some question as to where they lived at the time of his enlistment in the Revolutionary army. The companies of Rangers are credited to Orange Co., N. Y., but were probably raised in Vermont, which was then known as the New Hampshire grants, and was claimed by New York. Major Joab Hoisington, who was in command of these companies, was a cousin of Hannah (Hoisington) Hammond. He was a son of John Hoisington, of Farmington, Conn., m. Jan. 14, 1759, at Southington, Conn., Mary Boardman, and removed to Windsor, Vt., in 1765, but was living at Woodstock, Vt., at the beginning of the Revolution. He was in command of the "Vermont Rangers." (See Hall's Hist. Eastern Vt., p. 166.) He died of small-pox at Newbury, Vt., 1777, while stationed there with his command. His son, Bliss Hoisington, was bapt. April 25, 1762, and could not have been over 15 or 16 years of age at the time of his enlistment. He served later as a staff officer under Major John Hawkins, who succeeded his father in command of the Rangers, and married the Major's daughter at the close of the war. Many of these Rangers were very young, mere boys in fact, but they did valiant service in their country's cause. Mathew and Jonathan Hammond were about the same age as Bliss Hoisington, Mathew, perhaps his senior by one or two years, was made a corporal in the command. It seems probable that these companies were enlisted as residents of New York in order to be accepted and draw pay for their services. Many of them became residents of the State of New York later, and that State claims them as its soldiers. In "A Return of the Commissioned Officers of the Four Companies of Rangers Commanded by Major Joab Hoisington," and "Muster Roll of Captain Benjamin Wait's Co.," are found the names of Corporal Mathew Hammond, enlisted August 7, 1776, and Privates Jonathan Hammond, enlisted August 8, 1776, and Bliss Hoisington, enlisted August 7, 1776. (New York in the Revolution, p. 129.)

In 1817, Widow Hannah (Hoisington) Hammond returned to Windsor, Vt., where her brothers, Abisha, Orange and Ebenezer Hoisington built her a small house. She resided at Stowe, Vt., a few years, but returned to Windsor and attended her sister, Mrs. Rhoda Flower, during her last sickness, and until Mrs. Flower's death in 1820. In the winter of 1824-5 she went to reside with her son, Mathew, who then lived in the State of New York, and in 1830 she was residing with him at Crawford, Orange Co., N. Y.

(VI) JASON HAMMOND, (Nathaniel[5]) b. Bolton, Conn., Feb. 1, 1762; d. Bath, O., Sept. 27, 1830; m. April 24, 1788, Rachel Hale, b. Nov. 11, 1758; d. Oct. 11, 1842, dau. of Theodore and Rachel (Talcott) Hale, of Glastenbury, Conn.

He was a farmer, miller and merchant in Orford Parish, now Manchester, Conn., prior to his removal to Ohio. The land records at East Hartford show that both he and his father were land owners and mill owners there in 1800 and after. (Town Records, East Hartford, Conn.) His father conveyed to him 116 acres of land there in May, 1803. (East Hartford Record of Deeds, Book 7, p. 274.) In connection with his merchantile business he was the owner or lessee of one or more vessels engaged in the West India trade. He purchased many of his goods for his store from his relative, Col. Abijah Hammond, then a prominent merchant on Broadway, New York City, and letters from this relative are still in existence in the family.

When the embargo was proclaimed in December, 1807, he was compelled to give up his business, and he closed up his affairs in an honorable manner, sold out and removed to "New Connecticut" in Ohio. He exchanged his lands in Connecticut with Thomas Bull, one of the proprietors of the Western Reserve, for a large tract of land at what was afterwards called Bath, O., and in 1810 removed with his family and two brothers-in-law, Jonathan and Elijah Hale, to the new country.

His son, Theodore Hammond, then aged about 21 years, and Jonathan Hale were sent forward each with a team and loaded wagon in advance of the other members of the family to locate the land and select building sites. Theodore Hammond left Bolton on the 8th and Jonathan Hale left Glastenbury on the 12th of June, 1810. Jonathan Hale arrived on the land July 13th, being 31 days on the road, while Theodore Hammond did not arrive until July 25th, having been 48 days en route.

Jason Hammond and the remainder of his family with the two Hale families left Glastenbury with a team of horses and two yoke of oxen on Sept. 15th and arrived at Bath, then called Hammondsburg, on Nov. 5, 1810. Rachel Hammond, then a young woman of 19 years, drove the span of horses the entire distance of about 650 miles. Jason's nephew, Elijah Hammond, of Bolton, accompanied them as far as Cleveland, where he turned back. Jason Hammond and Jonathan Hale were the most prominent and influential men in the new colony. Jason erected a mill and proceeded to get his land under a high state of cultivation.

After living in the original cabin for seven years he moved into the large and attractive frame house which he had erected and which still stands in a good state of preservation. He was a man of high character. He was deeply interested in the moral, religious and educational welfare of the colony. A short time prior to his death he divided his lands between his three sons, giving to Lewis the homestead.

He was a Revolutionary soldier, having served in Capt. Cone's Company, Col. J. Well's Regiment, in service at New London, Conn. The records in the war department at Washington, D. C., show the following record: "Marched August 23, 1779; discharged Oct. 26, 1779; days in service 67."

The following account of his life is gleaned from the records in the Pension Office at Washington, D. C.: "Jason Hammond was a pensioner, and he states in his declaration that he was born in Canterbury, Conn., May 8, 1767, and had a son, Elisha, who was born Jan. 22, 1792, and both were living, in 1832-3, in Chemung, N. Y. Jason died Feb. 26, 1834, and was married June 10, 1791, to Mary ———. A year or two after the war he removed to Amenia, Dutchess Co., N. Y., and from thence to Shawangunk, Ulster Co., N. Y., and for 17 years prior to 1832 he has resided in Chemung, N. Y. He made a family record in a Bible which became so much worn that a new one was obtained in 1823 or 4, into which the family record was copied. This last Bible has been ever since in the custody of his son, Elisha.

"Jason enlisted in Canterbury about Sept. 1, 1782, for one year in a Company of Artillery, commanded by Capt. John Durkee, in Col. McClannen's Connecticut Regiment, and was stationed during his entire term of enlistment in Fort Trumbull, in New London, Conn." (Letter from Commissioner of Pensions, March 5, 1885.)

He was a Presidential Elector in Sullivan Co., N. Y,, Nov. 5, 1872. The following which was clipped from an Ellenville, N. Y., paper a few days after his death contains a fair sketch of his life :

" Stoddard Hammond, many years one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of Sullivan County, died at the home of his son, Stoddard Hammond, Jr., in Binghamton last Friday morning after a protracted illness. Mr. Hammond was about 87 years of age. Interment was at Monticello on Monday. We have not the data at hand for any extended sketch this week. He is survived by two sons, Francis and Stoddard, both residing in Binghamton, and one daughter, Sarah, wife of Rev. H. A. Harlow.

"Stoddard Hammond, Esq., whose death in Binghamton has been noted, was long an honored and influential citizen in Sullivan—a man who but for his distaste for conspicousness in politics or otherwise would have become far more widely known. He was a native of Vermont, and in his keen intellect, positive integrity, and strong marked individuality, bore the impress of his New England origin.

" Having learned the currier's trade at Rutland he soon after found his way to Greene County, this state, and was for some time employed with Jonathan Palen, at Palenville. Later he interested himself with Rufus Palen & Co. in a tannery at Samsonville, this county. From there to Fallsburgh with Palen & Co.; thence to Grahamsville, where with Henry Wells he bought out Childs & Eaton (Richard Childs and Horace Eaton) and for some years prosecuted tanning with good success and erected a handsome residence for those days. He was also engaged in the same business at Dewittville, where, if we mistake not, John Reynolds was his partner. In 1856 Mr. Hammond and Mr. James Benedict bought the bark on a tract of 35,000 acres on the Mongaup and Willowemac streams and set about the erecting at DeBruce one of the largest tanneries in the country, the entire cost being, it is said, nearly $75,000. Their enterprise opened during the panic times of 1857 but for some years Benedict & Hammond carried on an immense business, and made a great deal of money. They employed quite an army of men and their operations contributed largely to opening up that section. The " pole road " to Claraville was an incident of the business. Their freights of leather and hides were sent to the canal in the season of navigation and to the Erie road at Otisville via Ellenville in winter.

"About the beginning of the war Mr. Hammond sold his Grahamsville property to John Reynolds, who with Clark Eaton carried on tanning there for some time. Mr. Hammond, who spent but a small portion of his time at De Bruce —the local management of the business devolving upon Mr. Benedict,—removed from Grahamsville to Monticello, where he bought a home and afterward resided until the death of his wife ten years or more ago. It was near the close of the war when Mr. Benedict withdrew from the firm, his interest being taken by Mr. Hammond's sons, Frank and Stoddard, Jr., who a few years ago bought their father's interest also. Mr. Hammond married during his stay in Palenville, Lomira Lawrence of that place, one of the noblest of women. On her death he broke up his home and spent the remainder of his days with his sons. His remains were brought to Monticello on Monday, the 19th, and laid beside those of the companion of his life. Funeral services were held in Binghamton Presbyterian Church, and at the grave by Rev. John Mc Gowan. Pall bearers were: Hon. C. V. R. Ludington, J. F. Tymeson, R. Oakley, A. Olmstead, E. W. Fairchild and John Waller. Messrs. Frank and Stoddard Hammond and their wives, with Mrs. Carrie Mason and Miss Mamie Hammond, grand-daughters, accompanied the remains from Binghamton. The deceased man was one of the most scrupulously upright citizens, public spirited, intensely patriotic, and an ardent Republican. He was an Elector for President Grant—between whom and himself, by the way, there existed a marked likeness of character in more than one respect."

(VII) Dr. Justin Hammond, (Col. Asahel[6]) b. Hampton, Conn., March 2, 1804, d. Killingly, Conn., July 5, 1873; m. Nov. 25, 1831, Susan Peckham, b. July 10, 1810, dau. of Dr. Hazael Peckham, of East Killingly, Conn.

His early education was obtained in the district schools and the Academy at Monson, Mass. He entered Brown University in 1823, graduating with more than ordinary honors in 1827. He then entered the office of Dr. Usher Parsons, of Providence, R. I., as a student of medicine. In 1830, he received the degree of M. D., from Harvard College, and immediately commenced the practice of medicine by associating himself with Dr. Hazael Peckham, of East Killingly, whose daughter he married the next year. He succeeded to Dr. Peckham's practice in a few years and continued to practice in the town during the remainder of his life, removing to Daysville, in the western part of the town, about 1851. He was a man of above the average size, of strong, vigorous constitution, and a bright, active mind. He was a physician of more than average ability and his opinions were respected by all who knew him. He was for many years a Deacon of the Congregational Church and took an active interest in church matters. He was Selectman of the town for some years, but being a quiet, unassuming man, and deeply interested in the practice of his chosen profession, he did not aspire to public office.

She was his cousin. They resided first at Stowe, Vt., where three of their children were born. She had been a school teacher in Vermont and some of her letters written at that period and now in possession of one of her descendants show good penmanship and a bright mind.

They emigrated to Wayne, Champaign Co., O., about 1822, and settled near her father. They lived here until about 1837, when they removed to Swan, Warren Co., Ill., where they afterwards resided. He was a farmer and settled upon and improved the S. E. quarter of Sec. 29, Township 8, North of 2 West. In 1837 this was wild and uncultivated prairie. The Hammond-Stice burial ground which contains the remains of many of the early pioneers of the town is upon this land at the north-east corner and here they lie buried amid the surroundings of their toils and successes.

They came from Ohio with relatives and were among the first settlers of the town. Their old home, a double log house with center fireplace, has gone to ruin. The old farm has changed hands and gone into the control of strangers, while their numerous descendants have all, or nearly all, joined the human tide going westward. Aunt Betsey, as Mrs. Hammond was called, was a true woman and much respected. In early life she was a Methodist but later a Universalist. In her old age she was much afflicted with rheumatism. They acculated some property which he left to his descendants. His will was probated in the County Court of Warren Co., Ill., in 1865.

Nathan was a farmer, hunter and fisherman. He was rather peculiar, but a sturdy citizen. Dr. Pierce relates the following incident regarding him: "Once, while out hunting he froze one of his toes. It caused him much pain and trouble, causing him to walk with a decided limp. Meeting Dr. Pierce one day he consulted him about it. The Doctor informed him that the only thing that could be done was to amputate the toe, which he would do any day that Nathan would call at his office. He did not come, so one day the doctor met him again, and observing that he did not walk lame, asked the reason for it. 'Well! you see Doctor' said Nathan, 'the —— thing ached so I couldn't stand it, so one day when I was up to 'Lisha's I just laid down on the floor, face down and put it on a round stick of wood, and 'Lisha took a hammer and chisel and cut it off.'"

Nathan enlisted in Company —, ———, and served as a sharpshooter during the Civil War.

(VII) Rachel Hammond, (Jason[5]) b. Bolton, Conn., Jan. 22, 1791; d. Richfield, O., Jan. 26, 1868; m. ———

—, ——, Leman Farnam, b. ——— —, ——; d. ——— —, 1870, son of John and Mary (Everett) Farnam.

They left no surviving children; one son and three daughters grew up, but all died before the death of their parents. She was a noble Christian woman, a member of the Presbyterian Church at Richfield, O., greatly esteemed by all who knew her. She saw many of the vicissitudes of pioneer life, but overcame them, and lived to enjoy the fruits of her industry and perseverance. Mr. Farnam was an eccentric genius, he built a saw mill on his large farm for his own convenience, creating power to run it by the construction of dykes from one pond to another. He began the erection of an orphan asylum on his place shortly before his death, but did not live to complete it.

Mrs. Hammond removed with her parents from Dighton, Mass., to Bristol, Ontario Co., N. Y., in 1802, where she resided until she was 20 years of age when with her eldest brother she removed to Richfield, O., where she taught school. Here Lewis Hammond formed her acquaintance and married her three years later. A sketch of her life is found in "Pioneer Women of the Western Reserve," (1897) by Mrs. Gertrude Wickham.

Lewis Hammond was a farmer and dairyman. He was one of the most influential and active citizens of the Cuyahoga Valley. In addition to his extensive agricultural business he was a good mill-wright. He built and operated a saw mill and dealt extensively in lumber. Some time before his death he came into possession of a flouring and woolen mill which he also operated. He owned several large farms and was the first to introduce Short-horn cattle and Merino sheep into the locality.

He was a noted athlete and is said to have lifted a large barrel of cider above his head and drank from a gimlet hole bored into the barrel. Many other tales of his athletic feats are told by the old settlers of the locality. He was socially popular and fond of good company and his family was seldom alone in their home. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond were active members of the M. E. Church.

Soon after his marriage he settled on a farm of his own about a mile west of Bath, O. Later he and his cousin, Royal Hammond, conducted a store at Hammond's Corners. From here he removed, May 24, 1839, to Alexandria, O., where he engaged in milling flour and also had a saw mill. In June, 1848, he sold his property at Alexandria and removed to Ontario, Ill., where he resided until death.

He was active in school and church work and was a deacon in the Congregational Church. He, with his brother, Lewis, and Jonathan Hale were the first directors of the public school at Bath, O. In 1876 he published a small pamphlet genealogy of the family, in which he took great interest.

He removed with his parents to Bath, O., in 1815, where he remained until 1844, when he removed to Ontario, Ill., where he lived until 1852, when he went to Galesburg, Ill., and engaged in the grocery business, in which he accumulated a fortune. He was a man of very strong convictions, a radical Prohibitionist and a candidate of his party for Member of Congress.

He left the bulk of his estate to Wheaton College, but his widow contested the will and had it set aside, she receiving one-half of the real and personal property. They had no children.

(VII) Col. Charles Goodrich Hammond, (Chester[6]) b. Bolton, Conn., June 4, 1804; d. Chicago, Ill., April 4, 1884; m. August 30, 1827, Charlotte B. Doolittle, b. Whitesboro, Oneida Co., N. Y., Feb. 14, 1807, dau. of Gen. George and Grace (Wetmore) Doolittle, of Whitesboro, N. Y.

She survived him and died from the result of a fall at her home in Chicago, Ill., Jan. 5, 1887. She was an estimable lady, was long connected with the "Woman's Board of Missions" of which she was the first treasurer. She was also an honorary member of the Board of Managers of the "Home for the Friendless," and was widely known for her charitable work.

Col. Hammond removed with his parents from Bolton, Conn., to Smyrna, Chenanga Co., N. Y., in 1808. He obtained a good common school education in the schools of the vicinity and began teaching while still very young. He taught in the schools of neighboring towns and later in the academy at Whitesboro, where he became acquainted with the young lady whom he married. At about the time of his marriage he settled in Canandaigua, N. Y., where he remained some years engaged in mercantile pursuits.

In 1834 he removed to Detroit, Mich., and embarked in land speculation having been interested with several others in the building up of Union City, Mich. He purchased a farm for his father here and lived near him a few years, during which time he was elected to the Legislature of Michigan, in which he served two years. He was subsequently appointed Auditor General of the state and later Collector of the Port of Detroit, holding each office several years. In 1852 he was appointed General Manager of the Michigan Central R.R., and held the position until 1854, when he was chosen General Superintendant of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R.R., which position he held until 1864, when he resigned on account of ill health and went abroad. He traveled extensively in Europe where he remained until the fall of 1867. After his return to Chicago with improved health he was chosen Superintendant of the Union Pacific R.R., but owing to ill health he soon resigned. His gifts to the schools and colleges of the west were munificent. He founded the Hammond Library in connection with the Theological Seminary in Chicago and it remains an enduring monument to his memory. He was converted to Christianity in his youth and was always an active, earnest Christian gentleman.

His death occurred very suddenly in the store of Marshall Field & Co., while waiting for his daughter, who was in another part of the store. He was sitting near the door in conversation with some ladies of his acquaintance his head suddenly sank forward and when assistance reached him it was found that he was dead. The funeral was held at the New England Church, of which he was an active member, and was very largely attended. Perhaps no man in the whole race of Hammonds has been so widely known and had so large a circle of warm friends. A memorial volume was issued in 1887 containing, in addition to a very complete sketch of his life, many flattering expressions of the esteem in which he was held by those who knew him.

He removed to Mississippi soon after his marriage. He was a lawyer of great ability, and with a reputation which extended beyond the limits of the State. He represented his district in the Mississippi Legislature in 1840-41-50, and was an Elector on the Bell and Everett presidential ticket. He was a strong southern sympathizer during the war and the owner of a large number of slaves, but was liberal and charitable to a fault, an ideal chivalrous southern gentleman. He strongly opposed secession from the Union and voted against it, but when his State withdrew he gave it his loyal support.

The marriages both occurred at the same time. The brothers settled near each other and the children grew up almost like one family. Jasan was an enthusiastic farmer. He was also a successful school teacher in his earlier years. He was a musician and a great lover of music, a genial, whole-souled man who was loved by all who knew him intimately. He participated in a large family gathering on the shores of Lake Ronkonkama, near his home, on his ninetieth birthday and seemed to be in excellent health and spirits at the time, but almost immediately afterward sickened and died.

He was naturally very enterprising and active throughout his life. About 1836 he, with his wife and infant daughter, emigrated to Schobarie County. He built a log cabin in a sparsely settled locality, in what is now Conesville, and grew up with the town, becoming one of its leading citizens both in church and civil affairs. ' He was a grand man morally, intellectually and socially. A model Christian, citizen and friend, one whose sound judgment, practical common sence and genial manners won the implicit confidence of all who knew him. He was a model farmer and dairyman, taking great interest in agricultural pursuits. He was elected Member of Assembly from Schoharie County in 1846 and served the succeeding year with distinction.

WALTER HAMMOND PEARSON,
VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.

Susan Guernsey, b. Feb. 4, 1827, dau. of Ezra and Ann (Buck) Guernsey, of ———.

Charles A. Hammond was educated for the ministry and became the pastor of Gerrit Smith's Free Church at Peterboro, Madison Co., N. Y., where he was for many years the intimate friend of Mr. Smith and other noted Abolitionists. After the close of the Civil War he studied law, and was admitted to the bar. He has devoted much of his time since his admission to the bar to the prosecution of violators of the liquor laws, gaining considerable notoriety throughout the State by his earnest work to supress the curse of liquor selling. He has also written and lectured for the cause of temperance. In 1882 he was the nomiee of the Prohibition party for Judge of the Court of Appeals. A man of strong convictions, a stern hater of evil, and, with the courage of his convictions, he has made many enemies among the wrong-doers, and met with ridicule and abuse from the unthinking upholders of iniquity, but it has never turned him from the course which his conscience dictated. No honor is too great for the man who sacrifices much for the cause of truth and righteousness.

(VIII) Lydia Ann Hammond, (Silas[7]) b. Marathon, N. Y., Nov. 21, 1830; r. Cortland, N. Y.; m. May 4, 1851, John W. Strowbridge, b. Feb. 26, 1827, son of Henry and Hannah (Cleveland) Strowbridge, of Solon, N. Y.

He attended the district school in his native town and later the Cortland Academy. He afterward taught school several terms and then became a contractor and builder. He married Miss Hammond in Freetown in 1851 and in 1854 they removed to Cortland, where they resided until his death.

In the spring of 1864 he enlisted in Co. F, 185th N. Y. Vols., and was in active service until the close of the War. He took part in sixteen battles, including Five Forks, Appomattox, and the final battles before Petersburgh. He was one of the party detailed to disarm the Confederates after the surrender of Gen. Lee, and had as a relic of that event a box of cartridges which he received from Gov. Wise on that occasion. He was promoted for bravery and at the close of the War held a commission as Captain. He was a man who commanded the respect of everyone who knew him; a large hearted, broad minded gentleman. He held many of the local offices and at the time of his death he was Overseer of the Poor, it being his third term in the office.

His death was very sudden. He was out driving with a horse and sleigh on the streets of Cortland at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon when he was stricken dead, not even having time to stop the horse or cry out for help. The horse continued on its way and his death was not discovered until it had reached the corner of Port Watson and Pendleton streets. There it was met by another horse and sleigh, the driver of which saw with horror that Capt. Strowbridge was dead. The funeral, which was one of the largest ever seen in Cortland, was held from his home, No. 20 Monroe Heights, Rev. John Kenyon, pastor of the Universalist Church, officiating. Grover Post, No. 98, G. A. R., of which he was past commander, attended in a body and conducted the final services at the grave.

Mrs. Strowbridge, who is a very intelligent lady, is a practicing physician and has a private sanitarium and hospital at her home No. 20 Monroe Heights. She is a lady of advanced ideas, a physician of great ability and enjoys a large practice. She is also Secretary of a Hammond Society, which holds a re-union each year in Cortland County, N. Y.

(VIII) Minerva Hammond, (Amariah[7]) b. Dansville, N. Y., Oct. 29, 1795 ; d. Dansville, N. Y., April 14, 1855 ; m. May 25, 1812, James Faulkner, b. Jan. 21, 1790, son of Samuel and Catherine (Phenie) Faulkner, of Cambridge, Washington Co., N. Y., and Dansville, N. Y.

Dr. James Faulkner was one of the pioneers of the famous Genessee Valley, coming to Dansville when but seven years of age with his parents Jan. 7, 1797. After obtaining a good common school education he studied medicine and graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the City of New York in 1812. He was a surgeon in the War of 1812, being appointed on the staff of Gen. McClure. He moved with that officer to the seat of war on the northern frontier.

After the close of the war he practiced his profession for five years and then purchased a large paper mill and became one of the principal paper manufacturers of western New York. He also purchased a large tract of land at Dansville, N. Y., at the head of the famous Genesee Valley. In 1815 he was elected Supervisor of his town and re-elected many times. In 1824 he was elected Member of Assembly and re-elected in 1825. In February, 1835, he was appointed Associate Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Livingston County, which office he held until 1843, when he resigned to to take his seat in the State Senate. He held the office of State Senator four years, and then retired from public life; devoting his time to successful business enterprises. He was a broad-minded, genial, whole-souled gentleman and was highly respected by all who knew him. He died at Dansville, N. Y., Oct. 19, 1884, aged 94 years.

(VIII) Hannah Hammond, (David[7]) b. Elkland, Pa., Dec. 25, 1814; d. Lawrenceville, Pa., June 9, 1888; m. Jan. 6, 1836, George L. Ryon, b. Elkland, Pa., June 28, 1813; d. April 2, 1897, son of John, Jr., and Susannah (Tubbs) Ryon.

He was a son of Hon. John Ryon, of Elkland, where he lived in his earlier days and attended school, going to Harrisburg to finish his education. After graduating at Harrisburg he returned to Elkland and entered upon a mercantile career, holding the office of Postmaster during President Polk's administration. When the vast tracts of forest lands in Tioga County, Pa., were opened to lumbermen he sold his business in Elkland and engaged extensively in the lumber business.

He was a noted river pilot and raftsman and knew every part of the river from Tioga County, Pa., to Port Deposit, Md., a matter of great importance in those days when much depended on the knowledge and skill of the pilot in charge of the immense rafts that were started from this county to tide water. He was a Captain in the State Militia and for many years was a prominent figure at the annual "trainings." He commanded the Elkland Guards and his grandson has the sword which was presented to him, said to be one of the finest in the state. He was also a noted rifle shot and a keen sportsman.

In 1849 he removed to Lawrenceville, Pa., and engaged in farming on his land across the Tioga River from that place. He remained here until his death. In politics he was a staunch Democrat and while not strictly speaking a politician he very acceptably filled many of the county offices of Tioga County. In private life he was a dignified, unobtrusive gentleman and before age, with its attending infirmaties, incapacited him he was very sociable and hospitable in his disposition. He left behind him the record of a long and honored life as a valuable inheritance and example to his children. He was a staunch Presbyterian.

After his return from the army he opened a drug store at Randolph, N. Y., which he continued for three years, but owing to fierce competition sold out his business. In 1873 he formed a partnership with O. H. Willard in the manufacture of tinware, in which he was very successful. The firm continued in business about five years, during which time he invested in oil lands near Bradford, Pa. This investment was also successful. He then invested largely in a stock company for the manufacture of chairs at Randolph, N. Y. This company eventually became bankrupt, which, with other equally unfortunate investments, swallowed up his entire fortune, leaving him in his old age in rather limited circumstances.

Oliver was a man of genius, an inventor. He met his death by accidental shooting while out deer hunting. At the age of 18 years in company with his cousin, J. Monroe Hammond, he went to Illinois for the purpose of taking up government land, but not being satisfied with the outlook there they started to return to New York. Oliver, however, stopped in Michigan, where he met and married his wife. They located at Mt. Clemens, then a frontier town, where he started a saw mill, and where their first child was born. The county was then full of half savage Indians and life was full of terrors for the young wife and her little child.

The following incident related by his daughter, Mrs. Shaw, will serve to show how unpleasant frontier life was in those days: "One day while father was standing in the saw mill he saw a band of drunken Indians, eight or nine in number, coming toward the house which was a short distance away. He watched them to see if they approached the house for the young wife and her little child were there alone. The Indians stopped at the house and went in, all but one being intoxicated. They were very rough and the mother was badly frightened and when the leader, who was called 'Big Joe,' demanded food she was almost too frightened to obey and fearing also to leave her child in their company long enough to comply with their demand. They were in an ugly mood and the leader carried an axe so that she dared not refuse. In a state of mind better imagined than described the mother started to get the desired eatables and was returning with a large plate of food when her husband appeared on the scene. He most decidedly informed the burly leader that when they came there sober they could have food for their need, but never could they do so if they came drunk as they then were. The insolent 'Big Joe' or 'Leather Lip,' as he was often called was then taken by the collar and fairly pitched out of doors and all departed, the sober one, meanwhile, explaining to them that they were refused food because of their intoxicated condition. Some time after this incident an old squaw came to the house for food which was readily given her and the incident was passed over without serious trouble."

He returned to New York after a few years and lived a quiet life as a farmer until a short time before his untimely death when he went to Oil City, Pa., which was then the scene of the great oil excitement and purchased an oil well. He was soon obliged to return for the purpose of settling his mother's estate, and before he was prepared to return to the oil regions met with the fatal accident which ended his career. He was a large, powerful man, six feet in height, broad shouldered and muscular, stoical, perfectly fearless and scrupulously honest.

(VIII) WILLIAM JONES HAMMOND, (Lewis[7]) b. Bath, O., June 4, 1824; d. Guthrie Center, Iowa, Dec. 9, 1896; m. June 1, 1847, Margaret A. Baldwin, b. Summit Co., O., Feb. 15, 1823, dau. of James F. and Margaret (Finley) Baldwin, of Bath, O. She is still (1903) living at Guthrie, Ia.

In October, 1853, he removed from Bath, O., to Marion Co., Ia., where he bought a farm on which he continued to live 27 years. He was one of the pioneers of that section, and soon acquired a large farming property. He took great interest in educational matters, and erected the first frame school house in the locality. In 1857, he united with the Congregational Church, of which he was ever after a consistent member. In March, 1880, he removed to Guthrie Center, Ia., where he engaged with his son in the real estate and loan business, in which he was very successful. He was a lover of books and flowers; a genial, kindly gentleman, who was loved by all, both young and old. Sitting in his easy chair in a room adorned with books, pictures and flowers, he passed away as peacefully as a little child going to sleep. He lived to see seven of his children grown up and settled in good positions in life.

(VIII) Judge Rolland O. Hammond, (Lewis[7]) b. Bath, O., July 8, 1826; d. Akron, O., Jan. 12, 1867; m. Akron, O., June 8, 1851, Melvina A. Harris, b. ——— —, ——; r. with her daughter in Cleveland, O.; dau. of Russell and Rosanna (Bosworth) Harris, of Strongsville, O.

Judge Hammond was the smallest in stature of any of his father's family, not exceeding 5 feet 6 inches in height, but his deficiency in stature was more than made up in talent and ability. He entered the Western Reserve College at 19 years of age and remained two years. He then read law at Akron, where he was admitted to the bar in 1850, and almost at once gained prominence in his profession. In 1852 Gov. Wood appointed him Probate Judge for Summit Co., to fill the unexpired term of Hon. Charles G. Ladd, deceased. He was Town Clerk of Portage township, (Akron) 1852-56; Trustee of the township, 1862; Postmaster at Akron, appointed by President Buchanan, 1857-61; a member of the 18th District Military Committee, and Provost Marshal for Summit Co., 1862-63, and a delegate to the National Democratic Convention at Cincinnati, which nominated Mr. Buchanan for President.

During the Civil War he loyally supported all measures for the suppression of the Rebellion. He was a prominent Mason. He was an attendant at the Episcopal Church, where Mrs. Hammond held membership, but was not a member himself. Had he lived he would undoubtedly attained great political prominence as well as a high place in his profession.

He was graduated at Spencer Commercial College, Cleveland O.; removed to Peoria, Ill., in 1878. He was a clerk and book-keeper in Horace Clark's hardware store seven years, since which time he has been western representative of a prominent oil house of New York and also engaged in the insurance business. He has accumulated a fine property and lives in an elegant home on one of the best avenues of Peoria, Ill. He is prominent in Masonic circles.

Children:

4469. 1. Charles Homer, b. Oct. 17, 1869; killed by the explosion of a bomb at a Democratic rally in Peoria, Oct. 30, 1884. He was a bright and promising young man.
4470. 2. Richard H., b. Dec. 21, 1878; graduated Peoria, High School. In 1896, he was appointed cashier, at Peoria, of the C., B. & Q. R. R., and later elected a member of Peoria Stock Exchange. He is a thorough-going business man.

3311

(VIII) Sabra Ulysses Hammond, (Lewis[7]) b. Bath, O., Feb. 11, 1835; r. Chicago, Ill.; m. 1st, Dec. 4, 1857, Elois R. Harris, b. Feb. 13, 1840; d. August 10, 1862, dau. of Russell and Rosanna (Boswell) Harris; m. 2d, Jan. 4, 1866, Margaret S. Duey, b. June 4, 1840, dau. of William and Mary (Booker) Duey, of Richmond, Ind., and a lineal descendant of Johann Christian Duey, who came from Rotterdam to America in 1750 and settled at Harrisburg, Pa.

After the death of his parents Mr. Hammond entered the printing office of the Summit County Beacon, at Akron, O., where he remained four years. He then attended the Western Reserve Academy at Hudson, O., where he remained about two years. He then went to Iowa, where he engaged in editing and publishing a newspaper, although still under 21 years of age. He was then a Democrat and a strong partisan, but during the struggle over the Kansas-Nebraska bill and the subsequent efforts of the slave states to extend their territory he felt compelled to change his political allegiance and act with the Republican party, with which he has acted and voted ever since that time. From that time until the close of the war he took an active part in the political field in Iowa and elsewhere.

After the war he removed to Cincinnati, O., where he engaged in business and erected a block of six modern dwellings on Mt. Auburn, where he then resided. In the Board of Trade he was Chairman of the committees of finance and municipal taxation. In 1876 he removed to Florida, where he built one of the finest homes in Eastern Florida on the St. Johns River and surrounded it with a large orange grove. In 1886 he removed to Boston, Mass., to educate his daughters, both of whom attended the Girls' Latin School and Harvard Annex. In 1893 he removed to Chicago, where his daughters graduated later from Chicago University with high honors.

Mrs. Hammond, by her mother's side, is descended from the noted Virginia families of Pendleton, Gaines, Broadus and Booker. Mr. Hammond has been collecting biographical material relating to the Hammond family for many years, with a view to publication, and has furnished much material relating to his branch of the family for this work. He is a fluent writer and a gentleman of fine character.

(VIII) Rev. Edward Payson Hammond, (Elijah[7]) b. Ellington, Conn., Sept. 1, 1831; r. Hartford, Conn.; m. May 24, 1866, Eliza Overton.

Rev. Mr. Hammond is a noted evangelist well known and deservedly popular both in the United States and in Great Britain. An eloquent preacher, he draws large crowds of people to his meetings wherever held and makes many converts. He appeals especially to the children and younger people, whom he loves and with whom his words have much influence. He is the author of "Roger's Travels" and several other works of great merit and peculiarly adapted to the youthful mind. He has also written for and edited young people's departments in several religious periodicals.

Many words of commendation for him and his work have appeared in the public press from time to time and his work has received the warm praise of many eminent men and women. He has traveled extensively abroad and his mind is stored with anecdotes picked up during his travels which add greatly to the fascination of his sermons.

Mrs. Hammond resides in Highland Park, Ill., with her only surviving daughter. Mr. Hammond located in Chicago when a young man, and soon became prominent in financial circles. He was a man of great probity of character and soon gained the confidence of Chicago's moneyed men in a marked degree. He was a man who lived up to his professions in a rare degree, and who carried his convictions into his every-day business life.

He was a strict temperance man, and, although doing a large brokerage business, he would never deal in the securities of brewing companies, or other similar concerns. He was always a consistent member of the Baptist Church, and was widely known in every field of religious and philanthropic work. At the time of his death he had been for more than twenty-five years a member of the Stock Exchange, and for much of that time a member of the governing committee of that body. He was independent in politics, always giving his support to the candidates whom he believed to be the best fitted for office, regardless of their party affiliations. He was stricken with apoplexy while on his way home from the office, and died at the Wells street depot of the Northwestern Railway in Chicago, leaving a widow and only daughter to mourn the loss of a loving husband and a kind father.

He began life as a sailor on the trackless deep, going twice around the globe, and visiting nearly every seaport of importance in the word. His last voyage as a sailor was on a whaling trip to the Arctic Ocean, and on the return trip while unloading cargo at the Sandwich Islands, he was disabled by being struck with a barrel of oil which broke three ribs. His comrades believing death would ensue left him here in charge of good nurses and with the best of medical attendance. He slowly recovered and went to San Francisco in 1849 during the gold excitement, where he made money rapidly for some time. He was essentially a pioneer and colonizer, and went to Utah in the early days of the Mormon settlement at Salt Lake City, where he became prominent in the councils of that sect.

After his settlement in Utah he engaged in the boot and shoe business, tanning and saddlery and the manufacture of harness, besides other mercantile business and farming. He was eminently successful in all lines of business, ambitious, industrious and very influential in every community in which he lived. He had an iron will and a strong constitution and could endure more hard labor than most men. He was ever the friend of the poor and needy and never turned anyone from his door without relieving their distress. He went out as a missionary several times to the Sandwich Islands and elsewhere, crossing the Pacific Ocean nine times.

He held many offices of trust, and was for some years a prominent and influential member of the Utah Legislature. He visited his early home at Patchogue, N. Y., a short time before his father's death, spending the winter there and proclaiming the Gospel according to the tenets of his faith. He was accidently killed by the running away of his team while on a trip with an old friend in New Mexico, and is buried beside his first wife at Huntsville, Utah.

The first Mrs. Hammond was a well educated, intelligent lady. She taught the first school ever established in Utah. The family is held in high esteem by all who know them, both Mormon and Gentile.

Miss Hammond was a very successful school teacher in her earlier life, but has been engaged in business in Plainfield for a number of years.

(IX) Deborah B. Hammond, (Rev. Mowbray S.[8]) b. Coram, (L. I.,) N. Y., Jan. 22, 1831; r. Gilboa, N. Y.; m. Nov. 13, 1866, Rev. David S. Stevens, b. Oct. 26, 1834; d. April 17, 1897, son of Levi F. and Thirza (Sage) Stevens, of Conesville, Schoharie Co., N. Y.

Rev. Mr. Stevens was a member of the Eastern New York Conference of the M. E. Church. His ministerial labors extended over a period of twenty years, during which time he served a number of charges on Long Island and Connecticut very acceptably. Failing health compelled him to relinquish his loved labor in 1883, and he removed to his native county in 1885, making his residence Gilboa, where he lived the remainder of his life. No issue.

(IX) Rev. Samuel Mowbray Hammond, (Rev. Mowbray S.[5]) b. New Village, (L. I.,) N. Y., March 10, 1833; d. Torrington, Conn., Jan. 2, 1892; m. Nov. 22, 1859, Frances A. Howell, b. March 3, 1841, dau. of Isaac Reeve and Hannah (Raynor) Howell, of Mattituck, (L. I.,) N. Y.

At the age of sixteen years he went to sea, but a few months of sea-faring life satisfied him and he returned home. He went South soon after his return, and spent three years, mainly in Virginia and South Carolina, where he was engaged in taking daguerreotypes and teaching. During this period in the South he experienced religion, and upon his return home in 1853 he began to tell his experience and exhort. His eloquent words resulted in a revival of religion, and he saw clearly that his true field of labor was in the ministry. To secure means for his education he again returned to Virginia and taught school.

In 1855 he received a license to exhort, and in 1856 a local preacher's license from the York, Va., circuit. When he had earned enough money to continue his education he returned North and entered Fort Plain (N. Y.) Seminary, where he remained a year, when he entered the Biblical In-Institute at Concord, N. H., where he graduated in 1859. After his graduation he was supply preacher at Freeport, Long Island, some months, and then joined the New York Eastern Conference at its session in 1860. He then preached at Freeport and Bethel, L. I., the remainder of the year, at Southold, L. I., 1861-62; Riverhead, L. I., 1863-64; Nostrand Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., 1865-67; New Canaan, Conn., 1868-70; Hamden, Conn., 1871; Freeport, L. I., 1872-74; Port Chester, N. Y., 1875-77; New Rochelle, N. Y., 1878-80; East Pearl Street, New Haven, Conn., 1881-83; New Britain, Conn., 1884; Ansonia, Conn., 1885-87, and Torrington, Conn., 1888, until his death.

He was an eloquent preacher, a fluent and convincing writer, and a man whose everyday life and example added greatly to the weight of his words. He truly believed and practiced what he preached; a kind, loving husband and father, a true friend and adviser, a fearless, noble example of American manhood; his good deeds live after him.

He was engaged under the U. S. Christian Commission in the Civil War in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina from April, 1863, to August, 1864. On his return north he entered the Concord (N. H.) Bibical Institute (now a part of Boston University) where he graduated in 1866. He joined the New York Eastern Conference of the M. E. Church and preached at Flatlands, N. Y., Madison, Conn., and Maspeth, N. Y. In 1871 he was transferred to the Oregon Conference, where he went in August, 1871, preaching first at Eugene City and later at Hillsboro, where his health failed and he was unable to continue in the ministry.

After spending some months at Wilhoit's Soda Springs he removed to Yreka, Cal., in June, 1874. Here he worked for the American Bible Society summers and taught school winters for about two years. From here he removed in the fall of 1875 to Davis Creek, Modoc Co., Cal., where he located on some land to which he has added considerably since that time. For some years after locating here he taught school during the winter months and lived on his ranch during the summer, also doing work on the frontier for the Nevada Mission. After the death of Mrs. Hammond he came east and is at present (1903) living with his sister at Gilboa, N. Y.

(IX) Rev. Albert O. Hammond, (Rev. Mowbray S.[8]) b. Coram, (L. I.) N. Y., June 19, 1841 ; r. Hackettstown, N. J.;

m. April 14, 1868, Mollie E. Duff, b. ——— —, ——, dau. of ———, of ———, Conn.

He was a student in Wesleyan University when the war broke out but left college and enlisted with his brother, Wilbur F., in the 6th Regt. N. Y. Cav. (an old regiment then in the field) in August, 1862. They were sent to the front without any previous drill, without horses or arms, at a time when our forces were continually retreating before the enemy. In the confused state of affairs they were unable to reach the regiment and for some time were dependent for food on what they could beg in passing through an enemy's country. They were just out of school, unused to exposure, and health soon gave way under such hardships and their time was spent most drearily between hospital life and convalescent camp. They suffered from disease which would soon have terminated their lives had not influential friends interposed, obtaining a discharge for Albert and for Wilbur admission to the invalid corps.

After his health was sufficiently restored he completed his college course, graduating in 1865. He then entered the ministry of the M. E. Church, but after preaching a few years bronchial troubles compelled him to resign. He then served a number of terms as professor of Greek and other branches in different seminaries. His life work has been principally done in Centenary Collegiate Institute, Hackettstown, N. J., where he had been engaged about twenty years when the seminary building was destroyed by fire in Oct., 1898. He is now teaching a private school during the interim until until the new building is completed. They have no children.

(IX) Wilbur F. Hammond, (Rev. Mowbray S.[8]) b. Coram, (L. I.,) N. Y., Sept. 11, 1843; r. Santa Paula, Ventura County, Cal.; m. Nov. 20, 1867, Cornelia A. Wood, b. ——— —, ——; dau. of ——— and ——— Wood, of New York City.

He had just graduated from Poughkeepsie Commercial College when he enlisted with his brother, Albert, in the army. After his health failed, and he was admitted to the Invalid Corps, he served as clerk in the hospitals at Annapolis, Md., and afterward was transferred to the War Department at Washington, where he remained until the close of the war. He then attempted to conduct a mercantile business in New York City, but his health had been undermined by his life in the army, and he was compelled to seek a more congenial climate in hopes of prolonging his life. He has since made numerous changes of residence, and finds the climate of California the best adapted to his health.

George H. was too young for army service but one of the first to volunteer as a teacher of the freedmen. He was sent out under the auspices of the American Missionary Association. He was first sent to Virginia where he had a taste of "Ku Klux" methods. One cold night in Feb., 1865, he was called from his bed and on going to the door was confronted by a band of masked men, one of whom holding a pistol to his head angrily demanded that he should promise to leave the country in twenty-four hours or die on the spot. Though only a mere boy he possessed considerable firmness of purpose, and after repeated threats, finding that they could not intimidate him, they collared him and took him to the river, about a mile distant, where they tried the effects of ducking him in the icy waters, holding him under until nearly strangled, and then raising him up and trying to make him promise to leave. Finding him incorrigible they finally let him go, doubtless thinking the mile's walk in his icy clothing would complete their fiendish purpose. The society, deeming his life unsafe in that locality, assigned him to a new field, much to his regret. He afterwards graduated with honor at Wesleyan University and from New York Medical College in 1873. He is a successful physician at Freeport, N. Y., where he has practiced many years.

(IX) Edward Wells Hammond, (Hervey[8]) b. Lewisberry, Pa., Dec. 30, 1835; d. Wimer, Oregon, April 29, 1900; un-m.

He early became a close student and a great reader devoting every spare moment to his books. Upon the death of his father in 1855 he took charge of the window spring business, which was left to him by will, and conducted it successfully for several years. While in this business he still found time for study and travel during the summer months. One of these summer trips was down the Ohio River and Mississippi Valley, another through Canada, and another in the Lake George and Lake Champlain regions.

He spent much time visiting the battle grounds of the Revolutionary War and made a special study of that period in our national history. In 1860 he turned the window spring business over to his mother and brother and in the fall left for the Pacific coast going by the Panama route. After some mining experience in the mountains he heard news of the Civil War and the indications of a prolonged struggle, and leaving the mining camp went to San Francisco where he enlisted in the U. S. Navy, Sept. 10, 1862. His service was along the west coast of the United States and South America on board the U. S. ship St. Mary's. He was soon promoted to Coxswain for good behavior.

At Valparaiso, Chili, while the vessel was in the harbor for repairs he saved it from destruction at the hands of a mutinous crew of ignorant and unpatriotic foreigners, who were employed as seamen on board. An account of the affair from his pen was published under the title of "The Valparaiso Incident." After a service of three years duration he was honorably discharged at Mare Island, Jan. 15, 1866. He then attended Willamette University at Salem, Oregon, where he graduated. Like his father and grandfather before him he followed teaching for some years and taught the Indian school at Fort Klamath, Oregon. He was offered the position of Professor of Natural Sciences in one of Oregon's leading colleges and was urged to accept the position, but preferred to follow the scientific and horticultural pursuits to which his later years were devoted.

He soon became an authority on the flora of northern Oregon both from scientific and commercial standpoints. His earnest advocacy of forest preservation led to his election as Vice President of the "American Forestry Association" for Oregon. He contributed many ably written articles on forestry, botany and kindred subjects to leading periodicals, among them being Fruits and Flowers, the Rural Northwest, The Oregonian of Oregon, and Garden and Forest of New York. Among his contributions to the literature of botany and forestry was a very able paper read at the meeting of the American Forestry Association held in Springfield, Mass., in 1895. He was selected as one of the few speakers from the United States at the World's Congress of Forestry of the Columbian Exposition Oct. 18, 1893. He received a diploma for his skill as a botanist from the Exposition.

Speaking of his death the Rural Northwest says: "By his writings he did much to attract attention to the enormous commercial values of the forests of the Cascade range in Oregon. For the past ten years he directed his energies toward the preservation of these forests and their utilization by scientific methods. He was a very modest and unassuming man but a keen, finished and forcible writer." Among his correspondents and friends were Professor Sargent, of Harvard, Frederick V. Coville, botanist of the Department of Agriculture, Prof. Fernow and many others equally well known in the field of botany and forestry. A collection of his writings on botany and kindred subjects may be found in the library of the National Herbarium, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., where there is also one of his collections of Northern Oregon plants. Another similar collection which he made has been placed in the Museum of the New York Botanical Gardens. At the time of his death he had in preparation a work on the "Forest Trees of Southern Oregon." Like John Muir, the California "King of Outdoors," he made his home among the mountains and forests of Southern Oregon, where he was engaged in fruit raising.

His death resulted from pneumonia after an illness of four days. His home being so far from any town of importance it was impossible to secure the services of a physician until it was too late to save his life. He was a thoroughly honest and upright man and was a member of the M. E. Church. "Although he died thousands of miles from his old home in Pennsylvania, with no kindred present, upon his grave the ladies of the vicinity strewed the flowers that he had loved so well while living."

(IX) Winfield Scott Hammond, (Hervey[8]) b. Lewisberry, Pa., Sept. 11, 1847; r. Lewisberry, Pa.; m. Dec. 25, 1873, Jeanette Starr, b. Sept. 17, 1852, dau. of Reuben T. and Elizabeth (Floyd) Starr. of Lewisberry, Pa.

He attended the public schools, and studied the higher branches at home. Having a taste for reading he made good use of his father's library, and such other libraries as the town afforded. He enlisted in Company I, 192d Regiment, Pa. Vol. Inf., and served in the Shenandoah Valley, and until the close of the war. In 1867 he went to south-eastern Missouri, and engaged as compositor and local editor of a newspaper for about a year, but returned to Pennsylvania and took charge of the window spring business, into which he introduced many improvements. In early life he developed a taste for painting, and spent much of his leisure time sketching places of interest, including many of the scenes of his childhood. In politics he is a Republican, and has twice been a delegate to the Pennsylvania State convention.

(IX) Annie Rhees Hammond, (C. Granville[8]) b. Highland Park, Ill., July 5, 1863 ; r. Highland Park, Ill.; m.

March 31, 1896, Charles Henry Warren, b. Leeds, Yorkshire, England, son of James and Annie (Steer) Warren.

The following account of her marriage is copied from the Highland Park Gazette, of April 3, 1896: "Tuesday evening, March 31, 1896, at the bride's mother's on Central Avenue Rev. Harry W. Reed, of Waukegan, united in marriage Charles Henry Warren and Miss Annie Rhees Hammond. The engagement of Mr. Warren and Miss Hammond was announced during the holidays and the marriage planed for the early spring and though Deacon Hammond's unexpected death would naturally modify their plans, they have done just what any sensible person in the city felt should be done, with Mrs. Hammond and her daughter there alone, it is just what Deacon Hammond, with his large, good sense, would have wished, hence everybody is pleased. Only the family friends were present, but it was a delightful, quiet occasion though in the shadow of a recent bereavement."

Mr. Warren, who is connected with the Nonotuck Silk Co., is a quiet, unassuming, modest young man and an earnest Christian worker. He has been active in the work of the Young People's Societies for some years. Mrs. Warren, who is a lady of rare musical talent and estimable character, has also given much time to the work of the Young People's Societies for church work. They have no children.

(X) Francis Asbury Hammond, Jr., (Francis A.[9]) b. South Cottonwood, Utah, Sept. 15, 1850; d. Yavapai Co., Arizona, April 27, 1876, un-m.

He attended the High School at Ogden, Utah, and obtained a good education, after which he taught school during the winter months and worked on his father's farm during the summer. He was for some time assistant clerk at the "Tithing Office" at Ogden, an institution peculiar to the Mormon faith. He was later sent as a missionary to Arizona where he died.

(X) Samuel Smith Hammond, (Francis A.[9]) b. Sandwich Islands, April 15, 1853; r. Mancos, Col.; m. July 14, 1881, Eleonora M. Sorenson, b. May 4, 1863, dau. of Christian and Sine (———) Sorenson, of Huntsville, Weber Co., Utah.

He is a farmer and stock raiser. He was sent as a missionary to the Navajo Indians, where with a few companions he engaged in trying to civilize and educate these savages, teaching them to be self supporting and independent. These missionaries, Mormons though they were, were building the Indians houses, teaching them that it is against the law to kill their fellow men, and learning them to observe the Golden Rule, in addition to their work of baptizing and confirming them as members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, when they were forbidden to do so by the Indian agent at Ft. Wingate, and compelled to give up their good work. He has also spent over three years as a missionary in the Sandwich Islands, where between five and six thousand people have become converts to the Mormon faith.

She was born while her parents were en route from the Sandwich Islands to Utah and resided with her parents at Salt Lake City and Ogden until 1865, when they removed to Huntsville where she resided until 1885. During her residence in Utah she held many positions in the Mormon Church and was always active in the discharge of her duties. In 1885 she removed with her husband to Mancos, Colo. She now holds the office of State President of the Y. L. M. I. Association.

George Halls came to America, in 1862, with his mother and crossed the plains to Utah by the overland route, driving a team of four yoke of oxen, though but sixteen years of age. He arrived in Salt Lake Valley, Oct. 17, 1862, after a journey of six months' duration. Many hardships and privations were endured during this long journey across the plains.

He remained in Utah engaged in farming and stock-raising until 1885, when he removed to Colorado, where he has since been engaged in the same pursuits. He now holds the office of a bishop in the Mormon Church, having previously held many minor offices.

Mr. and Mrs. Halls have no children of their own, but have legally adopted a son and daughter.

(X) Rev. Daniel H. Overton, (Daniel T.) b. West Yaphank, (L. I.) N. Y., July 28, 1862 ; r. Brooklyn, N. Y.;

m. Sept. 1, 1892, Carrie C. Terry, b. June 6, 1866, dau. of Jonathan B. and Martha Jane (Corry) Terry, of Southold, (L. I.) N. Y.

Mr. Overton was early left to care for himself by the death of his father. He worked on a farm 'till his sixteenth year. Resolved to prepare for the ministery of the gospel he attended the High School at Patchogue and later the South. old Academy and in 1884 entered Lafayette College, where he graduated in 1888, and then entered Union Theological Seminary in New York, where he completed the theological course in 1891. As a school boy as well as while in college he was a very active Christian, commending himself to his pastors and teachers, teaching in the Sunday School, being President of the college Y. M. C. A., as well as prominent in the literary societies and in athletics.

While a student at Union Seminary he had charge of the Good Will Chapel, under the care of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church of New York, preaching there regularly and with great success, receiving into membership about one hundred persons. On graduation he was called to the Bethany Presbyterian Church, Newark, N. J., declined this to become pastor of Emanuel Chapel, under the care of the University Place Presbyterian Church, of New York, where he labored most effectively for about four years, being recognized as an efficient pastor and able preacher, daily in the homes of the people of his large parish, and taking wise and helpful interest in the welfare of his neighborhood. These laborious years in fields comparatively humble fitted him in a remarkable way for his work in Brooklyn, which he has now carried on over six years with large visible results and with a growing impression upon the hearts of his people. His success in the erection of his new church is only a part of what he has done—only the frame of the picture, which includes a congregation enlarged, a church strengthened in its work in the community, and a moral impression in the city of the highest order.

(V) Ephraim Hammond, Jr., (Ephraim[4]) b. Newton, Mass., Dec. 31, 1745; d. Wrentham, Mass., Jan. —, 1786; m. 1768, Sarah Parker, probably dau. of Josiah and Sarah (Hammond) Parker.

He appears to have died insolvent. Adm., (Middlesex Probate, No. 7144,) was granted on his estate Feb. 8, 1786, to Lemuel Brown, cordwainer, of Wrentham, who gave bond with John Walton and Josiah Moore, of Cambridge as sureties. Petition of widow, Sarah, for the appointment of Lemuel Brown, adm., Feb. 6, 1786, dated at Wrentham, Mass. The adm. asked for Insolvency Commissioners, and Timothy Jackson and Joshua Hammond were appointed June 7, 1786. Inventory June 7, 1786, by Lemuel Kollock, John Hall and John Messinger, all of Wrentham, amount £10-11-5, debts £15-9-9. The commissioners' report is on file with the same findings. He was a private in Capt. Craft's Company, Col. Craft's Regiment, Dec. 9, 1776. (Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in War of the Revolution.)

Children:

5889. 1. Elizabeth, b. Oct. 12, 1768.

(V) Samuel Hammond, (Ephraim[4]) b. Newton, Mass., Feb. 2, 1748; d. Wardsboro, Vt., Jan. 4, 1842; m. ———, Mass., ——— —, 1770, Mary Rogers, b. Jan. 28, 1752, dau. of John and ——— (———) Rogers, of ———.

He was one of the party of patriots who threw the tea overboard in Boston Harbor. His grandson, Joseph Hammond now (1900) living at Geneseo, Ill., aged 88 years, says that he has heard him relate the incidents of that historic occasion many times in his earlier years and vouches for the truth of the statement. After the birth of his children Samuel removed to Wardsboro, Vt., where he was one of the first settlers. The family erected mills at what is now West Wardsboro, then called "Hammond's Mills."

Samuel Hammond was a private in Capt. Hopestill Hall's Co., Col. Lemuel Robinson's Regt., Jan. 31, 1776, and served twenty-one days. His residence given as Roxbury. (Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in War of Revolution.)

He was also in Capt. Amariah Fuller's Co., Col. Thatcher's Regt., March 4, 1776, length of service not given; also in Capt. Amariah Fuller's Co., Col. William McIntosh's Regt., March 19 to April 5, 1778, stationed at Roxbury. (Mass. Soldiers and Sailors in War of the Revolution.)

Children:

5890* 1. Samuel, b. May 25, 1772.
5891* 2. Mary, b. ———.
5892* 3. Peter, b. April 9, 1776.
5893* 4. Joel, b. July 13, 1778.
5894* 5. Jemima, b. ——— —, 1780.
5895* 6. Artemus, b. April 3, 1782.
5896* 7. Nathaniel, b. August 14, 1784.

(VI) Eleazer Hammond, (Eleazer[5]) b. Tolland, Conn., July 31, 1776; d. ——— —, ——; m. ——— —, 1797, Leah Stiles, b. Willimantic, Conn., April 25, 1772, dau. of Gould and Delight (Boughton) Stiles, of Willimantic, Conn., and Middletown, Vt. Her father was a very large man, weighing over 350 pounds. He was a son of Samuel and Huldah (Durkee) Stiles, of Boxford, Mass., and Windham, Conn. He had served as a Revolutionary soldier, enlisting at Willington, Conn., in June, 1776, in Capt. Parker's Company, Col. Sage's Regiment, for service in New York. After the battle of White Plains, Oct. 28, 1776, he was ordered to Crown Point and discharged. In May, 1777, he was drafted into Capt. Amidon's Company, Col. Chapman's Regiment, and served as coast guard at New London. He removed with his family, consisting of ten children from Connecticut to Middletown, Rutland Co., Vt., where he was living in April, 1832, when he made application for a pension. He died at Wells, Vt., Feb. 10, 1840. Two of his daughters, Leah and Jerusha, married the brothers, Eleazer and Daniel Hammond. The youngest daughter, Lydia, married Chauncey D. Wolcott, and her daughter, Sarah Wolcott, became the wife of James Hammond, a grandson of Jerusha (Stiles) Hammond. Gould Stiles, Ja., the only son of Gould and Delight (Boughton) Stiles, married for his second wife, widow Laura (Haynes) Huntington, of Middletown, Vt., and her daughter, Laura Huntington, became the wife of Eleazer Hammond, Jr., making the relationship between the two families rather close and complicated. Eleazer Hammond resided in Washington Co., N. Y., not far from Sandgate, Vt. It is not now known when or where he died. A grandson, says of him: "He was a good millwright, and made money rapidly, but left his wife and children with Grandpa Stiles, and went to Albany, N. Y., to drink and talk fast horses." The family removed to Ohio, and later to Williamston, Mich.

(VI) Peter Hammond, (Samuel[5]) b. Newton, Mass., April 9, 1776; d. Geneseo, Ill., April 9, 1878; m. Wardsboro, Vt., Oct. 15, 1802, Charlotte Holbrook, b. Dec. 16, 1782; d. Troy, N. Y., 1856, dau. of Col. Abner Holbrook, a Revolutionary hero.

Peter Hammond's parents removed from Newton, Mass., to Wardsboro, Vt., in 1791, when the country was a wilderness, claimed by both New Hapshire and New York. They were active, enterprising pioneers and took the leading part in developing the new country and erecting saw and grist mills at what was for years known as Hammond's Mills, now called West Wardsboro.

Peter, then a lad of 15 years, was left in Newton with his grandparents for a time and then his mother went from Wardsboro to Newton after him on horseback, the lad walking the whole 125 miles beside her horse on the return journey. He was brought up on the farm amid the vicessitudes of pioneer life and his life was spent on the homestead and in the Hammond mills, which were owned and operated by him for many years.

He was by far the most prominent and influential man in the town in his day, and held local office almost continuously during his residence there. He was for many years Justice of the Peace and held the office of Postmaster for nearly a quarter of a century. In politics he was a Whig and later a Republican. He cast his first vote for President John Adams. He was for many years a devoted member of the M. E. Church and at the age of 100 years he was in the habit of walking to church on Sundays. He was ever a man of simple habits, sober, industrious and frugal. He never used tobacco in any form and rarely knew a sick day.

He removed to Geneseo, Ill., with his son in 1856 and for several years prior to his death had made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Martha H. Taylor. He died at 12 o'clock noon on his 102d birthday April 9, 1878, and his remains were taken to Wardsboro, Vt., for burial. A monument has also been erected to his memory in Oakwood Cemetery at Geneseo. April 9, 1876, Stewart Lodge, A. F. & A. M. of Geneseo presented him with a beautiful gold headed cane inscribed: "Peter Hammond, from Stewart Lodge, No. 92, A. F. & A. M. on his 100th birthday April 9, 1876. Born 1776. Made a Mason in 1799."

The following account of the Centennial 4th of July celebration in Geneseo is from the columns of the Geneseo Republic:

"On breaking up the procession Marshal Campbell escorted President Hammond, who was one hundred years old last April, and as lively, interested and full of American Eagle as a boy; Hon. Charles Dunham, acting vice-president, Hon. Shelby M. Cullom, orator of the day, Hon. E. C. Moderwell, reader, Major J. M. Hosford, toastmaster, and Rev. Mr. Langridge, chaplain, to the grand stand on the Common.

"After order was called by Marshal Campbell, Hon. Charles Dunham, in a few neat remarks, introduced President Peter Hammond, the centenarian, for whom three rousing cheers were given. * * * After the oration there was more music, then the crowd was dismissed for dinner.

"The roasted buffalo was brought on to the Common in a wagon handsomely dressed, but not a slice was hewn from the huge carcass until Col. Galligan, who had given sixteen hours to the roasting of the untamed beast, arrived with the President of the day. A carriage had been dispatched for Mr. Hammond who had returned to his home to remain during the exercises on the stand, the day being excessively hot, and soon the venerable gentleman was taken to the wagon which contained the buffalo. Then the skillful carvers, Messrs. William Godfred and Albert Sickles, in their white aprons and clean linen, mounted the wagon, their long, keen blades glistened a moment in the sunbeams, then descended, and the first and choicest slice of the smoking buffalo was neatly carved and tossed to Col. Galligan who placed it in the hands of the venerable President of the Day, Peter Hammond, who remarked on receiving it that though he had lived more than a hundred years, that was the first wild buffalo he had ever seen and the first buffalo steak he had ever tasted.

"Pleased as a boy, with his slice carefully rolled up, Mr. Hammond was driven back to his home."

(VII) LORENZO HAMMOND, (Daniel[6]) b. Middletown, Vt., March 9, 1805; d. Monroe, O., Dec. 11, 1884; m. ——— —, 1831, Julia Stark, b. ——— —, 1811, dau. of Henry and Priscilla (Harris) Stark, of Batavia, N. Y.

He removed to Ohio soon after 1830 and settled in the town of Monroe, Ashtabula Co., where he lived a respected farmer for more than fifty years. In 1827 he began to write his family history, a portion of which is now in possession of his son, M. B. Hammond, of Monroe Center, O. In it he says: "I was born in on the 9th day of March, 1805, in the town of Augusta," but the name of the state is gone. He says: "When I was nine years old my father, Daniel Hammond, died," and he went to live with his Grandfather Stiles at Middletown, Rutland Co., Vt., and that his mother married again to a man named Fuller.

Lorenzo lost his mind before his death and little could be learned from him about his family except what he had written in his youth. Five of his six sons were soldiers in the Civil War. He was a large man, weighing about 225 pounds, of great strength and power of endurance. He was a strict temperance man, neither he nor any of his sons ever using liquor or tobacco. Both he and his wife were consistent Christians and members of the Baptist Church.

(VII) Sylvester Hammond, (Daniel[6]) b. Florence, N. Y., June 28, 1807; d. Jackson, Mich., Dec. 12, 1893; m. ——— —, 1828, Eliza Button, b. March 11, 1810; d. Locks, Mich., April 2, 1872, dau. of Rufus and Phoebe (Page) Button, of Busti, N. Y.

His father, Daniel Hammond, died when he was but seven years of age, and he went to live with his grandfather, Gould Stiles, at Middletown, Vt., where he lived until he was about fourteen years of age. In the spring of 1828 he married Eliza Button, who removed with her parents from Middletown, Vt., to Busti, N. Y. They emigrated soon after to the wildness in the township of Wayne, Ashtubula Co., O., where they lived until April 1, 1854, when they moved on into the wilderness, going with teams to the township of Locke, Ingham Co., Mich., where he cleared up a farm on which he continued to reside until 1875, three years after the death of his faithful wife. In the spring of 1875 he sold this farm and bought another partially cleared farm in the same township. During the summer of that year, notwithstanding his advanced years, he chopped and cleared thirty-five acres of timbered land. Soon after this, failing health made it necessary for some one to care for him, and his youngest son, Carmi S. Hammond, rented the farm of his father, and went there to care for him. In December, 1890, he went on a visit to the home of his youngest daughter in Jackson, Mich., and while there became so feeble that it was impossible for him to return home. He remained there until his death. He was a man of sterling integrity, respected by all who know him.

(VII) Joseph Hammond, (Peter[6]) b. Wardsboro, Vt., July 9, 1812; d. Geneseo, Ill., May 26, 1901; m. Jan. 22, 1834, Polly Convase, b. Palmer, Mass., March 8, 1812, dau. of Joseph Converse. She d. in Geneseo, Ill., Dec. 23, 1900.

The following obituary notices from the Geneseo Republic give fair accounts of their lives:

Mrs. Polly Converse Hammond died at her home on Main Street in this city Sunday evening, Dec. 23, 1900. Just ten weeks previous at the same hour she had a fall which resulted in the breaking of her hip bone at the joint. The best of medical attention and skilled nursing did not avail to bring about her recovery and death relieved her from further suffering.

Mrs. Hammond was born in Palmer, Mass., March 8, 1812, going with her parents at an early age to Wardsboro, Vt. Here she met Mr. Joseph Hammond and their marriage took place Jan. 22, 1834. The 22d day of the coming January would have been their 67th wedding anniversary. In 1855 Mr. Hammond came to Geneseo and built their present home and in the year following brought his wife and son, John C., and it has been their residence continuously from that time to this. Mrs. Hammond was a woman devoted to her home and before infirmites of age interfered gave much of labor and love to her church work. She was one of the charter members of the Unitarian Church of this city.

The funeral took place at her late home on Wednesday, Dec. 26, at 2:30 p. m., Rev. M. J. Miller assisted by Rev. T. P. Byrnes officiating. She leaves besides her husband one son, John C. Hammond, to mourn her departure. A sister, Mrs. Betsey Sumner, of Toledo, O., survives and was with her during her sickness and at the time of her death.

Last Sunday, May 26, 1901, the spirit of another of Geneseo's pioneer citizens, Mr. Joseph Hammond, passed into the unknown beyond, and in his death Geneseo is called to mourn a highly esteemed and generous fellow citizen. The Hammond Public Library building, which he gave to the township is a monument of his generosity and benevolence and generations to come will enjoy its benefits and bless the kind and noble donor.

He was through life a man of industry. Though in circumstances that did not require manuel labor when he first settled in Geneseo and finding no call at his trade, his desire to have something to do led him to establish a gunsmith's shop, an important branch of industry forty years ago when machine made guns and fixed ammunition were unknown. In the following of this trade he not only found plenty of work for some years but proved a most valuable man to all this section. He was possessed of remarkable mechanical skill. On the 23d of last December he followed to the grave his wife, with whom he had passed nearly sixty-seven years of happy wedded life. Mr. Hammond had been in failing health for some time, but a fall which he sustained on the Tuesday preceding his death hastened the end.

The community sympathizes with the sorrowing son, John C. Hammond, who is thus so soon called to mourn a second time. He has tenderly cared for and attended to the needs of his parents in their declining years devoting his entire time to the performance of a duty than which there is none more sacred. The funeral took place at the late home of the deceased, on Main Street, on Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., Revs. M. J. Miller and T. P. Byrnes officiating. All business in the city was suspended during the hours of the funeral, on request of the City Council, in recognition of the worth and esteem in which he was held.

He went to Wisconsin early in the spring of 1862. In August of the same year he enlisted and served under Gen. Sherman on his famous march to the sea. After the close of the war he returned to Wisconsin and engaged in clearing a farm and farming. Nine years later, being in poor health, he removed to Tennessee, where he engaged in mercantile business for four or five years, after which he built a hotel at Summertown, where he was residing and was postmaster, in 1884.

He was the founder of Summertown, Tenn., which was composed of not more than five or six cabins beside a spring in the forest when he went there in 1877, but by a little judicious advertising and selling land very cheap as an inducement to locate there he soon had a town of over 500 inhabitants, and made the place a summer resort. Having learned the blacksmith's trade in youth and being a natural mechanic he built some wagons and buggies while living in Summertown, and also himself a model bicycle. He resigned the post office Jan. 1, 1886, and soon after removed to his present address.

The following from the Geneseo Republic of June 7, 1901, shows the characteristics of the man:

"For a second time Geneseo is the recipient of a handsome and generous gift at the hands of the Hammand family. Several years previous to his father's death John C. Hammond planned with him the establishment of a hospital for Geneseo. In a quiet and unostentatious manner, characteristic of true philanthropy he set about last week to carry out those plans and submitted his proposition to the physician of the city with that end in view, which in brief was that he would donate $5,000 for the purchase and fitting up of the old Major Allen home, known as the 'Mansion,' on College avenue, the amount not needed for the purchase to be used in putting it in proper condition.

"The physicians immediately took steps toward the purchase of the premises which they have secured at a price of $4,000, leaving $1,000 for alterations and repairs. Mayor Martin has called a special meeting of the Council for Thursday evening, when necessary action will be taken in the matter of accepting on the part of the city. The need of a hospital has long been felt. In making this generous and noble gift Mr. Hammond has demonstrated his love for humanity and his fellow men and future generations enjoying the privilege of the Hammond Library Building and the benefits of the J. C. Hammond Hospital will bless and revere the noble donors, the Hammond family."

PART VI.

DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM HAMMOND

OF WELLS, ME.

(I) William Hammond, b. Yorkshire, England, in 1597; d. Wells, York Co., Me., ——— —, 1702; m. ——— —, ——, Benedictus Gouch.

William Hammond was born in a place called Slymbridge, Yorkshire, England. This place is now called Slaithwaite, the name having been changed for postal reasons some years ago, there being another place named Slymbridge in Gloucestershire. The fact of his having been from Yorkshire is evidenced by a deed given by him to his brother-in-law, John Gouch, in which he conveyed a house, garden and orchard "in a place called Slymbridge, in Yorkshire in Old England." William Hammond and Benedictus, his wife, of Wells, County of Yorke, in New England, planter, deeded lands June 17, 1661, to Bryan Pendleton, of Portsmouth, in the County of Norfolke, in New England. (York Deeds, Book I, folio 108.)

Jonathan Hamonds and John (his X mark) Reede witnessed possession given by William Hammond, and taken by Seth Fletcher, of house and land in behalfe of Capt. Bryan Pendleton August 15, 1661. (York Deeds, Book I, folio 145.)

William Hammond sold lands to William Symonds. (York Deeds, Book I, folio 100.

Joseph Bowles and William Hammond were Commissioners for Wells, York County. (York Deeds, Book I, folio 86.)

Ezekiel Knight and William Hammond, Commissioners, of Wells. (York Deeds, Book I, folio 127.)

William Hammond was legally chosen by the town of Wells for laying out of lands May 24, 1667. (York Deeds, Book II, folio 40.)

Ezekiel Knight was legally chosen by the town of Wells with Goodman Hammond for laying out land in said town. (York Deeds, Book II, folio 41.)

William Hammond and Ezekiel Knight were chosen selectmen of Wells and signed deeds of land April 20, 1668. (York Deeds, Book II, folio 110.)

William Hammond, Commissioner, witnessed a deed of land Dec. 20, 1672. (York Deeds, Book II, folio 127.)

William Hammond and Abraham Tylton were appraisers of the estate of Francis Littlefield, Jr., deceased, Feb. 6, 1674. (York Deeds, Book II, folio 167.)

William Hammond gave a conditional deed of his property, including 400 acres of land, to his son, Jonathan: said Jonathan to care for his father and mother during their natural lives. (York Deeds, Book III, folio 89.)

William Hammond sold lands to James Gooch, Feb. 3, 1667:

"Benedictus Hammond, wife of William Hammond, and Jonathan, son of William Hammond, doe consent to this writing."

[Signed] Wᵐ. Hamond. [Seal.]
Jonaᵃ Hamond.

(York Deeds, Book III, folio 128.)

William Hammond deeds lands bought of Robert Nanny, Nov. 10, 1661. (York Deeds, Book IV, folio 127.)

Ezekiel Knight, Senior, and William Hammond, Commissioners, Feb. 8, 1672. (York Deeds, Book IV, folio 2.)

John Davis and William Hammond laid out land July 9, 1674. (York Deeds, Book IV, folio 3.)

From Volumes in Long Room at the State House, Boston, Mass.:

(II) MAJOR JOSEPH HAMMOND, (William[1]) b. Wells, Me., ——— —, 1647; d. Eliot, Me., Feb. 20, 1710; m. ——— —, ——, Widow Katherine (Frost) Leighton, b. — ——— —, 1633; d. August 15, 1715, dau. of Nicholas and ——— (———) Frost, of Eliot, Me., and widow of William Leighton.

Her father was born in Liverton, Devonshire, England, came to New England in 1630 and settled a few years later at the head of Sturgeon Creek, in the present town of Eliot, Me., where he died July 20, 1663. His wife, whose maiden name is not known, died prior to 1650.

Major Joseph Hammond removed from Wells to Eliot, Me., 1669. In 1671 he received a grant of land from the town near what was called Franks Fort, on the Piscataqua River, and erected a large garrison house or fort, which served as a fortress against the savages during all of the Indian troubles and which withstood the ravages of time for about 150 years before it was finally taken down and removed. He held the offices of Major and commanded the militia for some years.

On account of his extraordinary qualifications for official positions he was almost constantly in office from the time he arrived at his majority until his death. He held nearly all of the town offices, was town clerk many years in succession and held the office at the time of his death. He was a member of the Executive Council of Massachusetts Bay Colony nine years and held the offices of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas and Judge of Probate many years. He was captured by the Indians July 6, 1695, and carried to Canada, where he was treated with great consideration and kindness by the French commandant. In October of the same year he was ramsomed and returned to his home. (Hutchinson's Hist. of Mass. Bay, p. 89.)

Joseph Hammond signed as a witness several deeds of land in 1666, 1674 and 1675. (York Deeds, Book II.)

Stephen Robinson, of Oyster River, assigned land to Joseph Hammond, of Kittery, April 5, 1679. (York Deeds, Book III, folio 46.)

Joseph Hammond, carpenter, of Kittery, was appointed attorney for William Goodhue, Sen., of Ipswich, Dec. 3, 1683. (York Deeds, Book IV, folio 3.)

Joseph Hammond, Sen., of Kittery, bought lands of Martha Lord, widow and administratrix of Nathan Lord, late of Kittery, Feb. 10, 1696. (York Deeds, Book IV, folio 144.)

Joseph Hammond was witness to the will of Charles Nelson, August 7, 1688. (Maine Wills, 1640-1760, p.33.)

He was witness to the will of Edward Hayes and an appraiser of the estate July 2, 1675. (Ibid. p. 65.)

He was made overseer of a trust in the will of John Heard, March 3, 1675-6. (Ibid. p. 75.)

He was mentioned in the will of his "brother-in-law," (half-brother) Charles Frost, Jan. 7, 1690-1, as owning land adjoining his estate, was also given a "pistol and holsters" and made executor of the will. (Ibid. pp. 117, 118.)

He was one of the appraisers of the estate of Samuel Wheelright, Oct. 29, 1700. (Ibid. p. 132.)

Joseph Hammond, Judge of Probate, was witness of the will of Thomas Spinney, made July 9, 1701. (Ibid. p. 135.)

He was witness of the will and an appraiser on the estate of Richard Rogers, Jan. 28, 1701-2. (Ibid. p. 137.)

May 21, 1765, dau. of Joseph and Hannah (———) Storer. He inherited the homestead, near Franks Fort, and lived there during his entire life. He held various town offices; was the Judge of the Court of Common Pleas ten years; Judge of Probate and Recorder of Deeds many years; was a member of the General

Court of Massachusetts seven years, and for 15 years one of the Massachusetts Board of Councillors. (Mass. Civil Lists, 1630 to 1774.)

He was one of the founders of the Congregational Church in Eliot, in 1721, and a consistent member until his death. He also held the office of Colonel of the militia many years.

Joseph Hammond and Hannah, his wife, sold land in Kittery, May 16, 1722. The deed is witnessed by George Hammond. (York Deeds, Book XI, folio 86.)

He was an overseer of the will and appraiser on the estate of Joseph Hill, March 1, 1712. (Maine Wills 1640-1760, p. 176.)

He was an appraiser on the estate of Peter Dixon, April 9, 1718. (Ibid. p. 208.)

He was a witness to the will of William Pepperell, July 19, 1733. (Ibid. p. 351.)

Joseph Hammond was an appraiser on the estate of William Pepperell, Sr., March 18, 1718. (Ibid. p. 198.)

He was a witness to the will of Richard Gowell, Dec. 15, 1729. (Ibid. p. 311.)

Joseph Hammond and Joseph Hammond, Jr., were witnesses to the will, and appraisers on the estate of John Eveleth, Oct. 11, 1734. (Ibid. p. 354.)

He was a witness to the will of, and an appraiser with John Rogers and Joseph Hammond, Jr., on the estate of David Libbey, Jan. 13, 1736. (Ibid. p. 381.)

He was a witness with Joseph Hammond, Jr., and George Hammond, of the will of Matthew Libbey, Jan. 13, 1734. (Ibid. p. 433.)

He was an overseer of the will of Charles Trafton, dated Oct. 12, 1721. (Ibid. p. 572.)

His will, dated August 1, 1751, with a codicil dated Dec. 27, 1752, is found on page 691, Maine Wills, 1640-1760.

Among the papers of Col. Joseph Hammond was found a copy of the following letter written by him in 1733. This letter was communicated to the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, by the late William Fogg, and published in Vol. IX, p. 312.

It contains a thoroughly reliable and authentic account of the males of the first three generations in America and is of great genealogical value on this account:

KITTERY, NEW ENGLAND, March 24, 1732-3.

SIR:—I rec^{d} your favor of y^{e} 24th Jan^{y} and observe y^{e} contents and accordingly send you this to inform you that my grandfather W^m^ Hammond lived at Wells, in this County of York. What time he came there I cannot inform you but he told me how he was born in y^e^ year 1597 and he died in y^e^ year 1702, being 105 years old.

He left two sons viz. Jonathan Hammond, his eldest son, & Joseph Hammond, who was my father; both now dead.

My uncle left only two daughters and died in y^e^ year 1709, in y^e^ 63^d^ year of his age, so that what remains of the name is in my family.

I am now in the 56^th^ year of my age and have now living four sons and three daughters.

My sons Joseph, George, John and Jonathan; two of them are married; my eldest son has three sons named Joseph, John and Elisha and my second son has one son named George; so that the number of males besides myself is eight.

I give you thanks for y^e^ letter and if this be any satisfaction to you I shall be glad and am with due regard

S^r^ Y^r^ Very Humble Ser^t^

Jo^a^. Hammond.

To M^r^. Charles Hammond in y^e^ City of Annapolis in Maryland.

HAMMOND GENEALOGY.

PART VII.

DESCENDANTS OF JOHN HAMMOND

OF NORTH YARMOUTH, ME.

(I) John Hammond, b. about 1710. His parentage is unknown, but he was probably a son of Benjamin Hammond, who was a resident of Kittery, Me., at that time. No records are found to prove this, but the name as then spelled "Hammon" was common in Kittery, and there was a Benjamin Hammon there of right age to have been his father, no record of whose family can be found. A circumstance that points to this conclusion may be mentioned here; both the Webber and Scriggins families were from old Kittery, and it is probable that John Hammond's father removed with these families from Kittery to North Yarmouth. John Hammond was a resident there at the time of his marriage. He died in the army Oct. 14, 1758. He m. Dec. 28, 1732, Patience Webber, of North Yarmouth, Me., b. ——— —, ——; d. July 5, 1776. His marriage is found recorded in North Yarmouth, and is the earliest record that has been found that can be connected with him. The records of the First Parish Church in No. Yarmouth show that John Hammon was admitted to the church Oct. 31, 1742, and removed by death about 1762. His wife was admitted at the same time and removed by death July 5, 1770.

John Hammond enlisten in Capt. Samuel Cobb's Co., Col. Jedediah Prebble's Regt., as a private, from the town of North Yarmouth, April 10, 1758, and served until his death, which was reported to have occurred Oct. 14, 1758. He is credited with 6 months 20 days' service on a muster roll dated Jan. 13, 1759, and his death on the above date reported. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 97, p. 60.)

(II) BENJAMIN HAMMOND, (John[1]) b. North Yarmouth, Me., Jan. 8, 1735 ; d. ——— —, ——; m, July 5, 1758, Sarah Scriggins, b. ——— —, ——.

Benjamin was one of the first settlers in New Gloucester, Me., removing there from North Yarmouth. Mention is made of him that he came to the block house or garrison with his wife, Sarah Scriggins, and there remained until a log house was built on the top of Harris Hill, where he made his home. Tradition shows him to have been a great hunter and scout. He saw much service in the French and Indian Wars from 1755 to 1760.

Benjamin Hammond appears on a Muster Roll, dated Boston, July 5, 1755, of a company in His Majesty's service, under command of Capt. Joseph Ingersoll ; rank, Sentinel ; entered service May 6, served until June 11, 1755. Length of service five weeks, two days. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 93, p. 170.)

His name again appears on a Muster Roll, dated Falmouth, Nov. 26, 1755, of a company in His Majesty's service under command of Capt. George Berry. Rank, Sentinel. Residence, North Yarmouth. Entered the service July 17, served until Nov. 19, 1755. Length of service, eighteen weeks. Endorsed, company in the Eastern Frontier from June 20 to Nov. 20, 1755. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 94, p. 15.)

His name again appears on a Muster Roll, dated Boston, Dec. 22, 1758, of a company in His Majesty's service under command of Capt. Joshua Freeman. Rank, Sentinel. Entered service June 13, served until Oct. 31, 1758. Length of service twenty weeks, one day, with a detachment under Sergt. William Stevens, at New Gloucester. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 96, p. 239.)

His name is found on a Muster Roll, dated Boston, Nov. 17, 1759, of a company in His Majesty's service under command of Capt. Charles Leissner. Rank, Sentinal. Entered service Sept. 11, 1759. Served until Oct. 30, 1759. Length of service, 7 weeks 1 day. Endorsed as scouts eastward. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol, 97, p. 274.)

His name is found again on a Muster Roll, dated Madamuck, Dec. 8, 1760, in a company in His Majesty's service under command of Lieut. Charles Leissner. Rank, Sentinel. Entered the service April 10, and served until Sept. 10, 1760. Length of service twenty-two weeks. Company reported as from Broad Bay and other places. Scouts eastward. (Mass. Arch. Muster Rolls, Vol. 98, p. 272.)

There is a well established tradition that he was commissioned Captain in the Continental Army and died at Ticonderoga during the Revolution. No public records have been found in support of this tradition, but as no other record of his death can be found and the tradition appears in all the lines of his descendants there seems no reason to doubt its accuracy.

His wife was a remarkable woman and one well fitted for frontier life. After Benjamin's death she married, July 12, 1788, a man named Joseph Washburn, who lived but a few years, and she was ever afteward known as "Granny Washburn." She lived to be more than ninety years of age, and many of the tales she told of the early struggles and hardships are well remembered by her descendants.

She was often left alone with her children for long periods while her husband was away on hunting expeditions and in the army, but she had a wonderful faculty of keeping the good will of the Indians, and is said to have not found it necessary to retire to the block house for safety but once. She kept her family together after his death and brought them all up to be honorable, upright people. It is reported that during the cold season of 1816 Granny Washburn was the only one who raised Indian corn in town, which she kept until spring and sold for seed at a high price.

"THE BEECHES," HOME OF DR. CHARLOTTE F. HAMMOND, SOUTH PARIS, ME.

1815, Ruth Hersey, b. Jan. 17, 1795; d. Nov. 11, 1880, dau. of James and Althea (Poole) Hersey, of Abington, Mass.

Both his father and her father were Revolutionary soldiers. He served in the war of 1812. He was one of the first settlers in Lincoln, Me., and asssisted in laying out the town. He commenced his first clearing there in 1824, building himself a small camp and remaining there alone for seven months, during which time he built a log house and made a small clearing around it, cutting and clearing twelve acres of land preparatory for a corn crop the succeeding year. This proved to be labor well applied, the crop selling when ready for market the next year for seven hundred and fifty dollars. In March, 1825, he moved there with his family from Auburn, Me., where he had been engaged in farming about eight years, moving there from Paris in 1816. As an agriculturist he was not excelled by many. He lived to make friends and his word once given was well kept. Both his wife and himself were reared in a new country, largely forest land, yet as well as they were inured to frontier life they may have felt some uneasiness surrounded as they were by wild beasts and savages.

"They were reared in the age when the spinning wheel and the flax wheel and the loom had as conspicuous a place in the house as the piano of to-day. No wonder these relics hold such a sacred place in our memory. Used as a necessity, but still a source of delight, for all hearts were made glad by their use.

"Not alone themselves but future generations also depended on these possessions, and to them we owe our existence to-day. Theirs were noble, useful, peace-making lives. No one ever went hungry from their door or unsheltered on a stormy night."

Benjamin Hammond's buildings in Lincoln were burned June 19, 1845, and with them was destroyed a relic that had been handed down to him from his grandfather, Capt. Benjamin Hammond, of New Gloucester; an Indian musket said to have been found at Yarmouth Ledge after a battle with the Indians. The barrel was four feet nine inches in length and imbeded in the stock were thirteen white beads. "The tradition was that there was one white bead for each white man its owner had killed with it."

His second wife had four children by her former husband, viz.: William Sturgis, of New York; Dr. B. F. Sturgis, of Auburn, Me.; Dr. John I. Sturgis, of New Gloucester, Me., and Jane Sturgis. George Hammond was killed by a train of cars near his home.

"Mr. Hammond was born in New Gloucester, of poor parents, his father being a turner of 'chair stuff,' as it was called, which consisted of the legs and rounds of chairs. He assisted his father when a mere lad, thus learning the trade.

"In his boyhood his parents having moved to Foxcroft, he went to live with his grandmother Washburn, who was the first woman that moved into the town of New Gloucester, and whose husband was killed in the Revolutionary war.

"He went to work at his trade in New Gloucester, and when twenty-four years old married a daughter of Dr. Baker, of Durham, who possessed the desirable qualities for a help-meet for such a young man." (Lewiston Journal.)

He soon after purchased a large tract of land of Capt. Moses Woodman, on which he made a small payment. By frugality and persistent labor he succeeded in paying for the land and erecting good buildings on it, and in later years acquiring considerable wealth. He was a man of great vigor, a strong constitution; very industrious and of strict integrity.

(VI) Dr. Charlotte F. Hammond, (George F.[5]) b. Andover, Mass., Feb. 4, 1855; r. Paris, Me.; un-m.

Miss Hammond was born in Andover, Mass., but accompanied her parents on their return to Paris, Me., a few years later. She attended the common schools of Paris until she was sixteen years of age, when she began teaching. She taught about seven years, interspersing teaching with courses of study at various High Schools and Academies. In 1879, after a short course at Abbott Academy, Andover, Mass., she entered Wellesly College as a special student, remaining there three years. During these later years she was writing short stories for various publications, and in that way earning the money to pay for her education.

After leaving Wellesley she entered Boston University Medical School in 1884. About this time she became connected with the editorial department of the Youths' Companion at a good salary, a position which she has since retained. In 1887 she graduated from the Medical School. During the following summer she had a few patients at her home in Maine, and the desire to establish a sanitarium there followed. She began the work in earnest in the summer of 1896, and has since altered and enlarged the original farm house, until in 1903 she has a well equipped sanitarium, capable of accommodating about thirty guests.

Dr. Hammond has been very successful in her practice, and is justly regarded as one of Maine's successful women.

(VI) Frederick P. Hammond, M. D., (George F.[5]) b. Paris, Me., April 22, 1866; r. New York City; m. Jan. 1, 1894, Elizabeth Helen Van Blarcom, b. May 22, 1869, dau. of John and Emma (Weller) Van Blarcom, of Patterson, N. J.

He attended the public schools at Paris, Me., and Hebron Academy at Hebron, Me. In 1886 he began the study of medicine at the Medical School of Maine, the Medical department of Bowdoin College, but after one year left it to complete the course at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, the medical department of Columbia College in New York City, where he graduated in 1889. In a competative examination with thirty-five applicants he secured the first position at Harlem Hospital, while still an under-graduate. After serving six months respectively in the capacity of Ambulance Surgeon, Junior and Senior Assistant Surgeons, he became House Surgeon of the institution in April, 1891. He left the institution and started in private practice Oct. 1, 1891.

He has held positions of trust respectively as Assistant Instructor in the Department of the Diseases of Women at Vanderbilt Clinic, Medical Inspector of the Board of Health, Attending Gynecalogist and Chief of Clinic at the Out Patient Department of the Harlem Hospital, etc. He is a member of the American Medical Association, New York Medical Association, and in June, 1902, was elected Second Vice-President of the New York County Medical Association. He is also a member of the Alumni Association of the College of Physician's and Susgeon's, Harlem Medical Association, and the New York Physician's Mutual Aid Association.

He has always been active in Masonic circles, being a member of Harlem Lodge, No. 457, F. & A. M., of which he is now (1903) Senior Warden, Sylon Chapter, No. 188, Royal Arch Masons, of which he has been High Priest, Constantine Commandery, No. 48, Knights Templar, where he has served as Captain General and Generalissimo and is also a member of Mecca Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.
